Vol. 100. No. 143. (70th Year). ST. LOUIS, MONDAY, JANUARY 26, 1948—26 PAGES PRICE 5 CENTS

3-DAY BUYERS' STRIKE CALLED AS PROTEST ON MILK PRICE INCREASE

Consumer Federation Takes Action on 1-Cent Rise Announced by Pevely and St. Louis Dairies.

A three-day buyers' strike to protest against a boost in milk prices to a record high by the Pevely Dairy Co. and the St. Louis Dairy Co. has been called by the St. Louis Consumer Federation.

The strike is to start tomorrow, when Pevely Dairy will increase the price of its milk 1 cent a quart, bringing the cost of grade A to 22½ cents. St. Louis Dairy said its increase will go into effect Wednesday.

The Consumers Federation, in announcing the strike, said: "This action is requested of consumers in order that their dissatisfaction with the unjustified high price of milk may be registered."

Families with young children are advised by the Federation not to participate, but they are urged to buy their milk in those stores where it can be bought more cheaply.

"In addition to being an unfair increase to consumers in this area, the new prices are a retaliatory attack on the part of the dairies because of the various investigations now in progress here," the Federation's milk committee stated.

Federal Inquiry.

The milk industry here is under inquiry by the United States district grand jury and the Citizens' Milk Investigating Committee. The Federation, in a recent appearance before the latter committee, contended that failure of the St. Louis milk shed to supply enough milk for the city's needs was because of price policies of the St. Louis dairies.

The Federation's committee said it was "not impressed" with the statement of Arthur F. Kerckhoff, Pevely president, who attributed the increase to a rise in the price in raw milk and by the higher cost of other dairy supplies.

"The increase paid to the farmer, which is cited, is a seasonal increase of only three-fourths of a cent more a quart than was paid to farmers a year ago," the committee stated.

"In December 1946 the dairies paid the farmers $5.18 a hundredweight. In December 1947 they paid $5.53. This increase of 35 cents a hundredweight amounts to about ¾ of a cent a quart more that the dairy must pay.

"However, the price of Grade A milk to the consumer in December 1946 was 20 cents a quart. Now it is going to 22.5. The increased cost of 2.5 cents to the consumer should be compared with the ¾-cent increase to the dairy.

Even on the basis of the December 1946 figures, the federation said, the margin between the price paid to producers by St. Louis dairies and the price to the consumer was the second highest in the country, exceeded only by Chicago.

Dairy Officer's Statement.

Paul Y. Versen, vice president of St. Louis Dairy Co., said today: "We can no longer absorb the increases in our material and supply costs. For example, our average cost for milk in January 1948 will be more than 1 cent a quart above our costs for milk in October 1947.

"Further, our costs for caps, containers, gasoline and practically all other items necessary to process and deliver milk have increased from 10 to 30 per cent since October 1947."

In furtherance of its buyers' strike, the federation urged St. Louisans "to flood their milk dealers" with cancellations, effective tomorrow. At the hearing before the Citizens' Milk Investigating Committee, the federation claimed to represent organizations with a total membership of 115,000 which were interested in the milk situation.

"We urge consumers to buy cash-and-carry milk in paper cartons, now selling for 2 cents a quart less than the delivered price now in effect and 3 cents less than the delivered price will be on Tuesday," the federation stated.

A newcomer among St. Louis dairies—Adams Dairy Inc., 5425 Easton avenue—distributes grade A milk in fiber containers instead of bottles through chain and independent groceries. The retail price is 20 cents a quart, or 39 cents for a half gallon.

In Springfield, Mo., independent dairies have trimmed their milk prices 1 cent, to 20 cents a quart, to meet the competition from Purity Dairy, recently taken over by Pevely Dairy Co. of St. Louis.

Recently the dairies boosted their prices to 21 cents a quart when the Greene County Milk Producers, which supplies most of the dairies in Springfield, raised its prices from $5.30 to $5.70 a hundredweight. Purity, however, kept its price at 20 cents and the other dairies backed down.

Spread in Chicago.

In Chicago, the spread between the price paid by the dairies to producers and the retail price of milk is greater than in St. Louis, but in Kansas City, Mo., the reverse is true.

Grade A milk is selling in Chicago at 22.5 cents a quart, while producers in that milkshed receive $4.96 a hundredweight. In Kansas City, the consumer pays 20 cents a quart, and the dairies give the producers $5.45 a hundredweight.

The Greater St. Louis Retail Food Dealers' Association, which claims to represent 750 retail meat and grocery dealers, has indorsed the buyers' milk strike proposed by the Consumers Federation, it was announced today.

A meeting of the Citizens' Milk Investigating Committee will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Kiel Auditorium.

KOKODA EXPECTED TO BEAT ITS DIESEL RIVAL BY 2 DAYS

Steam Towboat, Leading by 204 Miles, Delayed by Slight Fog.

The steam-powered towboat Kokoda was expected to arrive in St. Louis tomorrow morning, at least two days ahead of its diesel-driven rival, the Helena, to end the race of the two Federal Barge Lines' vessels up the Mississippi river from New Orleans, a line official said today.

The Kokoda, 204 miles in the lead, was forced to tie up to the river bank 65 miles below St. Louis early today because of a light fog that hung over the river, but reported it was ready to proceed through the thin ice with all four of its barges as soon as the fog lifted.

The Helena, meantime, was tied up 89 miles below Cairo, Ill., and unable to continue the race because of a heavy mass of ice in the river at that point. It was unable to move at all after dark last night because the ice had swept away all navigation aids in its vicinity. Although it is equipped with radar, it is not expected to attempt to push upstream after dark, a line official said.

The towboats, each pushing four barges loaded with 10,000 tons of cargo, left New Orleans last Jan. 15. The Kokoda took an early lead when the Helena had engine trouble and increased its margin almost every day as the Helena ran into one difficulty after another.

NEGRO SEEKS COURT ORDER FOR ENTRY TO OKLAHOMA U.

Law School Dean Tells Her He Is Unable to Act on Her Petition.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Mrs. Ada Lois Sipuel Fisher, Negro, asked the Supreme Court today to order the University of Oklahoma to admit her to its all-white law school. The new term begins Thursday.

In a petition filed with the court, her attorneys said an order is necessary if she is to have the benefit of the Supreme Court's recent ruling that Oklahoma must provide immediate law school facilities for her equal to those furnished for white residents.

Since this ruling Jan. 12, Oklahoma has named a three-man all-white faculty to set up a new law school for Negroes. But Mrs. Fisher's attorneys protested that "one student cannot constitute a law school."

Meanwhile, in Norman, Okla., Mrs. Fisher again attempted to gain admission to the established white law school. President G. L. Cross said the application had been rejected, based on the Oklahoma constitution's provision for separate schools for Negroes and whites.

150 WAIFS FREEZE TO DEATH IN SHANGHAI COLD SPELL

SHANGHAI, Jan. 26 (UP)—The bodies of 150 small children were gathered today from doorways and windbreaks where they froze to death in a cold snap that sent the temperature below freezing.

The bodies of the children, 6 to 13 years old, were laid row on row in an improvised morgue. Most of them died Saturday night and Sunday after a vain search for shelter from the chill winds and snow flurries whipping across the city.

The Shanghai Benevolent Society said that no adults perished. The dead children comprised a small part of the city's thousands of homeless waifs.

NEW COLD WAVE ADVANCING ON ST. LOUIS AREA

Low of 10 Degrees Likely —154 Deaths Laid to Frigid Two Weeks Over the Country.

Snow and moderately cold weather is in store for St. Louis, probably through Wednesday, Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren forecast today as a new cold wave moved into the north central states and the east and south continued in the grip of winter.

The cold wave, the third within a week in north central states, dropped temperatures to zero in sections of Iowa, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Coldest spot in the nation today was Watertown, S.D., with 27 degrees below zero. Big Piney, Wyo., was next with 26 below. Zero temperatures nipped into Missouri, with a reading of zero at Chillicothe. It was four above at Tarkio, which has the reputation of being the "icebox" of the state.

Snow Tomorrow.

Snow was general in Missouri today and Meteorologist Wahlgren predicted that snow in St. Louis, which began in the forenoon, would be followed by occasional flurries tomorrow and probably on Wednesday. Low temperature tomorrow will be 10 degrees above zero, Wahlgren said. Highest temperature forecast for tomorrow is 20 degrees.

Snow and smoke cut visibility to half-a-mile in the downtown area this afternoon, and motorists turned on their headlights to cut the gloom. The smoke, most of it blown from the East Side, was classed as "moderate." Visibility at Lambert-St. Louis Field was one mile, with light smoke and snow.

Rail transportation was slowed down by the weather, with trains arriving at Union Station from 10 minutes to six hours late. Air travel was generally on schedule on east and west flights, but there were several cancellations to the south and southwest as the intensity of the snowfall increased.

A low pressure area in the southwest brought snow or freezing rain to Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas. Freezing and near-freezing temperatures extended into the gulf states, and Jacksonville, Fla., had a low of 36 degrees yesterday. At Miami, Fla., however, the temperature registered a high of 83 degrees, with thousands of swimmers and sun-bathers swarming to the beaches.

Skaters in Park.

Sunny skies and a temperature of 31 degrees yesterday afternoon brought hundreds of skaters to lakes in Forest Park and other city parks. The Park Department reported that lakes continued in skating condition today.

Deaths attributed directly, or indirectly, to cold weather totaled 154 in the last two weeks throughout the nation. The dead included 22 from freezing, 107 from fires and 25 from other causes. North Carolina reported six deaths attributed to the cold, South Carolina two and Georgia one.

American Sends Food to U-Boat Captain Who Did Him Favor in War

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26 (AP)—Capt. Konstantin Flink, skipper of American cargo vessels during the war, is sending a food package to Germany to repay a wartime favor of a Nazi submarine commander.

Capt. Flink commanded the Star of Scotland on its last voyage. The trip ended 4000 miles off South Africa on Nov. 13, 1942, when a Nazi submarine shelled and sank the vessel.

Flink stayed behind to destroy valuable papers while his inexperienced 16-man crew escaped in a lifeboat. The submarine, commanded by Capt. Helmut Witte, now a metal worker at Bonn, picked up Flink and took the lifeboat and the crew in tow.

Realizing that the green crew could never make land without their skipper, Witte released Flink after the American promised never to command another ship against Germany. The U-boat commander also gave his prisoners food and water.

The lifeboat brought the men to safety at Portuguese Angola 18 days later. Flink never again commanded a ship against Germany, but the promise did not include Japan and he took over another merchant cargo ship carrying supplies to the Pacific.

Several days ago Flink received a letter from the former U-boat officer.

"Do you recall that, although my orders were to take you prisoner, for the sake of your men I allowed you to go free and we shook hands, saying that after the war we may be friends?" he wrote.

"I shake your hand with this letter and tell you that there is so little food here and it is difficult to care for my wife and two children. Perhaps you could remember our friendship pledge."

Capt. Flink said: "War is war and there were all kinds of men in it. He was a sailor."

TAFT AND STASSEN TO TEST STRENGTH IN NEBRASKA AND OHIO PRIMARIES

Senator 'Delighted' at Decision of Rival for Presidential Nomination to Enter Contest in His State.

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The decision of Harold Stassen to take on Senator Robert A. Taft in the Ohioan's home state in the May 4 primary to choose national convention delegates found Taft supporters ready to force an even earlier test of sentiment for the Republican presidential nomination.

They disclosed plans to make an all-out race in Taft's behalf in the April 13 Nebraska free-for-all primary. That test comes three weeks ahead of the Ohio balloting.

Taft was silent on the Nebraska development, but he said he welcomes the competition on his own grounds where, he insists, Stassen "has no chance for success."

The former Minnesota Governor said in his weekend announcement that he has a high regard for Taft and would have preferred the test to come in some other state.

"But," Stassen added, "the differences between us on both foreign and domestic policy represent the major issues within the Republican party and before the country. It is important that the people have an opportunity to express their views upon these policies prior to the national convention next June."

All in Nebraska Race.

In saying that Ohio appears to afford the only opportunity for such a test, Stassen apparently had in mind that just about everybody who amounts to anything in the G.O.P. presidential contest is likely to find his name on the Nebraska preferential ballot.

This is the result of a campaign to get all of the announced aspirants, as well as such potential dark horses as Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, before the people.

Stassen therefore appears determined upon a head-on test between Taft's policies and his own which he has described as steering a "liberal course in the Republican party."

Stassen said he will not "consent to the filing" of a slate of delegates in New York in opposition to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. He noted that delegates there may run unpledged and said other primaries will test his differences with the New Yorker.

Stassen also asserted that he will not consent to a full slate in Ohio. Specifically, he turned thumbs down on delegates filing in Cincinnati, Taft's home town, or in opposition to Ohio Republican organization officials or Governor. He said there must not be "any attack upon Senator Taft or upon the Ohio Republican organization" but rather a "constructive presentation of the important issues represented by my position on foreign and domestic policy for the Republican party."

Taft Is "Delighted."

Taft greeted Stassen's announcement with this comment:

"I believe that Mr. Stassen has made a great mistake from his own standpoint in filing in Ohio contrary to the usual practice among those interested in maintaining Republican party harmony.

"Of course, he has every legal right to enter the primary, but, if a primary battleground must be chosen, I am delighted he has selected Ohio, where he has no chance of success."

Taft previously had indicated he would not enter any primaries outside of Ohio, but his backers made plain they will put up a fight in Nebraska.

Nebraska has a system under which a pre-primary convention, meeting Feb. 17, indorses candidates for national convention delegates, who then run in the primaries.

When the 15 finally are elected by the voters, they go unpledged to the convention but carry with them the reminder that one of the presidential aspirants topped all of the others in the preferential voting.

GEN. BRADLEY IS NOMINATED FOR ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—President Truman today formally nominated Gen. Omar Bradley as Army Chief of Staff to succeed Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. The Senate must approve the nomination.

The White House did not specify the date on which Bradley would take over. The nomination was made effective on the date of his being sworn in.

There have been reports that Eisenhower wanted to leave about Feb. 1. Eisenhower, who withdrew last week from a possible presidential race, is to take over the presidency of Columbia University after a rest.

Truman made it known months ago that Bradley was his choice to succeed Eisenhower. Now 54 years old, Bradley has been chief of the Veterans' Administration but left that post two months ago.

CLAIMS WORLD MILK RECORD FOR COW THAT DRINKS BEER

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Bridge Birch, a beer-drinking Friesian cow, is the world's biggest milk producer, her owner says.

R. A. Pierson, of Moortown farm, Ringwood, said that on a diet including a half gallon of stout a day, Bridge Birch gave 41,952 pounds of milk for 329 days ended last night. Pierson said the record for 365 days, held by an American Holstein Friesian, was 41,943.

VANDENBERG ASKS FOR INQUIRY IN REPORTS RELIEF IS MISHANDLED

Small Business Group Complains of Use of British Ships, Oil and Wheat Shipments to Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, has asked the State Department to make an immediate investigation of reports that American relief shipments are being mishandled, it was learned today.

The Michigan Republican, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Senate President pro tempore, acted after being told by a business organization that:

1. The United States Government is paying British concerns to transport American relief goods abroad.

2. The United States is shipping "huge quantities" of oil 6000 miles to the Philippines for relief purposes, although, it was said, such products are available much nearer the islands.

3. The United States is sending "tremendous shipments" of wheat to the Philippines, despite reports that the Filipinos prefer rice.

Small-Business Complaint.

This information was furnished Vandenberg and other Senate and House Republican leaders by the National Federation of Small Business.

George J. Burger, director of the Washington office of the federation, revealed that Senator Vandenberg has written him that, in view of the "serious nature" of the organization charges, he has called on the State Department for a complete and immediate investigation.

In addition, Burger said, Senator Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, has placed the federation's data before his committee, which eventually will be called upon to appropriate funds for the Marshall European Recovery Program.

The federation has complained also to Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio, chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee and a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination; Representative Eaton (Rep.), New Jersey, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and other congressional leaders. Taft was furnished the manifests of the vessels involved, which Burger said sailed recently from New York.

Full-Scale Inquiry Sought.

C. W. Harder, president of the Federation of Small Business, in a letter to Burger which was made public here, called on members of Congress to undertake a full-scale investigation, "not only of these items that are going to the Philippines but also the manifests covering all foreign shipments."

Harder charged that Washington "bureaucrats" are deliberately trying to create an inflationary emergency in this country "so they can build up controls."

In a second letter to Burger, not yet made public, he called for an inquiry into reports that relief supplies for Greece are being "siphoned off" and sold for personal gain by individuals. Furthermore, some Greek supplies are being reshipped to the United States and sold back to Americans, he charged. Burger admitted, however, that he had "no factual data" to support this charge.

Gunmen Steal Safe, $10,000 In It.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Four masked gunmen early today took a safe containing $10,000 from Barney's Market Club, a restaurant at 741 West Randolph street. They brushed past a bartender as he opened the door to admit a dishwasher, forced six employes to lie on the kitchen floor and rolled the 500-pound safe out to their car.

POUND WON'T BE DEVALUED, CRIPPS SAYS; CHEAPENING FRANC DISTURBS MARKETS

FRENCH PREMIER DEFENDS FRANC DEVALUATION MOVE

Step Necessary to Avert Economic Ruin and Widespread Unemployment, Schuman Tells Assembly.

PARIS, Jan. 26 (AP)—Premier Robert Schuman, in a declaration to the French National Assembly on the Government's action in devaluing the franc, asserted today that without devaluation France faced economic ruin and widespread unemployment.

More and more deputies, meanwhile, expressed disapproval of the monetary operations and dismay that they were carried out despite strong opposition from Britain and the International Monetary Fund.

Schuman asked the Assembly to authorize creation of a free money market and permit the free movement of gold in France.

The devaluation does not require parliamentary approval, as it was done by cabinet decree.

Despite protests in Parliament, political observers believed the cabinet would gain approval of its two measures by a narrow majority.

Schuman said that if the Government had not devalued the franc and decided on creation of the free money market, France would have been thrown back on American aid alone as a source of foreign exchange.

"Thus the exhaustion of our currency reserves and the halt of our exports would have led to a diminishing of our imports, our supply in certain raw materials would be lowered, French production would decrease, factories would close and workers would be thrown out of work," he asserted.

Jacques Duclos, Communist party leader, followed Schuman to the rostrum. He attacked the Government's action as a reactionary move made under orders from "American imperialists."

In cheapening the franc, this country enabled its exporters, in theory at least, to sell abroad at about half the old prices.

The devaluation, however, threatened to boost prices in

BRITAIN TO TAKE STEPS NECESSARY TO PROTECT RATE, HE ANNOUNCES

Government Securities Dip on Stock Exchange — Other Repercussions in Sterling Area to French Action.

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Sir Stafford Cripps declared today that Britain does not contemplate devaluing the pound despite French action in cutting the value of the franc.

"We do not believe that this will be rendered necessary or advisable," the Chancellor of the Exchequer told the House of Commons. Earlier Government securities had dipped on the stock exchange, reflecting investors' fears that France's action would damage the pound sterling.

Cripps, unsuccessful in efforts last week to persuade France to abandon its devaluation plan, went before the House after attending a special session of the Cabinet. Prime Minister Clement Attlee was received by King George VI. There was no immediate indication of the purpose of the visit.

Talks with French Continue.

France had overridden objections of both Britain and the International Monetary Fund in revaluing its money. The devaluation gave French manufacturers a chance to cut their prices as much as one-half in world markets and consequently threatened British markets abroad.

Cripps did not reveal what steps would be taken to protect the pound. Consultations are continuing with the French, he disclosed.

"In any action that we are compelled to take, we shall, of course, exercise the greatest care not to add to the difficulties of our French friends more than might prove absolutely inevitable," he said.

Cripps pointed out that Britain is responsible to the whole of the sterling area for measures to be taken.

"We must, therefore, maintain our freedom to take any action which may be found necessary," he asserted.

No Bar to Co-operation.

Cripps said the British-French differences on currency devaluation would not endanger western European co-operation, called for last week by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin in a proposal for a union of the western nations.

"This difference of view," he declared, "will not have any effect whatsoever on our sincere and earnest desire to co-operate with the government of France to the fullest extent in the economic as well as in the political field."

Asked by Sir John Anderson, a former Chancellor, if measures had been taken to "minimize the repercussions on other European currencies," Cripps replied:

"I can give that assurance. We have gone into this matter very thoroughly and we have prepared all the necessary steps, I hope. We are now in consultation with the French Government today as to how best they can be applied."

He said Britain will take such measures as may prove necessary "to limit the repercussions on our own currency and the many other currencies in which we are closely interested."

Report on Talks With French.

He detailed his discussions with the French, which started 10 days ago with a visit of the French Finance Minister, Rene Mayer, to London. Britain was willing to accept straight devaluation of the franc, he said, but opposed the French scheme to set up a free market in currency. It is this free market that economists say involves the danger to other European exchange rates in relation to the dollar.

"We told the French Government that if they found it possible to accept a straight devaluation of the franc, without the system of a free market, we would do all we could to help them by immediate discussions for expansion of trade between the franc and sterling areas on that basis," Cripps said.

When the French rejected this offer, he disclosed, the British sought unsuccessfully to have the free market apply only to the repatriation of French capital held abroad and not to commercial transactions.

Cripps said he had assurance from France that the new exchange methods are "of a transitory nature," but that it refused to limit the plan for multiple exchange to a specific period of three months.

Stock Market's Reaction.

In trading on the stock market, investors rushed to "get into gold." The demand forced up the prices of South African gold shares. These shares also opened strong on the Capetown market, indicating a belief that, sooner or later, the pound would be cheaper. It is now officially worth $4.03, but has sold down to $2 in uncontrolled markets.

(Post-Dispatch Correspondent Raymond P. Brandt in an article last November pointed out that the pound, officially pegged at $4.03, was selling in New York

PRIEST DECLINES TO BE CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Seeks to Continue Police Reorganization Work; 4 Left in Democratic Race.

By CURTIS A. BETTS

State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 26—H. Sam Priest, president of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners, today announced that he will not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the governorship. There had developed an extensive demand of state-wide proportions for Priest to enter the race. There was a call from many Democratic leaders to "get the Jefferson City office-holding blood" out of the campaign, and they had picked on Priest as a candidate who would get a big vote in St. Louis and the eastern part of the state and inject new life in the party.

But Priest, after canvassing the situation for several weeks and talking to Democrats in the state as in St. Louis, said today that for business reasons and because he felt an obligation to carry on reorganization work in the police department, he would not run.

Although he brushed aside the suggestion that there might be something in the political situation that had a part in his decision, a number of St. Louis committeemen are said to have given him little encouragement.

More interested in patronage and political favors than in improvements in government, these committeemen seldom look beyond the primary and often risk success in the election to nominate candidates they think will fit in with their ideas of government and politics.

With Priest definitely out of the race, the contest is left to State Auditor Forrest Smith of Richmond, former Attorney General Roy McKittrick of St. Louis, Dan M. Nee of Springfield, and Raymond E. Cox of Centralia. While the lines in the committee are not yet drawn tightly, the committee undoubtedly will divide in its support between Smith and McKittrick. It is not probable that either Nee or Cox will have any material organization support in St. Louis.

The demand for Priest developed quickly at the annual Jackson day dinner of the Democrats in Springfield two weeks ago when it appeared that the race was between Smith and McKittrick. Some influential party leaders, who had a personal dislike for McKittrick, and who seriously doubted that either Smith or McKittrick could win in the November election, gave the Priest boom, which had been one of those things which were just talked about in a minor way, a big boost.

M'ARTHUR SAYS HE WILL NOT RETURN TILL JOB IS DONE

Asserts Only 'Extraordinary Occurrence' Will Bring Him to U.S. Before Then.

TOKYO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today he would stay in Japan until his task is completed, unless called away by some "extraordinary occurrence."

The supreme commander of Allied powers in Japan repeated, on his sixty-eighth birthday anniversary, what he said last year—he wants to return to the United States when his job here is done.

Hale, hearty and erect, MacArthur in an interview did not explain what he meant by "extraordinary occurrence." Nor did he mention efforts in the United States to enter his name as a Republican candidate for the presidency.

There was no reference to a statement broadcast by columnist Walter Winchell in the United States Sunday night that MacArthur would return to America March 15, about two weeks before the Wisconsin primary. MacArthur's office, when asked specifically about Winchell's report, said the general had no new plans to go home.

MacArthur's faith in the Japanese remains as constant and as firm as his handshake. He indicated a firm belief in the righteousness of his course in Japan.

Physically, the five-star general does not look a day older than one year ago. He appeared to be in top physical condition.

His work here has not blunted his interest in world events, but Japan remains his major interest. He has an almost passionate conviction that the principles of human freedom and Christian concepts which the United States espouses will supplant the feudal system in Japan. MacArthur believes that if those ideals take root here, the balance of the Orient will swing, slowly, in the same direction.

One year ago, MacArthur said he was anxious to go home—to let his young son, Arthur, grow up in the United States; to see a baseball game and to renew his acquaintance with his country which he last saw in 1937. That desire is still strong.

MacArthur Backers Continue Pushing Him in Wisconsin.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 26 (UP)—MacArthur-for-President leaders pushed the Pacific commander toward an all-out fight for Wisconsin's 27 Republican convention votes today despite Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's admonition that military leaders should stay out of politics.

Cheaper Perfumes, Wines, Laces From France in Prospect in U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Americans should find more and cheaper French wines, brandy, perfumes and laces as a result of France's currency devaluation move, Government trade experts said today.

They declared that some prices may be down 50 per cent or more. But they cautioned against expecting a quick flood of French imports—especially those "new look" dresses with Paris labels—because:

1. France's supply of goods which can be shipped to this country is still limited.

2. The French, contrary to popular impression, never did ship finished women's clothing here on a large scale. They sold a lot in France to tourists, but the big export item in that line involved the sale only of style rights to American clothing makers.

France's total exports to this country last year amounted to about $48,000,000, far below prewar and even below 1946.

Among French shipments during the first nine months of 1947, when the total value was $36,000,000, big items included: wines $3,200,000; brandy $2,100,000; textile fibers and manufacturers—with fabrics and laces making up the bulk of this category—$8,500,000. Perfume and perfume materials accounted for $2,200,000, antiques and art work $1,300,000, and furs—mostly rabbit furs—about $3,800,000.

NEW SOVIET ENVOY SEES NO BAR TO CO-OPERATION BY U.S. AND RUSSIA

A. S. Panyushkin Urges Increased Trade — Denies Differences Are Based on Divergent Political Systems.

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The new Russian ambassador yesterday called for expanded Soviet-American trade as a step toward better diplomatic relations.

He said the people of both countries "are equally interested" in bettering these relations.

In his first formal interview with an American reporter, Alexander S. Panyushkin criticized the United States Government for what he termed the blocking of trade between the two countries through "discriminatory" regulations.

Ambassador Panyushkin said "American Regulating Trade Agencies" are discriminating against commerce with the Soviet Union despite the desire of "certain circles" in the United States which want to develop and strengthen this trade.

No Specific Examples Cited.

He did not name specific instances of alleged discrimination, but he presumably had in mind the recent tightening of export controls by the Commerce Department.

The newly accredited Russian envoy made these statements at the Soviet embassy in replying to questions submitted in writing by the Associated Press reporter.

Here are the questions and the Russian ambassador's answer:

1. Do you foresee improvement in relations between the Soviet Union and the United States?

A—I consider desirable the improvement of the relations between the Soviet Union and the United States of America, the more so since in the improvement of these relations the peoples of both countries are equally interested.

2. Q—In your opinion are increasingly serious differences between the Soviet Union and the United States inevitable because of differences in the two political systems?

Matter of Co-operation.

A. Foreign policy of the Soviet Union proceeds from the fact of co-existence of two different systems. The president of the Council of Ministers of the U.S.S.R., J. V. Stalin, replying to an analogous question by the well-known American Harold Stassen on April 9, 1947, pointed out that "they—the Soviet Union and the United States—certainly can co-operate with one another. The difference between them is of no substantial importance since the matter in question is their co-operation.

"The economic systems in Germany and the U.S.A. are similar but, nevertheless, a war broke out between them. The economic systems of the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. are different, but they did not fight against each other, and they co-operated during the war. If two different systems could co-operate during the war why cannot they co-operate in the time of peace? Certainly it is understood that if there is a desire to co-operate, then co-operation is wholly possible under the different economic systems. But if there is no desire to co-operate then even under similar economic systems the states and the peoples can come to blows."

Thus, the difference of systems in our countries is not an obstacle to the improvement and development of political, economic and cultural relations between our countries.

Increased Trade Desirable.

3. Q—Do you plan to work for increased trade between the Soviet Union and the United States? What specific commodities does the Soviet Union need from the United States?

A. In the increase of trade between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. both our countries are interested.

As far as the Soviet Union is concerned, it has never refused the development of trade with the United States on the conditions of normal business practice. It is a known fact that in the U.S.A. also there are certain circles desiring to develop and strengthen trade relations with the Soviet Union.

However, at present the American Regulating Trade agencies are applying to trade with the U.S.S.R. measures of a discriminatory character which fact, obviously, not only does not promote the development of trade between our countries but, on the contrary, leads directly to the opposite results.

4. Q—How can the United States best help the Soviet Union rebuild war-devastated areas?

A—As is known, the Soviet Union has a five-year plan of rehabilitation and development of its national economy. This plan proceeds from a full utilization of internal resources of the country. The Soviet people are successfully fulfilling this plan, reconstructing with their own efforts the war-devastated areas. Simultaneously, the Soviet Union is reviving and developing its trade relations with other nations. Therefore, you could find an answer to your question in a normalization of the Soviet-American trade. One cannot help mentioning that the fulfillment of the Yalta and Potsdam agreements on reparations would also have a great positive meaning.

5. Q—As official representative of the Soviet Union on the Far Eastern Commission, can you tell us what you think of the manner in which the commission has supervised Allied policy toward Japan?

A.—As is known, the most important tasks of the Far Eastern Commission, are the prevention of the revival of a militaristic Japan and the democratization of that country. However, in this regard the situation cannot be considered as satisfactory.

Truman Asked to Aid U.S. Woman Reported Condemned by Yugoslavs

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

MRS. EMA DEBELJAK (center), with her children, an 8-year-old son and 10-year-old daughter.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (UP)—Attorney James Donovan said today he has asked President Truman to intervene to aid Mrs. Ema Debeljak, an American citizen, who is reported to have been condemned to death in Yugoslavia because she attempted to return to the United States with her two children.

Mrs. Debeljak, a native of Farrell, Pa., received a passport from the United States Embassy in Belgrade on Feb. 11, 1947, to return to the United States, Donovan said.

"I have it from unimpeachable though unofficial sources," he continued, that on Dec. 12, 1947, Mrs. Debeljak and her niece, Stefa Debeljak, were arrested in the former's house in the city of Srem Mitrovice without process of law as Americans and other civilized peoples understand it and put in prison.

"Her two children, Olivera, 8 years old, and Stephan, 10, were left to be cared for by the neighbors. No one has seen or heard from Ema Debeljak since that day."

Donovan said that Marko Bobbaljik, the woman's nephew, received a telegram in New York Jan. 22 from his sister which said: "Ema and Stefa sentenced to death. Do something right away to stop this."

The State Department has made several attempts to get information in the case but the Yugoslavian Foreign Minister has not replied to Department notes, Donovan said.

RED ECONOMIST IN BAD FOR VIEWS ON CAPITALISM

Wartime Aid to Stalin Holds Planned Economy Can Succeed in Non-Marxist State.

MOSCOW, Jan. 26 (AP) — The Soviet economist Eugene Varga has come under fire in Pravda. He is accused of fostering the belief that a planned economy can succeed in a capitalist state.

Varga is charged with efforts at "reformism" and, what is more, of declining "to condemn his own fundamental mistakes" when his views were brought up for discussion.

Pravda, Communist party newspaper, said Varga's latest book on capitalist economy "is obviously non-Marxian." The book, "Changes in the Economy of Capitalism as a Result of the Second World War," was criticized in the newspaper by Editor-Economist G. Laptev.

Varga's chief critic has been Nikolai Voznesensky, a member of the Politburo and head of the State Plan Commission. The economist's views also have been rapped sharply by the magazine Bolshevik.

Times's Version Given.

(The New York Times said yesterday Varga, wartime adviser to Prime Minister Joseph Stalin, was in disgrace for saying no crisis was ahead for capitalism and urging Communist-capitalist collaboration. The Times reported Varga "has suffered—at the least—demotion," having been deprived of the directorship of the Institute of World Economics and World Politics in the Soviet Academy of Science, with abolition of the institute.

(The Times said this information came from "official Soviet publications" that reached New York last week and were made available "by a Russian Marxist economist who wishes to remain anonymous." The Times added that 20 of the Soviet Union's most important economists are "in disgrace" with Varga for refusing to reject his theoretical positions, and even maintaining some of them despite official pressure.)

The Pravda article said the Journal of World Economy and World Politics had published, as a supplement, a verbatim report on a recent discussion of Varga's book.

"This discussion was held at a joint session of the political economy sector of the Economic Institute of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Science, and the political economy faculties of Moscow State University," Laptev wrote.

"The purpose of the discussion was to ascertain how correctly the problems of contemporary capitalism have been dealt with in comrade Varga's book and the prospects of future development of capitalism."

Laptev said Varga, criticized by some "qualified economists" and defended by others, "did not think it necessary to condemn his own fundamental mistakes."

Varga's View Disputed.

Varga upheld the view, the article went on, that "the bourgeois (capitalist) state has assumed a decisive importance, not only in the war economy, but in the post-war economy."

"It is clear to any Marxist," Laptev declared, "that a thesis about the decisive role of the bourgeois state, even in a war economy, is tantamount to denying the action of spontaneous economic laws on the development of capitalism."

In London, the Soviet news agency, Tass, was quoted as saying A. G. Kalashnikov, minister of Education of the Russian Federation has been relieved of his office.

AVC ASKS FORRESTAL TO BAR SEGREGATION IN U.S. SERVICES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (UP)—The American Veterans' Committee yesterday called on Secretary of Defense Forrestal to eliminate racial segregation from the nation's armed forces. Chat Paterson, AVC national chairman, released the texts of letters from Army, Navy and Air Force heads which he said shows the Navy "is the only branch which is committed to a policy of non-segregation."

5 BILLS REVISING SCHOOL LAWS PUT BEFORE SENATE

Change in Method of Distributing State Aid Not Among Proposals to Legislature.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 26 (AP) — Five bills revamping Missouri school laws were introduced in the State Senate today, the work of a joint school survey committee which spent months on the job.

Still missing was a bill to revise the method of distributing state aid established by a 1931 school law.

Several members of the joint committee were absent at a meeting this morning and Senator C. R. Hawkins (Rep.), of Brumley, chairman, said no action would be taken on pending state aid proposals until the full committee can meet, probably next week. The five bills introduced today would:

Establish six-member boards of education in each county and charge them with the duty of developing district reorganization plans for eventual popular approval or rejection.

Set up a section of district reorganization in the State Department of Education to advise the county boards.

Change the legal school age in Missouri to 5 to 21 instead of 6 to 20, thereby bringing in kindergarten pupils for the first time.

Increase the state payment for transporting pupils from $3 to $5 a month per pupil.

Centralize teacher certification authority in the Department of Education, except that graduates with a degree of bachelor of science in education would receive life teaching certificates from the University of Missouri, Lincoln University and the five state colleges.

The county education boards would have the basic job of shifting district lines to provide more efficient units. The six-member boards would be chosen in April 1949 by the president and secretary or clerk of each school district in a county.

The county superintendent would be ex-officio secretary of the board and the state would pay members' actual expenses.

Within six months after its formation a board would have to study county school needs and devise a reorganization plan, submitting it to the state Board of Education for approval. If approved there the plan would be submitted for popular decision at a county-wide election.

If the state board rejected a county plan, the county board would submit its own plan to the voters, except that no proposed enlarged district could have an assessed valuation of less than $1,500,000 or an average daily attendance of less than 100 pupils.

A majority of votes cast at the election would be sufficient to put the plan into effect.

As an incentive for bigger districts, the state would pay half the cost of new buildings in an enlarged district, but not more than $25,000.

3 IN AGRICULTURE DEPT. WHO TRADED ARE SUSPENDED

Action Effective for 30 Days to Determine if They Used Inside Information.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (UP)—A Department of Agriculture spokesman disclosed today that three department employes who speculated in commodities and had a "chance" to benefit from inside information had been suspended temporarily.

The spokesman said the three employes had been suspended for thirty days while the department investigated to determine whether they used inside information.

The department refused to identify the employes. A spokesman said, however, the supended employes were on previous "trader lists" published by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. The names of more than seventy department employes have appeared on such lists.

HOUSE INQUIRY TO OPEN SOON

By EDWARD A. HARRIS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—"Spectacular" market operations by Government employes will be disclosed when the House special committee on commodity speculation holds open hearings soon, committee Chairman Andresen (Rep.), Minnesota, told reporters today.

With the hearings of the Senate appropriations subcommittee recessed until further notice, after the face-to-face encounter between presidential aspirant Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota and Edwin W. Pauley of California, special assistant to Secretary of the Army Royall, the House group prepared to take over the spotlight.

Andresen declined to give reporters any concrete hints, but said such material has been received by his committee in response to subpenas sent to commodity brokers and to individuals. 'Big names are involved," he said, "and in due time will be made public."

Asked by the Post-Dispatch if his investigators have been in St. Louis, he replied: "They are not there now, and I don't know if they've been there in the past—we have them scattered in so many places."

He said he had no "leads" on any clients of A. G. Edwards & Sons, of St. Louis, the brokerage firm which last Friday was cited by Stassen as one worth investigating by the Senate subcommittee. Spokesmen for the firm have told the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis that only one federal employe was on the list of Government traders it sent to the Department of Agriculture. This was a small trader. Stassen and his research aids declined to elaborate on the recommendation that the transactions of the company be aired.

Meanwhile, Chairman Ferguson (Rep.), Michigan, of the Senate group made clear that he has not finished with Pauley. He told reporters the committee has not had time to analyze Pauley's trading records, and that further open hearings will be held sometime in the future.

Pauley said he would appear again "any time they want me."

Stassen Calls for Restrictions on Speculation.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Jan. 26 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen called today for a complete revision of governmental purchasing policies, with sharp restrictions on speculation in scarce commodities.

Stassen outlined a program under which Government officials would be barred from speculating in commodities affected by Government purchases or decisions.

He told a noon luncheon of Montpelier service clubs that "unwise governmental purchasing" directly contributed to the sharp rise in food prices in the latter part of 1947.

REGRET AT FRENCH MOVE EXPRESSED BY FUND OFFICIAL

Belgian Says Step May Cause World Trade 'Distortions' — No Effect on Marshall Plan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (UP)—The International Monetary Fund voiced fear today that the devaluation of the franc may cause world trade "distortions" but said it is considering no "special action" against France.

The Fund's criticism was expressed by Camille Gutt of Belgium, chairman of its executive board, which had raised certain objections to the French move.

"I regret the French decision and so does the Fund because it may reflect on international cooperation," Gutt said. "I am wondering what will happen to the Fund's authority if France succeeds with its plan."

The fact that the Fund did not take an even harsher tone was said by well-informed sources to stem from British and American influence.

Despite their own opposition, Washington and London were said to feel that too strong condemnation of the French Government would be unwise since its co-operation is vital to the success of British-American plans for western Europe.

First Break in Fund.

The French decision to devalue the franc from 119 to 214 to the dollar in international trade marked the first major break between the Fund, which works for stabilization of world currencies, and one of its members.

Gutt said the Fund would continue to discuss the problem with the French in the hope of getting "modifications" but added: "I do not think the Fund contemplates any special action against France."

He said the Fund was especially concerned that dollars and other currencies earned abroad at the devalued franc rate would be thrown into the fluctuating "free money market" which is to be established in France.

"This, Gutt said, "entails the risk of serious adverse effects on other members of the Fund."

It was reported that Britain and the United States, in opposing the devaluation, were principally concerned lest other western European nations try similar plans and succeed only in complicating the financial stability of the area a time when all efforts are being made toward stabilization and recovery.

State Department Comment.

State Department Press Officer Michael J. McDermott said Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder and Under Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett were in "close touch" with the United States director of the Fund before the Fund issued its statement regretting the French action.

"This Government," he said, "has endeavored throughout this period of consultation to view with utmost sympathy the great efforts which the French Government is taking to establish the stabilization of the French economy and is confident that the French Government will apply its new foreign exchange measures in close collaboration with the members of the Fund so as to reduce to the minimum any adverse consequences."

In response to questions, McDermott said:

"We should make it clear that the United States heartily approves an adjustment in the Franc at the present time. Although we may not approve of all the details, we do like the idea of devaluation."

Gutt said yesterday the French Government had informed him it did not contemplate withdrawing any further money from the Fund. The French Government already had withdrawn $125,000,000 of its $525,000,000 quota, thus practically exhausting all funds it is entitled to for many months. No member of the fund can draw more than 25 per cent of its quota within any 12-month period.

No Marshall Plan Effect.

France's move appeared to have had no effect on the Marshall plan of aid to Europe or on France's chances of getting a share of it.

But it was widely accepted here as a hard blow at the future of the still-infant Fund, and there was definite concern among officials lest it touch off a scramble by other countries to do the same thing in order to get a trade advantage.

American Administration officials said this Government would go ahead with present plans for France in the European recovery program, hopeful that France and the Fund will solve their differences before the aid program begins.

Senator Taft of Ohio, a leader in the Republican-dominated Congress that will determine the fate of the $6,800,000,000 aid program proposed by the Administration, called the French action "one necessary step toward economic recovery in France."

Text of International Monetary Fund Statement on Devaluation

Here is the text of a statement in Washington yesterday by Board Chairman Camille Gutt of the 46-nation International Monetary Fund on France's devaluation of her currency:

THE French Government has engaged in full and frank consultations with the International Monetary Fund regarding a plan for exchange adjustment, which would require the approval of the Fund.

The essential features of the plan were the following:

The par value of the French franc would be reduced by 44.444 per cent which would result in a change in the rate from approximately 119 francs per United States dollar to approximately 214.

At the same time, a discriminatory multiple currency practice would be introduced whereby United States dollars and certain other currencies which can be readily sold for dollars would be bought and sold in a market inside France at fluctuating rates which would differ considerably from the new par value.

French exporters would be permitted to sell in this market one-half of their export proceeds in the designated currencies, the other half being sold to the French monetary authorities at the official par value. French importers would be permitted to buy in this market the designated currencies needed to pay for non-basic commodities.

In addition various "invisible" transactions would be authorized to take place in this market including exchange transactions of tourists, capital transfers and other non-commercial remittances.

The Fund agreed with the French Government that a change in the par value of the franc was necessary, and indicated that it was prepared to concur in a devaluation of the franc to a realistic rate which would be applicable to transaction in the currencies of all members of the Fund. In this connection, the Fund has noted with satisfaction the budgetary and fiscal measures directed at internal monetary stabilization which France has taken in recent months.

The Fund gave careful consideration to the proposal to establish a market in convertible currencies along the lines indicated above. The fund had no desire to be rigid or doctrinaire in its approach to this matter, particularly in view of the abnormalities of the present situation. Despite serious reservations regarding a system involving fluctuating rates the Fund explored various alternatives designed to meet in so far as possible the objectives of the French authorities. The Fund was not, however, able to agree to the inclusion a market with fluctuating rates of any part of the proceeds of exports, as in its judgment this entailed the risk of serious adverse effects on other members of the Fund, without being necessary to achieve the trade objectives sought by the French authorities.

The Fund felt that there would be scope for competitive depreciation by the application by one country of a fluctuating rate on exports to one area while other rates remained stable and other countries maintain the parities agreed with the Fund. Such a system, operating in an important trading country, would encourage trade distortions and might cast unwarranted doubt on the real strength of many currencies through the apparent discount applied to them in the French system.

The Fund feared that the widespread adoption of such a system would result in exchange uncertainty from which all members of the Fund would suffer. While recognizing the difficulties of the French position, the Fund felt that the solution must be found through co-operative efforts to place currencies on a sound and stable basis.

The French Government found that it could not accept the modification of its proposal suggested by the Fund and has now informed the Fund that it has decided to go forward with its proposal notwithstanding the objections of the Fund. The Fund regrets this action by a country which collaborated so effectively in the Fund's establishment and whose co-operation has been a valuable asset.

The Fund will continue to work with France in seeking a modification of these exchange practices in order to meet French needs within the framework of the international monetary arrangements established by the Fund agreement.

COLUMBIA OFFICIAL ENDS LIFE

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 26 (AP)—Erne T. Ray, 40 years old, secretary of the municipal water and light department here, shot and killed himself at his home here shortly before noon today.

Ray, who had been missing since he walked out of the water and light department office at 9 o'clock last Monday morning, returned to his home last night ill and in a daze.

The union started its negotiations with Armour & Co. Jan. 23 and will meet this week with Swift & Co. and next month with the Cudahy Packing Co. and Wilson & Co.

RESERVE BOARD WARNING ON STILL HIGHER PRICES

Urges Steps to Control Inflationary Factors—Favors Restraint on Bank Loans.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—A Federal Reserve Board analysis said last night that further inflation and still higher prices are inevitable unless steps are taken to control the situation.

It declared that "continued inflationary developments can lead only to severe reaction, unemployment and financial loss later."

The board's monthly bulletin said that a "basic essential" of heading off such economic trouble is to restrain further increases in the total of bank loans. Any appreciable increase in loans, the bulletin said, "can lead only to the further bidding up of prices."

The article indicated that rationing and price controls would be among a "variety of measures" required in "any adequate program" for dealing with inflation. It did not mention the program of voluntary business agreements authorized in the anti-inflation law passed by the Republican controlled Congress.

Congress so far has not acted on the Reserve Board's proposal that it be given further authority to restrain bank lending.

Today's analysis summarized the situation as one where demand for goods and services, swollen by high incomes supplemented by accumulated savings and easy credit, continues to exceed the supply of goods and services available at present prices.

Furthermore, it said that little increase in that supply appears possible in the near future since production and employment have about reached the limit.

The Federal Reserve System, a heavy buyer of Government bonds in recent weeks, expects to buy "further substantial amounts" through the next two months, the monthly bulletin of the Federal Reserve Board said last night. It explained that tax collections of the Treasury during the period will drain deposits from the banks.

"As a result," it added, the banks will "need to sell securities or to borrow in order to maintain their reserve positions," meaning the percentage of checking deposits the banks must keep with the Federal Reserve banks instead of using for loans.

"The reserve system, therefore, will be called upon to purchase further substantial amounts of Government securities in this period. . . . The necessity for banks to sell securities to maintain reserves should be a factor restraining further credit expansion."

SUPPORT FOR NEW LAND USE POLICY URGED BY VALLEY MEETING SPEAKER

Iowa Congressman Seeks to Place It Under U.S. Soil Agency — Cites Need for Action to Uphold Marshall Plan.

Support for a new land use policy, now under consideration by Congress, and its placement under the United States Soil Conservation Service was urged today by Congressman Ben F. Jensen of Iowa before the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Association.

The two-day conference began today at Hotel Statler with an attendance of about 500 delegates from 23 states of the Middle West and South.

Jensen asserted that without a unified attack on the problems of soil erosion and water conservation, this nation could not meet its obligations under the Marshall Plan and, in fact, would have difficulty in feeding itself by 1960. He said the Soil Conservation Service was the agency best fitted to handle the agricultural aspects of the Missouri basin development.

The war-inspired impetus toward industrialization in South America has given rise to a new middle income class there with the beginning of a new buying power, Robert H. Brown, general agent, import and export traffic, Illinois Central Railroad Co., told delegates.

That buying power can find an outlet in the United States only to the extent we provide dollar exchange through purchases from South America, he pointed out. He advised American manufacturers to send export representatives to that hemisphere and otherwise treat that market with the same consideration they give the domestic market.

Proposed Canal Discussed.

The proposed $23,000,000 sea-level ship canal from deep water in the Gulf of Mexico to the port of New Orleans would save time and shipping costs, make possible a Gulf naval base and promote safety of travelers, W. R. Herestein, executive director of International Center, Memphis, Tenn., told the delegates.

A continued increase in the productive capacity of the Mid-Continent area served by the port of New Orleans makes necessary a more dependable route to the sea than is provided by the Mississippi river with its fogs and shifting channels, he said.

Congressman Walter C. Ploeser of the Twelfth Missouri District told delegates of the steps taken by the House Small Business Commiteee to remove the Federal Barge Lines from Government operation. He said potential purchasers had been found for both the Mississipi river and Warrior river units.

Aid Plan "Threat" to Trade.

The transportation features of the Marshall plan, as outlined by President Truman in his message to Congress last Dec. 19, constitute a "threat" to the American Merchant Marine, Congressman Hale Boggs of Louisiana told the opening session today.

Asserting that he supports the Marshall plan in principle, not from humanitarian motives or because of economic advantages which might accrue to the United States, but "from the selfish, unaltruistic motive of our own national security," Boggs said the plan provides that the United States turn over 500 vessels from the reserve merchant fleet owned by the country to the 16 foreign

Address by Macleay.

Lachlan Macleay, president of the association, in his opening address, told the delegates that a movement now under way in Washington, D. C., to establish a new Federal Public Works Department, to which all the work of the Army Engineers would be transferred, is "a serious threat to all flood control and navigation projects."

"There are two sound reasons why flood control and navigation projects should remain under direction of the Army Engineers," he said. "First, to transfer these public works to a newly created federal department would deprive the nation of some of its best engineering talent. Also, it would take away from the Army Engineers that organization's best peacetime training."

Wheeler on Flood Control.

Lt. Gen. R. A. Wheeler, chief of engineers, spoke of the magnitude of the job of co-ordinating flood control with navigation improvements and auxiliary benefits along the Mississippi river. With respect to the Missouri river and the vital need of water for irrigation in the upper basin and the equally important need of flood control in the lower basin, he said: "The comprehensive plan currently authorized for the Missouri—and currently under way at an accelerated rate of progress — is designed to meet these pressing basin-wide demands."

The future of Nebraska and the entire Midwest depends on the success or failure of the Pick Sloan Plan, Gov. Val Peterson of Nebraska told the delegates at today's opening session. While pointing to the need of water for irrigation in certain parts of the Missouri basin, he warned Missouri river interests against indorsing any action which would hamstring the development of navigation on that river. The city of Omaha, he said, has earmarked $250,000 for barge terminal facilities in that city in anticipation of continued navigation on the river.

V. Adm. William W. Smith, chairman of the United States Senator John L. McLellan of Arkansas will be the principal speakers at a banquet tonight. Speakers tomorrow will include Don McBride, secretary-manager of the National Reclamation Association; W. G. Sloan, chairman of the Missouri Basin Field Committee of the Department of the Interior, and Brig. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, division engineer at Omaha.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 26 —Recommendations to put into effect two long-sought reforms in criminal court procedure were adopted today by the Missouri Supreme Court's drafting committee on criminal practice and procedure.

One proposes elimination of mandatory severances on application of a defendant jointly charged with others in felony cases, by establishment of a rule giving the trial court discretion on whether separate trials will be granted.

The other proposes a sharp limitation on right of lawyer-legislators to obtain continuances in criminal cases.

The proposed new rules will be submitted to the Missouri Supreme Court for approval under its rule-making powers conferred by the 1945 Constitution. If adopted by the court, the rules will have the effect of law.

Separate Trials.

The rule pertaining to procedure in granting separate trials for two or more defendants jointly charged with a felony was proposed by Richard K. Phelps of Kansas City, chairman of the drafting committee, and supported by Franklin Miller, former St. Louis Circuit Attorney.

The rule provides that if it appears that the defendants or the State may be prejudiced by joint trial, the court may in its discretion grant severances. Under an existing law, which the rule would supercede, a separate trial must be granted merely on application of a defendant.

Miller told the committee mandatory severances put the prosecution at a disadvantage because it must reveal its case at the trial of the first defendant. It gives those who are to be tried later for the same crime an opportunity to "arrange for the disappearance or illness of the State's principal witnesses, or to otherwise tamper with them."

Commissioner's View.

Henry J. Westhues, a Supreme Court commissioner and a member of the drafting committee, expressed doubt as to the advisability of the proposed rule. He said it might result in the conviction of innocent persons who were forced to stand trial with other defendants. "It may work in the cities," he declared, "but I don't think it is needed in the country."

Phelps and Miller proposed the new rule striking at the practice of some lawyer-legislators in accepting employment in criminal cases for the sole purpose of obtaining continuances.

An existing law has been interpreted as requiring courts to grant continuances if a lawyer representing a defendant files an application in which he asserts that he is a member of the General Assembly in attendance at legislative sessions.

The new rule gives the court discretion in granting continuances if the lawyer-legislator is not the first or the only counsel employed by the defendant. However, if the court finds that the legislator has been hired for the purpose of obtaining a continuance, the application must be denied.

Man Robbed of $48.

Rayford Horton, Negro restaurant operator of 2928 Chouteau avenue, was robbed of $48 last night by two Negroes who accosted him as he was walking in Montrose avenue, near Chouteau, he reported to police. The robbers one of whom carried a pistol, fled through an alley after getting his money.

DIRECTOR RATHBONE EXPLAINS VALUE OF MUSEUM'S SATYR

$19,000 Work Only One From School of Michelangelo to Reach U. S.

St. Louis has acquired "a unique masterpiece heretofore beyond the dreams of American museums" in the marble satyr fountain figure purchased for $19,000 by the City Art Museum, Director Perry T. Rathbone said today.

The 1200-pound figure is "the only representative of the school of Michelangelo to reach the United States," Rathbone said, "and as such its purchase price is extraordinarily low."

"Its creator, Fra Giovanni Angelo Montorsoli, achieved his masterpiece in this work, executed about 1540 while he was the brilliant pupil and collaborator of Michelangelo," Rathbone explained. "St. Louis's satyr is listed by authorities as a superlative example of the realistic sculpture inaugurated by Michelangelo as the greatest achievement of the high Renaissance period."

The purchase price was called "a trifle high" by Deputy Comptroller Ray C. Schroeder when the city recently got the bill. The satyr will be shown to the public in about two weeks, Rathbone said, "as soon as a suitable mounting can be devised."

RECORD $1,754,783 EXPENDITURES IN '47 IN LEVEE DISTRICT

The annual report of the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, published today, showed a record expenditure of $1,754,783 in 1947, due largely to heavy payroll expenses during last summer's floods.

Receipts from the district, which comprises parts of St. Clair and Madison counties, including all of East St. Louis, totaled $1,868,910. There was a balance of $441,814 on Jan. 1, 1947, making a total of $2,310,724 available to meet district expenses. The balance last Dec. 31 was $555,941.

The levee district payrool continued to pay off to county politicans and some of their relatives and friends, the report showed. Approximately 35 of the 88 Democratic precinct committeemen of East St. Louis were still on the payroll at salaries ranging from less than $100 a month for watchmen and laborers to $150 for higher sounding titles. Some of those on the payrools have other jobs, or operate businesses of their own.

The high employment months were July, when 717 men were employed to fight the floods; and last February, when the usually low winter payroll jumped to 250 employes. The bitter East St. Louis primary election was, held in February.

"When the levee district filed its fiscal report last May County Judge C. C. Dreman refused to approve it because he considered the designation of projects too vague. Judge Dreman has never approved the report, but has since required monthly reports, which were approved.

CHICAGO COUNCIL VOTES TAX RISE TO BOOST SCHOOL PAY

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (UP)—The city council late today passed a tax levy to finance public schools, removing the threat of a teachers' strike tomorrow.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (UP)—The City Council's finance committee today approved increased school taxes as the first step in removing the threat of teachers' strike scheduled for tomorrow. The City Council was expected to pass the increased levy later today, in which event two unions representing the teachers said they would call off their scheduled strike.

The council's finance committee had balked at approving the school board's budget for 1948, and as a result teachers have received no paychecks since Dec. 19.

The budget provides wage increases for the teachers and remodeling of several schools. It is $23,000,000 higher than last year's budget and is the highest in the city's history.

$250 ROBBERY BY PICKPOCKET

C. M. Pendergraft, operator of a filling station at 6823 St. Charles Rock road, St. Louis county, was robbed of $250 yesterday by a Negro pickpocket, he reported to the sheriff's office in Clayton.

Pendergraft said he was checking the oil in the Negro's car when the man picked up a rag and started to wipe soot off Pendergraft's back. After the man had driven away, Pendergraft said he discovered his wallet, which he had carried in his hip pocket, was missing. The money was in the wallet.

3 MEN KILLED, ONE HURT IN AUTO CRASH ON HIGHWAY

Youth in One Vehicle in Collision Near New Florence Thought to Be From Clayton.

Three young men, one of them thought to be from Clayton, and a student of the University of Missouri, were killed in a head-on collision of automobiles today on United States Highway 40 near New Florence, Mo., 75 miles west of St. Louis.

Papers in pockets of the dead bore the following names:

Berkeley Kirschmann, 22 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kirschman, 6442 San Bonita avenue, Clayton, a university student.

James W. Throckmorton, 30, said to be a resident of Maine.

Maxwell Gibbs, 18, address unknown.

The Missouri State Highway Patrol reported an automobile apparently driven west by Kirschman crashed against an eastbound automobile in trying to pass another westbound machine during a heavy snowstorm.

A man identified as Louis Lawson, 21, Negro, of Columbia, Mo., and thought to be in the eastbound automobile, was critically injured. He was taken to Callaway County Hospital at Fulton.

The man tentatively identified as Throckmorton died on the way to the hospital at Fulton. The others were said to have been killed outright. Bodies were taken to an undertaking establishment at nearby Montgomery City.

The elder Kirschman is manager of the Kirschman Millinery Co., 1412 Washington avenue. At the office of that firm is was stated that the younger Kirschman left by automobile for Columbia this morning. The father left for Montgomery City on hearing of the accident.

POLICE AID SOUGHT TO KEEP EMPTY MILK BOTTLES SAFE

The Milk Package Exchange, an association that collects and washes milk bottles and returns them to the dairies whose names appear on the bottles, has asked police to watch for persons illegally transporting or breaking bottles.

Karl P. Spencer, attorney for the exchange, owned by the larger St. Louis dairies, said there has been a marked decrease in the number of bottles returned recently and that many of the bottles have been shipped out of the city.

Police Chief Jeremiah O'Connell ordered copies of Missouri laws that prohibit the sale, possession or use of registered bottles posted on bulletin boards at all districts.

ST. LOUIS IS 34TH AMONG CITIES IN AID FROM STATE

Only $377,000 in 1946—$163,942,000 to New York, $26,599,000 to Detroit.

St. Louis ranks thirty-fourth in a list of the nation's top cities, of populations exceeding 250,000, in the amount of financial aid it receives from state government, it was reported today by the St. Louis regional office of the Department of Commerce.

The report was based on a pamphlet entitled "Large-City Finances in 1946" which was compiled by the Bureau of the Census and made public by Charles E. Brokaw, acting director of the regional Department of Commerce office.

In 1946, the report states, St. Louis received $377,000 in state aid. The only other major cities which were down at the bottom of the list were Kansas City, Mo., with $155,000, and Houston, Tex., with $41,000. Memphis, Tenn., received $934,000 or considerably more than St. Louis, although Memphis is classed in the 250,000 to 500,000 population bracket while St. Louis is in the bracket from 500,000 to 1,000,000.

Figures compiled for the same period in other cities showed $163,942,000 received by New York; $9,240,000 by Chicago; $4,446,000 by Philadelphia; $26,599,000 by Detroit; $3,852,000 by Los Angeles; $7,379,000 by Cleveland, and $12,673,000 by Baltimore.

Boston was paid $20,624,000 by the state of Massachusetts; Pittsburgh received $1,166,000; San Francisco, $9,546,000; Milwaukee, $11,940,000; Buffalo, $1,166,000; New Orleans, $2,706,000; Minneapolis $3,285,000; Cincinnati, $5,155,000, and Newark, $5,864,000.

he study indicated wide variation in the relative importance of revenue sources. While city-imposed taxes provided nearly three fourths of their total general revenue in 1946, the proportion ranged from less than one half for Denver and Jersey City to 85 per cent for St. Louis, Kansas City and San Antonio.

A bill which calls for distribution of half of the state income tax collections to St. Louis, the 114 counties in Missouri and other cities and towns of more than 250 population, was introduced in the Legislature earlier this month. Under the proposed distribution formula, backed by Republican leaders of the House, St. Louis would receive about $2,500,000 a year and St. Louis county and its municipalities, about $1,000,000.

SAFE WITH $1500 IN IT STOLEN FROM MO. PAC. COMMISSARY

Theft of a 250-pound safe containing $1500 from the second-floor office of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co.'s commissary at 605 South Rankin avenue was reported to police yesterday by William Zervogel, commissary superintendent.

Entrance was gained by breaking a window and the safe apparently was carried downstairs and out a door, Ziervogel reported. Three bills of the old, larger size were included in the money taken. The bills were in $1, $5 and $20 denominations.

Morton Terms Opponents to Fair Don Quixotes Tilting at Windmills

Chairman Lists 6 Objections He Says Are 'Non-Existent or Created by Misinformation.'

Leaders of opposition to a 1953 World's Fair in St. Louis were characterized today by Stratford Lee Morton, general chairman of the fair committee, as "modern Don Quixotes cantering out to do battle with windmills—windmills either non-existent or created by misinformation."

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the St. Louis Section, American Society of Civil Engineers, at York Hotel, Morton listed the "windmills" as follows:

1. The suggestion that fair planners propose to raze existing dwellings during the present housing shortage.
2. Statements that Forest Park, the proposed fair site, would be left in other than a much-improved condition.
3. Statements that the fair would cause financial embarrassment to the city.
4. Concern expressed by hospitals of the Washington University Medical Center, across from the park, that the fair would create traffic problems and objectionable noise.
5. Suggestions that present unsightly slums and other eyesores would not be removed by 1953.
6. Suggestion that the city "buy the horse before the cart" by concentrating on slum clearance and other improvements before planning for a fair.

Reply to Editorial.

Morton's mention of the "cart-before-the-horse" suggestion referred to an editorial in Sunday's Post-Dispatch entitled "Let's Buy the Horse First." The editorial expressed belief that the idea of a fair was "ill-advised and dying a natural death," but pointed out that public discussion growing out of the idea had been wholesome in that it "has caused citizens to take a fresh and objective look at their city." The editorial suggested that "the real challenge to civic leadership" was "first to attack the decay from which the city is suffering."

Commenting on the editorial, Morton said: "It is suggested that our committee would want to place the cart before the horse. Surely St. Louis should buy many horses—which should be in the form of horsepower placed, not in front of a cart, but behind bulldozers or steamshovels so that the present slums which exist could be expeditiously removed. St. Louis is not a one-horse town and this is not the horse and cart or buggy age. If modern machinery is used to develop and build a modern city by everybody pulling together for that purpose, St. Louis might well play host to many visitors in a fitting celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Louisiana Purchase.

Work of Committees.

Describing the work of various committees on the question of holding an exposition, Morton said they had been motivated chiefly by "a desire to implement the work of the City Plan Commission and the riverfront group and to improve, if possible, the city's financial position and aid in its municipal plans."

The approach, Morton asserted, has been first, to find the facts; second, to focus on the facts; third, to face the facts, and fourth, to follow the facts.

"It has been very amusing to see," Morton said, "on the eve of the presentation of these committee reports to the large citizens' committee, various modern Don Quixotes cantering out to do battle with windmills — windmills either non-existent or created by misinformation.

"For instance, the windmill that suggests that any responsible group of citizens would destroy modern dwellings in this period of housing shortage to erect a World's Fair without being absolutely certain that there was sufficient housing to take its place. The only justification for this windmill conception is the fact that the site committee reported on a location, as one of the 12 best studied, on Oakland and Kingshighway, and that the newspapers, in order to have a concept to follow, procured a study made by one of the members of the site committee some six months ago, before the site committee was created and before this man was a member of it.

"No committee has given sanction to any concept or to any location, and no committee would be party to the destruction of any housing. The concept previously printed, which was suggested by the Chamber of Commerce, particularly showed that there would be no residences in the area set out. There could be no outline of an area decided upon until a full survey had been made. This has not yet been done."

Bond for Park's Restoration.

On use of Forest Park for the fair, Morton said that if that site were finally chosen a bond would be written to guarantee restoration and improvement of the 300 acres in the southeast corner which would be used.

"It would be interesting," he continued, "to know whether some of these Don Quixotes are consistent in lending to a private corporation one-fourth of the 300 acres suggested for $6000 per year, when one of the evening papers figured the value of the whole area at $15,000,000—or the original cost of the Louisiana Purchase. One per cent of one-fourth of this value would be $37,500."

Morton referred to use of a tract on the south side of the park by Triple A golf club. The club pays the city $15 a year for each of its approximately 450 members. Comptroller Louis Nolte and other city officials have announced opposition to a fair and particularly to use of Forest Park and the adjoining area on the south.

Discussing possible financial embarrassment to the city, Morton asserted:

"The facts would show, I believe, that if a fair were held here, the Federal Government, the state of Missouri and the city government would all receive much more revenue from taxes than would be invested by any citizens voting to make such investment or contribution towards the success of a world's fair."

TOWN ATHLETIC CLUB RAIDED; LIQUOR SEIZED

4 Booked Suspected of Selling Without License After Officers Are Served.

The manager and three employes of the Town Athletic Club, 4385 Maryland avenue, were booked suspected of liquor violations early yesterday after detectives of the police liquor squad and a State Liquor Control agent were served several drinks in the club.

Acting on complaints that liquor was being dispensed without a license, Detective Sgt. Adolph Jacobsmeyer and other officers went to the establishment Saturday night and found a party in progress. There was music by a three-piece orchestra, and about 70 persons were dancing and drinking, the officers reported. Jacobsmeyer said he signed a tab for drinks for himself and his companions, and was informed by the waiter that the bill would be mailed at the end of the month. The police observed a customer at the next table obtain a bottle of whisky by the same process, they said.

Edward J. Noerper, manager, told the officers club members pooled funds to buy drinks, but later said members furnished their own liquor. He added that an application for a state liquor license had been refused. The police seized 40 bottles of liquor, displayed on a back bar, and reported that 25 cases and 42 bottles of assorted liquor were under lock in a closet.

Noerper, who lives at the club; two bartenders, Frank T. McGee, 6909 Bradley avenue, and Cecil Crossan, 8975 Forest avenue, St. Louis county, and a waiter, George Black, 4207 East North Market street, were ordered to appear in police court Feb. 10 on charges of selling liquor without a city license. Police also will seek warrants charging the four with selling liquor without a state license. All were released on bond.

Last July Noerper was fined $10 in police court on a plea of guilty of operating a restaurant in the club without a permit. The fine was stayed after it was explained that Noerper was not aware a permit was necessary, and a permit was obtained from the Board of Public Service.

$1400 Damage in Home Fire.

A defective flue caused a fire yesterday in a three-story double building at 3137-3139 Sheridan avenue with damages of about $1000 to the building and about $400 to the furnishings in the rooms of two third-floor tenants, firemen said.

NAVAJO LEADERS THUMBPRINT NOTE OF THANKS FOR AID

"We Will Never Forget This Kindness — May You Live in Beauty."

GOULDING'S POST, Monument Valley, Utah, Jan. 26 (AP)—A thumbprint-signed letter, expressing the gratitude of a "nation within a nation," was addressed today from tribal leaders to thousands of Americans who in recent weeks have sent food and clothing for needy Navajo Indians.

"The Navajos want their names on a paper," the letter said, "to send thanks to our belacana (white) friends that heard about our hunger and cold and sent food and clothing from away off. It is very good with us. We will not forget this kindness."

The letter closed with a traditinonal blessing: "Maybe you ride in beauty, may you live in beauty."

Beneath a succession of inked thumbprints moved down the page like seals on an international treaty, each print the signature of a Navajo leader. The signers, representative of more than 350 Indians, gathered here to dictate the letter to trader Harry Goulding for translation into English.

Goulding received 450 letters containing just under $1000 in small donations for him to convert into medical supplies, clothing and food.

POUND WON'T BE DEVALUED, CRIPPS TELLS COMMONS

for $2.60, in Paris for $2.52, and in Geneva for $2. In the British commonwealth and colonies the selling prices were a little higher and at times at par.)

London newspapers, reporting the pound in jeopardy, said the break in Government bonds wiped out millions of pounds in market values. Market sources attributed this break to lack of demand rather than general liquidation. There was a sell-off, however, in the early trading. Most other sections of the London market were quiet.

Any lowering of the pound's value would mean that Britain would have to put up more pounds for purchases abroad. That would imperil the Labor Government's entire recovery program.

Price cutting in foreign markets was suggested in many circles as a means for Britain to protect the pound and its economic recovery program, with its emphasis on greatly increased exports.

Repercussions of the French move were felt throughout the sterling area, the world's largest trading bloc.

Directors of the Bank of Denmark went into closed session. In Capetown, where the Rand stock exchange opened active and sharply higher, market sources said investors obviously felt that devaluation of the pound must come sooner or later. The same trend was noted on the Cairo exchange.

The Paris stock market as a whole was calm. French Government bonds, gold and free currencies showed declines. Many French industrial and international stocks were higher.

On the New York foreign exchange market, buyers bid .47½ of a cent in the first sales of francs at their devalued rate, which is 214 to the dollar or .47 of a cent, but French money was strong in Switzerland—that is, it took more Swiss francs today to buy French francs than it did last week. The Argentine Central Bank cut the value of the franc almost in half.

Press Views of Paris Move.

The Conservative newspaper Daily Mail, commenting on Britain's new economic difficulty, said the Labor Government "have based their policy on a planned economy which deprived the home market of essential goods in order to satisfy an unknown export market. Suddenly the prospects of this market have become less promising."

The Mail asserted "the devaluation of the franc is a victory for Russian Communism over the West" and "could lead to a currency war" among the western nations.

"Only one hope remains," it added. "It lies in swift and substantial aid under the Marshall plan."

Hugh Dalton, who resigned two months ago as Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared creation of a French free market for currency means "a return to prewar chaos."

"We have here a direct threat to the stability of the pound sterling," he said in an article in the London Daily Herald.

The Communist London Daily Worker said "the franc devaluation crisis has shown that the necessary economic foundations of a western European bloc are naught but shifting sands."

The Communist organ compared the French move with recent monetary changes in Russia, where it declared "the ruble has been smoothly and successfully devalued, rationing ended and production increased!"

PREMIER DEFENDS FRENCH MOVE IN DEVALUING FRANC

France and provoked opposition from fixed-income groups. The devaluation plan, worked out by Finance Minister Rene Mayer, took effect with its publication today in the official journal.

It was announced last night in Paris, in London and in Washington, headquarters of the International Fund. British Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps and Mayer had talked it over in their capitals and the Fund's board of directors had discussed it in Washington.

The effect of cheapening the franc will be to make the dollar worth more in Paris to foreign buyers, tourists and investors and to spur the country's export industries.

The old franc had one official price in foreign exchange—roughly 119 to the dollar.

The new franc will have two prices. The first has been fixed by the Government at about 214 to the dollar. The second will rise or fall with quotations on a new free-money market in Paris.

There has been no legal free money market here. There has been a black market. The latest quotation there is 337 francs to the dollar.

This is how the new plan will apply to different classes:

French exporters can trade half their dollars for francs at the fixed rate at the Government exchange office. They must trade the other half at the quoted rate on the free market. In any case, they get more francs per dollar; so they can lower the dollar prices of their goods.

French importers bringing in essential goods can get dollars for francs at the fixed rate. Those bringing in non-essential goods must get them at the free-market rate. The Government decides what is essential and what is not. In this way it can apply some regulation of imports.

Foreign tourists and capitalists will trade their dollars for francs on the free market, where they will be worth more than at the old official exchange rate.

In the same proportion as the dollar, the value of the pound in Paris was increased. The old pound was worth 480 francs. The new one is worth, at the fixed rate, 864. Only the dollar and the Portuguese escudo will be traded on the free market. The pound will not.

The gold content of the franc will stay the same. It is 7.47 milligrams of fine (pure) gold. Thus, technically there is no devaluation, although the franc is devalued in reality by the change in its values in foreign markets.

French exports have been slowing down for months, especially in fields such as textiles. Manufacturing costs in inflated francs made prices too high in foreign currency at the old exchange rate and discouraged buying.

In the two weeks of devaluation talk, virtually all orders from abroad have been canceled or suspended. Foreign buyers did not want to purchase what they might have at half-price later.

French automobiles, textiles and perfumes now should become cheaper to buyers with dollars.

The little Renault car has been selling for 167,500 francs. Under the old system, that was $1395. Under the new, it is $636. Its British competitor, the Austin, costs about $1400.

A dress selling for 50,000 francs cost $400 before; at the new rate it should cost about $200.

However, rises in the franc prices at which exporters buy seem likely to impair their ability to cut the dollar prices.

Quality textiles, a French export leader, were up 30 per cent today from their last manufacturers' price to exporters. A tendency toward price rises has been noted also in other lines, where manufacturers have shown they intend to seek their share of the new profits.

French Fear Price Rise.

To the average Frenchman, the Government's action brought fear of another spurt in prices.

The conservative newspaper Le Figaro said:

"Many Frenchmen reason this way: 'The franc is devalued. Therefore prices are going up.'"

Le Figaro said that was inaccurate reasoning but added: "It is a state of mind that can cause exactly the consequences it fears."

The Socialist organ, Le Populaire, was uneasy, too. It said "all dams raised to hold back the rising tide of prices seem very fragile at the moment."

L'Humanite, the Communist paper, describing the move as a sell-out to American capitalists, said it "means we will pay twice as much for our purchases from America, which on the other hand with the same number of dollars will buy twice as much in France.

The French communique on the devaluation, issued by Mayer, said the purpose of the move was "to adapt the value of the franc to international economic realities." Mayer himself told a press conference he considered the International Fund's fears "exaggerated."

The communique gave this explanation of why the plan was adopted:

"The Government, at the time it took office, assigned itself the task of stabilizing French economy. The result could only be achieved by putting into operation an over-all program consisting, in the domestic field, of combatting inflation, and in the foreign field of provisions tending to adapt the value of the franc to international economic realities.

"In having its fiscal and budgetary bills adopted by Parliament, the Government demonstrated its will to fulfill the first part of this program. It now remained to make the necessary arrangements in the foreign field.

"In this regard an adjustment of the exchange rates were manifestly necessary so as to take account of the rise in French prices. The question was one of deciding whether it was better to proceed to a pure and simple devaluation of our currency, or on the other hand to have recourse to a more supple formula better adapted to the circumstances.

"In the present state of French economy it appeared impossible to the Government to define a new exchange rate satisfactory for all transactions abroad, commercial or non-commercial.

"In seeking prematurely to give such a definition of the franc it would have run the following risk: Either the devaluation would have been insufficient, and would not have achieved its purpose; or it would have been too great and would have inflicted an excessive rise in prices and impoverishment of the French economy.

Transition Period.

"It, therefore, is necessary to pass through a transition period, during which at least part of the offers and bids of convertible assets could balance each other in a market where rates are established freely.

"The Government's final aim is, of course, to return as quickly as possible to stability—but to a real and lasting stability, not to an artificially and purely apparent stability.

"It knows that the policy it is following is the best means—considering the difficulties our economy is going through at the moment—of attaining this aim and, in consequence of aiding in the realization of the objectives adopted by the International Monetary Fund. . . .

"The Government knows, furthermore, it is not compromising or hindering through its action the efforts that other countries may make in the same direction while employing different means suitable to their own circumstances.

"It regrets that the International Monetary Fund, although approving certain important parts of the plan, did not consider itself able to accept it in entirety.

"The Government stands ready, through the adoption of technical provisions and co-ordinated procedures of control, to take into consideration the concern which its measures might cause to countries with unconvertible currency, and more especially to our neighbors in Europe.

"The Government is convinced that in taking the stand it is adopting today, and in thus preparing the stabilization of French economy, it is making the best possible contribution to the reconstruction of western Europe, in conformity with the report of the 16 powers."

M'ARTHUR SAYS HE WILL NOT RETURN TILL JOB IS DONE

who served as colonel on MacArthur's staff, sounded the keynote in a broadcast yesterday. He all but ignored Eisenhower's statement.

"It would be unsound to support a man for the presidency of the United States just because he was a military figure," LaFollette said. "But it would be far more unsound to oppose someone who is in every way qualified, solely because he had demonstrated great military leadership."

Wisconsin supporters claim MacArthur as a "favorite son," pointing out he hails from Milwaukee. They have entered a full slate of MacArthur delegates in the primary April 6. MacArthur has not indicated whether he wants the nomination. His supporters interpreted a statement he made regarding "public office" several weeks ago as an indication he would be willing to become a candidate.

Eisenhower Backers to Discuss Merger with Stassen Forces.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (UP)—A spokesman for the national Draft Eisenhower League, Inc., said today that its officers would meet tomorrow with campaign directors for Harold E. Stassen to discuss their merging of forces, and then would disband as a separate organization.

"We will make no attempt to operate as a separate division of the Stassen campaign," he said. "We will disband and close our national headquarters as soon as the corporation's business can be cleaned up."

The Stassen forces moved fast to attempt to get the Eisenhower followers, as six of the seven executive officers of the Eisenhower league announced over the weekend that they had switched their support to Stassen.

Stassen swung into New England in a speaking tour, and William H. Burnam, general chairman of membership and state organization for the old Eisenhower league, headed West to line up support for the former Governor of Minnesota.

Burnham hoped to drum up support in Missouri, with a stop in Kansas City. He will confer with former Gov. Alf M. Landon in Topeka, Kan., and then visit Oklahoma, Texas, Arizona, California, Colorado, Minnesota, Illinois and Michigan before returning home.

In California, the state's Man of the Hour Club leader said his group would continue to work for the draft of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Illinois Eisenhower supporters will decide this week whether they will swing behind Stassen as a body.

In Michigan, Eisenhower supporters meet early this week to disband their organization. Henry T. Gage, state chairman, predicted that the state organization would not support Stassen. Some saw a swing to Senator Vandenberg as Michigan's "favorite son."

Harold G. Holcombe Jr., Connecticut state chairman, said he would support Stassen personally and would urge other Eisenhower supporters to give Stassen their support.

Archibald Girous, Massachusetts state Eisenhower chairman, said, "You can't shift sentiment to another candidate."

Oregon politicians said Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was favored by former Eisenhower supporters in that state.

Wallace Backers in Illinois Set Convention for April 10.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 26 (UP)—The Illinois Citizens for Wallace Committee, an offshoot of the Progressive Citizens of America, pledged to support Henry Wallace's bid for the presidency, tentatively planned today to hold its state convention in Chicago, April 10 and 11. The convention would coincide with a national P.C.A. conference.

At a meeting here yesterday, William Miller of Chicago, state P.C.A. director, said the convention would determine whether to put up a full slate of candidates for state offices in the general election.

Wounded When Cleaning Pistol.

Alvin Richter, 2311 Illinois avenue, Granite City, suffered a flesh wound of the left shoulder when he accidentally discharged a .25-caliber automatic pistol when cleaning it yesterday. He was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City.

9 BILLION OUTLAY FOR SYNTHETIC OIL PROPOSED BY KRUG

Report to Congress Urges 5-to-10-Year Program Be Started Now.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—A nine-billion-dollar outlay over the next five to 10 years to produce synthetic oil and gasoline on a commercial basis was proposed to Congress today by Secretary of the Interior Krug.

"It is clear now that the United States cannot rely exclusively on petroleum to supply all future requirements for liquid fuels and related products," he said in a formal report.

The nation, he commented, already "is squeezed between increasing demand and decreasing productive capacity." And if the international trend toward mechanized economies continues," the proportion of the world's oil available to the United States may diminish markedly," he said.

Setting up a synthetic fuel industry, Krug said, "is far too large an operation and requires too much time to be undertaken under emergency or war conditions."

Krug's report said that to produce roughly 2,000,000 barrels of oil a day, which is less than 40 per cent of the country's present daily consumption, "would require about 16,000,000 tons of steel and the expenditure of around nine billion dollars."

Visualizing the program as 10 times the magnitude of the synthetic rubber program developed during the war, Krug added:

"It should be undertaken now, when the country is at peace, and completed over a period of five to 10 years."

Besides the work already done with oil shale and coal, Krug reported that an ingredient found in corn cobs can be converted into a type of sugar and subsequently fermented into liquid fuels.

GREECE APPEALS FOR U.S. ARTILLERY TO DEFEAT REBELS

Premier Says 500 Mountain Guns Will Insure Victory Over Guerrillas —No Troops Needed.

By DOUGALD WERNER

ATHENS, Jan. 26 (UP)—Premier Themistokles Sophoulis appealed to the United States today for an additional 500 mountain guns to insure success of the offensive against guerrillas.

He said in an interview he appreciated the help given by American officers at the front, but that the Greek Army could make no headway against the guerrillas until the United States sent more guns.

"Speed is needed," he said. "If the guns do not arrive before March, it will be summer before we can launch an offensive. Certainly it will not be possible to complete operations until late summer."

No U.S. Troops Needed.

He said the type of gun most needed in the difficult hill warfare was the 75 millimeter mountain artillery piece. He blamed the lack of a general offensive on the shortage of artillery and said: "Five hundred guns would more than equip the Greek Army." He added: "They (the Americans) promised us such artillery."

He said he saw no necessity for American troops to serve actively with the Greek Army, but he welcomed the liaison officers now advising the Greeks on tactical plans and operations.

He said the guerrillas, who used nine guns in the recent Konitsa battle, were becoming stronger in artillery.

Sophoulis said he thought the next guerrilla operation would come somewhere along the perimeter of the Grammos Mountain area along the Albanian frontier. He said large concentrations of guerrillas had been reported in that area.

Offer to Trade Captives.

Gen. Markos Vafiades, leader of the Greek guerrillas, offered today to free Lucas Koutsopetalos, Liberal deputy, in exchange for the freedom of four prominent Communists held by the Greek Government. Koutsopetalos was kidnaped on the night of Jan. 2 while hunting near Levadia.

In a broadcast announcing his offer, Vafiades said his guerrilla army would not harm any hostages.

The four Communists he named were Constantine Cavrilidis and Dimitrios Hadjibeys, ministers in the EAM-dominated government during the German occupation; Stephan Safaris, chief of the ELAS, the military arm of the EAM, and Alkiviades Loulis, president of the EAM fund collection organization.

The Greek Government posted offers of rewards for the capture of two other leftists, Dimitrios Partsalides and Dimitrios Paparigas, former EAM officers. They escaped recently from Ikaria Island, to which they had been exiled.

LATHERS' UNION OFFERS WORKERS AT OLD WAGE

The AFL metal lathers, whose recent demand for a 25-cent hourly increase resulted in a shutdown of all commercial lathing and plastering jobs in St. Louis and St. Louis county, announced today they would furnish journeymen to any person or contractor who required help. Wages would be at the old scale of $2.25 an hour.

Previously, the union had followed a policy of furnishing lathers through lathing contractors only, Harry J. Hagen, veteran leader of the lathers, said. The change in policy resulted from a notification from the union's international that it could not be a party to any agreement that would tend to create a monopoly.

Hagen estimated, however, that about 75 per cent of the 125 lathers in his commercial union were working at jobs outside St. Louis at wages of about "$5 and $6 a day more than they can get here."

$46,050 COLLECTED THUS FAR IN MARCH OF DIMES CAMPAIGN

Contributions through Saturday to the March of Dimes campaign for funds to combat infantile paralysis totaled $46,050, Robert L. Lund, campaign chairman reported today.

Pointing out the amount was sufficient for less than two months' care for the nearly 1000 polio victims in this area, Lund again urged business leaders, from whom few contributions have been reported, to give generously.

Checks may be mailed to 1741 Railway Exchange building and should be made payable to the March of Dimes, he said.

The March of Dimes booth at Eighth and Olive streets was staffed today by members of the Knights of Pythias while representatives of the stoker industry are receiving contributions at Broadway and Washington avenue. The drive is scheduled to end Saturday.

DECEMBER RETAIL STORE SALES UP 16 PCT. OVER '46

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Heavy Christmas buying sent retail store sales for December to $12,515,000,000, about 16 per cent above that month in 1946, the Commerce Department reported last night.

The upswing in sales from November to December exceeded the normal increase of the Christmas season, the Department said, noting that sales were 226 per cent greater than the 1935-39 average.

Retail store sales for 1947 as a whole were reported by the Department at approximately 118 billion dollars, an increase of about 18 billion dollars over 1946.

WOMAN GETS PHONE THREAT

Mrs. John H. Rudolph, 8520 Kathleen avenue, Affton, reported to the sheriff's office at Clayton that a man whom she did not know telephoned her Saturday and demanded that she put $10,000 on her front porch by midnight, adding that her husband's life wouldn't be "worth a nickel" if she failed. The man also warned her against notifying police.

Deputy sheriffs kept a watch at the residence but the man failed to appear. Rudolph is a machine operator for a wire rope manufacturer.

WOMAN HIT BY AUTO, INJURED

Mrs. Mary Wolf, a cook of 3725 North Twenty-fifth street, suffered a fractured left leg early yesterday when she was struck by an automobile as she crossed North Grand boulevard near Palm street. The driver of the machine fled.

Mrs. Wolf, who is 63 years old, was reported to be in a serious condition at City Hospital. Police learned from her that the motorist stopped briefly after the accident, then drove south at a high rate of speed.

J. PARNELL THOMAS SERIOUSLY ILL AT SEA

Head of Un-American Activities Committee Being Taken to Cristobal, Panama.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Represenative J. Parnell Thomas (Rep.), New Jersey, seriously ill at sea, was being taken to Cristobal, Panama, today aboard the S.S. Ancon.

A message from the ship today said Thomas was "progressively improving" from a malady which struck him at sea. The ship is due to dock at Cristobal late this afternoon.

The message reported the gastrointestinal hemorrhage (stomach bleeding) had been arrested. The 52-year-old Representative is being given constant treatment and attention.

An Army bomber dropped two kits of blood plasma alongside the ship last night, but Capt. David Swinson, the master, radioed the plane crew that it was decided not to stop the ship to pick it up. Bad weather already had delayed the ship.

Thomas, chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, left here Wednesday with Mrs. Thomas. While he did not announce the purpose of his trip, there has been discussion in Washington of alleged subversive activities in the Canal Zone. A Panama dispatch said Thomas was expected to make a one-man investigation of the reports while there.

PLOESER QUITS RACE FOR G.O.P. COMMITTEEMAN

Withdraws in Favor of Howard V. Stephens at Meeting of Party Leaders in City, County.

Congressman Walter C. Ploeser (Rep.), St. Louis, has withdrawn as a candidate for Republican National Committeeman from Missouri in favor of Howard V. Stephens, the Post-Dispatch learned today. Stephens is president of the Johnson, Stephens & Shinkle Shoe Co. here and was an unsuccessful Republican candidate for United States Senator in 1944.

Ploeser's withdrawal from the race came at a meeting in the De Soto Hotel last night. Those present included a group of Republican leaders of both the city and county. The meeting was called by Alfred Kerth, an attorney and former Mayor of Clayton.

F. William Autenreith, chairman of the Republican Central Committee of St. Louis county, who was at the meeting, told the Post-Dispatch that the group "wanted one candidate we could support in opposition to (Barak T.) Mattingly or Mattingly's candidate. We settled on Stephens."

Following Mattingly's resignation as national committeeman from Missouri last November, he directed a concerted movement for the election of Roscoe C. Hobbs as his successor. Some Republican business men have supported Mattingly's efforts to have Hobbs elected without opposition. Hobbs is a member of the State Republican Committee's finance committee and president of the Hobbs-Western Co., dealers in railroad ties and timbers.

When the Hobbs movement did not take hold as fast as leaders thought it should, Ploeser began pushing for the job. Those who originally were in favor of Hobbs apparently lost interest when Hobbs's candidacy did not inspire others to support him and many of them were reported to be in favor of Stephens.

Republican leaders at the meeting last night apparently told Ploeser that he could not carry rural areas of the state if he remained a candidate in view of his attacks on rural co-operatives. Ploeser headed a House Small Business Committee which made an inquiry into co-operatives last fall.

In addition to Kerth and Autenreith, those who attended the meeting last night included Stephens and Ploeser. Autenreith declined to name the other city and county Republican leaders who were there.

Autenreith said Stephens had accepted the candidacy. Stephens could not be reached immediately for comment.

A report current in political circles today that Ethan A. H. Shepley, attorney, would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor of Missouri was met with a denial from Shepley. He said, "I am not in the race and I am not a candidate."

He said that some Republican friends had approached him about running for Governor, "but they were friends and not acting in an official capacity." He added, "I have been considered for the nomination by people who like me, but, understand, there is no big movement on. This is the sort of thing you consider after you've been officially informed by supporters and not until."

HURT IN COASTING ACCIDENT

Donald B. Ivester, 2638 Ann avenue, was in City Hospital today with serious back and other injuries suffered yesterday when an improvised sled on which he was coasting struck a tree at the bottom of Art Hill in Forest Park.

The sled was a 40-by-26-inch piece of tin, formerly a commercial sign. When it gained speed on the trip down the hill, Ivester found he was unable to steer it away from the tree, he told police.

Traffic Cop Coach of Pro Soccer Champs Blows Whistle on Fighting

Begley of DeAndreis Sounds Off

Southerns Are Drawn Against Simpkins In Open Soccer

BECAUSE bad weather in other sectors has delayed the playing of national tournament soccer, St. Louis's two survivors in the National Open competition will be drawn against each other, it was announced today by the Cup Committee. Date of this meeting of the Southerns and Simpkins will be announced later.

Six teams are still "alive" in the Chicago-Milwaukee district and there is similar delay in Cleveland, Detroit and Pittsburgh. In the National Amateur competition, St. Louis has three survivors, Holy Trinity, Simpkins and Steamfitters. In the National Junior race it is Schumachers, the lone local representative.

By Dent McSkimming

Eddie Begley, the robust traffic cop at Broadway and Olive, should be very happy about his DeAndreis soccer club. After getting off to a weak start, his boys have won the St. Louis (professional) Soccer League championship, clinching the title yesterday with a scoreless tie game with the Simpkins club.

But the traffic officer has misgivings. He wanted very much to win the league championship, but he's disappointed about being shut out of both national title tournaments, the Open and the Amateur. And he's disturbed about the fighting that has marked his team's most recent games. Begley, who became one of the greatest center halfbacks ever developed here, was big enough in his playing days to be able to win a point by throwing his weight around, but he always preferred to give his attention to the ball.

Yeah, Give 'Em Gloves.

"You can't play your best soccer when you're looking for a chance to cripple your opponent," sighed Ed. "Players of all four clubs must cut out this rough stuff. If they think they're boxers, they ought to go over to Kiel Auditorium."

Ed gave his team the green light in the two national cup competitions, but they made a sudden left turn on him. In league play DeAndreis defeated each of the other clubs twice and lost only two games, one to Simpkins and one to Steamfitters. But when it came to Cup games Begley's team went down, 6-4, to the Steamfitters in the Amateur and 2-1 to Simpkins in the Open.

Fighting, which resulted in the ejection by referees of Joe Spica, Charley Colombo and Leo Lange, marred the DeAndreis-Simpkins game at Sportsman's Park yesterday.

Steamfitters Win.

In the earlier game on the program which entertained 2500 spectators, Steamfitters outplayed and outscored the Raiders, 2 to 0. There will be another league doubleheader next Sunday, completing the 12-game schedule.

Since the first-game result definitely eliminated the Raiders as a title contender and clinched the championship for DeAndreis, regardless of the outcome of their own game, it was surprising to the fans that this game should have developed into an alley brawl. But one rough charge followed another without any drastic action on the part of the referees, Tom Erbe and Howard Blaisdell. The mob scene, in which almost every player of both teams took a hand, plus reinforcements from the sidelines benches, was a natural consequence. Such good soccer as was tolerated came into the picture after the riot.

"This riotous play must cease," said Walter Giesler, secretary of the Missouri Soccer Commission. "It was obvious that stronger handling of the earlier part of the game would have discouraged the fight-minded players. It was a good game after four players had been put off the field, but that was too late."

It's Spelled S-O-C-C-E-R.

Giesler said the U.S.S.F.A. would take no action until the league has announced its own steps against the players responsible.

Steamfitters, at their best, had little trouble defeating a disorganized Raiders team in the first game of yesterday's program. Bob Sheldon scored a spectacular long shot for the first tally and Larry Kickham clinched the issue with a point from scrimmage. The Raider players milled around the field as though they didn't know how to spell soccer, much less play the game.

Soccer Players Mix in Free-for-All

One of the interludes that made the Simpkins-DeAndreis soccer game at Sportsman's Park exciting: A mass fight in which nearly all 22 players, plus some from the sidelines, took part. Black shirts are DeAndreis players. Left to right are EDDIE DUEKER (who seems to be enjoying it), JOHN FINN, grabbing MATT MUGAVERO, BOBBY ANNIS (sorry he's so late arriving), WILLIE WELSHER (handkerchief on head), JOHN GALIMBERTI (captain of the Simpkins team), CHARLEY COLOMBO with a headlock on HARRY DESMUKE, BILL BERTANI, JOE SPICA (not punching Colombo at the moment), and BOB FUCHS. The ruckus lasted five minutes, three players were ejected and the game played to a 0-0 conclusion.

Bills, 'Going Like 60' in Scoring In Two Valley Games This Week

By Robert Morrison

Phase Two of the St. Louis University basketball season begins this week when the Billikens bring their big offensive guns to bear on Missouri Valley Conference opponents in resuming defense of the league crown won last year.

Solidly situated in the national picture, the Billikens find themselves unbecomingly located next to last in the Valley Conference standings, without a victory and with but 30 points showing on the right side of the ledger.

Nobody, least of all any approaching opponent, is misled by this temporary condition of affairs. It takes only a check of scoring in all games thus far to reveal St. Louis as the top offensive team in the Valley.

Two Top Scorers Meet.

With a 60-point-a-game average for their 10 victories in 11 games against mostly top-shelf competition, St. Louis is virtually 10 points ahead of the nearest Valley rival, Drake, in average scoring.

The Bulldogs of Des Moines, who provide St. Louis with its second conference contest Friday at the Iowa city, have managed a 50.7-point average in winning 10 of 16 games thus far.

Currently the Conference leader, Oklahoma A. & M. is down the line with an average of 44.7 points, a neighborhood that also includes Wichita and Tulsa. Creighton, to be St. Louis's second opponent this week in a game at Omaha Saturday night, brings up the rear with only 35.8 points on offense.

The Aggies, of course, are the one and only stumbling block of the season for the Billikens. A. and M. defeated St. Louis in the Billiken home town and thereby holds a home-court edge in the return game to be played later on.

But Bills' Coach Eddie Hickey has expressed his men's intention to take the Aggie stronghold by storm when the time comes.

Hickey Going "Home" Saturday.

Meanwhile, the more immediate future holds its own problems. Among Drake's standout victories are a pair over Iowa State and Denver.

"Drake is an aggressive, although in-and-out, ball club that could give us trouble," said Hickey. And as for the second game of the week, Hickey expected a "royal reception" at Creighton, where he grew up and coached for many years before switching to St. Louis for this season.

Hickey is convinced the Bills will continue their great showing and, with .400 hitters like Easy Ed Macauley and Lou Lehman, the coach has good reason for confidence.

According to unofficial scorekeeping Macauley's field goal percentage dropped slightly as the Bills defeated St. Ambrose Saturday. Ed now has 59 field goals in 126 attempts for .468. Lou Lehman, high scorer in that game, climbed back above the .400 mark with 38 out of 92 for .413.

3-Goal Murphy In Form, Muny Has Triple Tie

Wilf Murphy, the center forward who scored three goals in a recent national cup game at Sportsman's Park, tallied three times again yesterday as his Southerns defeated the Brehenys, league leaders, in a Senior Open doubleheader of the Municipal Soccer League. Trying to catch up in their league schedule that had been chopped up by national cup competition, the Southerns and Brehenys played two games in one, at Carondelet Park. Each half of the game was given the value of a full game in the standings.

Murphy scored two goals in the first half as his team won, 2-0, and came back with a single tally in the second half for a 1-0 victory. This result, combined with the victory of Santa Cruz, 3-1, over Nooters, threw the league race into a three-way tie. Southerns, Brehenys and Santa Cruz each have 16 points now.

Bosco Boys and Holy Rosary put on their rough game at Fairground Park, as anticipated. Referees Beller and Brown for some strange reason ejected no player from the game although the match was interrupted at least three times by mob scenes. The game ended in a scoreless tie.

McKeever Signs 3-Year Contract To Coach Rockets

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (UP)—The Chicago Rockets, a colossal fizzle in the two years of all-America Conference competition, signalled today they were ready once more to buck professional football's toughest competition—the Chicago Cardinals and the Chicago Bears.

R. Edward Garn, all-America Conference agent temporarily serving as general manager of the Rockets, said the team had found new angels to support it financially in 1948.

He said the new financial setup would be announced before the conference meeting Feb. 14. His announcement yesterday that Ed McKeever, University of San Francisco head coach last season, had signed a three-year contract as Rocket head coach meant the Rockets were set for another year.

Up until yesterday, the Rockets' financial status tied up all efforts to build a football machine for the coming season. Without financial support, Garn had been unable to enter coaching and playing agreements.

McKeever, who resigned from the University of San Francisco Saturday, expressed great hopes for the Rockets' future.

"I believe the team has a great future or I would not have accepted the job," McKeever said. "We are planning to line up a strong group of new talent."

Alton Five Defeats Felds in Loop Game

Schoolboy Jones's 23 points led the Alton Streepers to a 66-48 win over the Felds at the Maplewood High School gymnasium, Sunday afternoon, as the Alton squad whittled a game off the Felds' league-leading margin.

The Alton club took an early lead which they never relinquished and outscored the local team in every quarter.

Player-coach Clarence Hatfield, with 17 points, paced the losers.

The rought second quarter was marked by the withdrawal of a player from each team on five personal fouls and another ejected for fighting.

The Dutch Bar Girls won their first victory of the year over the Zenthoefers, 33-28. Soulard slipped past Holy Family, 24-23.

U.S. Stars Win Titles.

MONTREAL, Jan. 26 (AP)—United States singles champion J. R. (Dick) Leonard of New York won the Canadian singles rackets title here yesterday when he came from two sets behind to whip the British Army champion, Maj. Ronald Taylor, 11-15, 6-15, 16-14, 15-10 and 15-4.

Leonard then combined with another New Yorker, Fred de Rham, to capture the doubles crown. They defeated British stars K. A. Wagg and Maj. Taylor, 14-9, 11-15, 15-10, 1-15, 13-15, 15-8 and 19-17.

Locke's Brilliant Recoveries Give Him Phoenix Open Victory

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 26 (AP)—South Africa's Bobby Locke ran into as stiff a golfing test as any he has faced in winning the Phoenix Open yesterday, but his brilliant recoveries earned him a one-stroke victory over Jim Demaret.

The visitor from Johannesburg went around the 6578-yard Phoenix County Club course in 67-67 in the final 36 holes of the 72-hole test for the $2000 first money.

Locke's 72-hole total of 268 clipped two strokes off the previous mark for the $10,000 tournament held by last year's winner, Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., who finished well back of the leaders this year. Demaret, last year's leading money winner on the PGA tour, made $1400 while the $1000 third place prize was taken by Lloyd Mangrum who stuck close to the other two stars throughout.

Demaret took a three-stroke lead over the other two at the end of the second round and maintained the torrid pace with a third round total of 202. But the pressure got him on the last 18 and he came home with par 71.

In the afternoon, Locke was in almost every trap on the course. But on the par five fifth hole he holed out from a trap and on the eighteenth laid his recovery shot within eight feet of the pin. He said he felt the latter stroke was the best shot he ever made.

In fourth place, each receiving $750, were Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, who finished the first round at 65 to tie with Locke and Demaret, and John Palmer of Baden, N. C., each had 273.

Roberto De Vicenzo of Buenos Aires followed at 276, good for $600, and Lawson Little, Cleveland; Skip Alexander, Lexington, N. C., and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Little Rock, Ark., each took $450 for their 278s. George Schneiter, Ogden, Utah, had 280 for $350.

Grouped at 281, receiving $260 each, were Art Clark, Uniontown, Pa.; Marty Furgol, Los Angeles, and Iverson Martin, Fort Worth, Tex., followed by the 282s including Hogan, Leland Gibson, Kansas City, Mo.; Lew Morsham, Oakmont, Pa.; Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Al Smith of Winston Salem, N. C. Each received $160.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., paced the amateurs with 278.

From here, the golfers go to Tucson, Ariz., where the next tournament is slated to begin Thursday.

Collinsville Retains No. 1 Basket Rating

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 26 (UP)—Collinsville, Pekin and Salem led the pack in United Press downstate prep basketball ratings again today, but Paris fell from fourth to sixth after losing to Lawrenceville.

Lawrenceville's 51 to 45 victory over the defending state champions last Saturday night was the second time this season the Indians have knocked off a club rated above them in the "top 15." They get a chance to make it three when they entertain third-place Salem—only other conqueror of Paris this season—Friday night.

Only newcomer to the favored 15 this week was Danville, which replaced Glenbard in fifteenth place. The Maroons have had an up-and-down record this season but they have showed class and they get an opportunity to prove themselves this weekend when they tackle powerful Mattoon and Kankakee on their home court.

The ratings: Collinsville (14-0); Pekin (12-1); Salem (18-1); La Grange (13-0); East Rockford (15-0); Paris (17-2); Pinckneyville (13-1); Lawrenceville (12-3); Waukegan (10-1); Pana (14-2); Robinson (15-3); West Rockford (11-3); Dundee (15-1); Galesburg (10-3); Danville (12-4).

It was hard to choose among the first three on the list. Collinsville kept its record spotless by downing East St. Louis Friday night, while Pekin and Salem took two weekend victories apiece, Salem whipping Fairfield and Centralia and Pekin beating Peoria Spaulding and Lincoln.

La Grange, a classy Northern club, moved into fourth place as Paris slipped. La Grange slaughtered Downers Grove, 72 to 53, to keep its perfect record intact.

The third major undefeated downstate team, East Rockford, was right behind La Grange, in fifth place with 15 wins and no losses.

Besides Paris, two other top-rated clubs were upset victims Saturday night. Galesburg lost to Moline, 54 to 47, and Robinson was tripped up by Flora, 40 to 32. Robinson dropped from seventh to eleventh in the ratings and Galesburg slipped one notch to fourteenth.

Teams just outside the top 15 included Glenbard, Mattoon, Kankakee, Edwardsville, Arenzville Canton, Decatur, Moline and Breese.

Lauman Bowls 1561 for 7th In 'Petersen'

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (UP) — A field of 56 squads lined up today for another assault on Z'g Starr's mark in the $64,000 Petersen bowling classic.

The squads, each made up of 32 bowlers, hoped to do what entrants have been trying to accomplish since the tourney's opening night—knock Starr out of the lead.

Starr, a 29-year-old Detroit shipping clerk, knocked down 1594 pins the first night of the tournament and has held first place ever since.

There was only one newcomer into the tournament's first 10 yesterday. Hank Lauman, St. Louis, rolled 1561 to move into seventh place.

The tournament, which started Jan. 10, went on a daily schedule Saturday.

The leaders at the start of today's play: Zig Starr, Detroit, 1594; Dan Bilek, Endicott, N. Y., 1581; Zeke Tody, Detroit, 1580; Tom Darazio, Detroit, 1571; John E. Cunningham, Kalamazoo, 1567; Leo Bentley, Lorain, O., 1563; Hank Lauman, St. Louis, 1561; Mike Sarade, Muskegon Heights, 1560; Ray Schultz, Grand Rapids, Mich., 1560; Eli Panttila, DeKalb, Ill., 1556.

Garafalo in Third Place.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (AP) — Ted Callahan of Corning, N. Y., was far ahead of the field today in the Petersen "2 in 1" four-game individual bowling meet after rolling a record 940.

The meet, a sidelight of the eight-game Petersen individual tournament now in progress, is held on week ends and has a top prize of $3000 going to the high score posted before the competition closes Feb. 8.

Observers agreed that Callahan's series of 205, 257, 235, 243—940 had a fine chance of pulling down the grand award after withstanding the challenge of 1406 entries.

Previous high for the tournament was a 908 by Rudy Habetler of Chicago last year.

Sam Saric of Chicago was second with 918 while Sam Garafalo of St. Louis took over third place with 873 on games of 220-227-234-192.

St. Joseph Is School Soccer Title Winner

Center Halfback Bill Leitner figured prominently in the scoring of two goals as St. Joseph's Home defeated St. Teresa in the final of the Parochial Schools Soccer championship tournament, played yesterday at Sportsman's Park. Leitner's corner kick was headed into the Teresa goal for the tying score midway in the second half and his penalty kick scored the winning point near the close of the second overtime period.

More expert supervision by the referees would have made of the final a better game. The penalty kick decision, on which the game was won and lost, was open to criticism. To many observers, the ball struck a defender's hand by accident, not by design. The incident resulted from a sliced kick.

The St. Joseph's team played a better article of soccer and forced the play the greater part of the second half and in the overtime periods.

Celtics Lose Tempers, Shooting Eye; Bombers Easy Winners, 72-54

St. Louis In Second Place Tie

By Bob Broeg

Shamrock-shirted visitors fortunately forgot their shillelaghs, but, begorrah, if they had brought along their sturdy oak clubs the championship chances of the Bombers would have been in jeopardy as they rode the rails to Providence today.

You see, a blunt instrument was the only weapon the short-tempered non-Hibernians of the Boston Celtics didn't use last night at the Arena as they lost to St. Louis's basketball professionals for the third time in three starts this season and the eighth in nine tries over a two-year period. The score was 72 to 54.

If the Celtics cauld have wrapped their hands around something lethal, including the basketball more often, Coach Ken Loeffler of the Bombers likely would have found himself nursing a team of lame and halt players at the outset of an important week's activity. Boston, it must be obvious by now, committed enough mayhem barehanded.

Over for a Touchdown!

One time in the rough game, giant Ed Sadowski, the sensitive-skinned 250-pound center of the Celtics, threw a football hip block at a skeletal structure known as Irvin Rothenberg, who went flying, heels over appetite, and the penalty was a two-shot foul assessed because of a "fragrant violation." Another time, compact Ed Ehlers, the former Purdue halfback, churned full speed into John Logan, who skidded 10 feet on the seat of his red satin shorts.

My, how men can become so exasperated at failure to put a big round ball through a harmless hoop set 10 feet off the floor.

Boston's sense of humor began to take leave early in the second quarter and by the early part of the third period the Celtics wouldn't have laughed if Bob Hope and Bing Crosby had played against Charlie Chaplin and Fannie Brice. In the 12 minutes of the second quarter the visitors hit only once in 27 tries from the floor, scoring a most embarrassing total of four points, and over one 21-minute stretch Sadowski's three baskets represented Boston's only field goals.

Temper, Temper!

As a result, tempers went from bad to worse, and in a 56-foul contest the only reason the Celtics weren't penalized more often and the Bombers less is that St. Louis's athletes wouldn't take a bruise without giving one.

However, by taking an 11-point lead at the half and then following with a 21-point third period, traditionally their best any night, the Bombers found victory a pleasant antidote to their aches and pains.

The St. Louis triumph, dropping Boston out of a three-way tie for the lead in the Eastern Division of the B.A.A., lifted the Bombers back into a second-place deadlock with Washington in the West. And after playing Providence there tomorrow night, Loeffler's athletes will have a chance here Thursday night to make a direct move against the front running Chicago Stags, who will be at the Arena three successive weeks.

The Stags, it must be reported, don't have dispositions or shooting eyes so sour.

BOMBER NOTES.

Sadowski, a large target for the boos and the ribbing of 4309 cash customers, increased his hold on second place among the league's individual scorers by tallying 18 points, bringing his 28-game total to 502 points. And by picking up 15 points to lead the well-distributed scoring of the Bombers, Logan came within one of Red Rocha's 337 top for the home team.

George Munroe, the former Dartmouth Phi Beta Kappa now enrolled at the Harvard Law School, made his first appearance against his former St. Louis mates. Munroe, who sounded off last March that Coach Loeffler wasn't a nice man, was held to one free throw.

In Thursday's game against Chicago, Andy Phillip, the Illinois star of the great Whiz Kids, will be honored by home-town friends from Collinsville. Gene Vance, another Whiz Kid, also plays for the first-place Stags.

In last night's preliminary the Meramecs, bolstered by Ray Obie, scored a 54-to-42 victory over Pinckneyville in an Illinois-Missouri Semipro League game. Obie, who ended his college career with St. Louis U. Saturday night, played only briefly, but his two late field goals sent the winners in front to stay.

Olympic Ice Hockey Showdown May Find Both U.S. Teams Out

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Jan. 26 (AP)—A usually reliable informant said today members of the International Olympic Committee had told the Swiss they must ban the United States Amateur Hockey Association team from the winter games.

The A.H.A. squad has been recognized by the Swiss organizing committee as the official United States representative in the games—an action strongly protested by the United States Olympic Committee, which has entered its own team.

If the A.H.A. is barred, indications are the International Hockey Federation may order all its teams out of the competition.

This would be a hard blow to the box office-conscious Swiss since hockey is the big money sport of the winter games. Some 60,000 fans are counted on to watch the semi-finals and finals.

The Swiss have put new pressure on the Americans to reach a compromise but apparently to no avail.

No Compromise Planned.

"There is no sense in talking compromise," declared J. Lyman Bingham, an official of the United States Olympic delegation, "We can't make new rules now."

The informant who described the action of I.O.C. members said it was his understanding that the upshot of the hockey controversy will be banning of both the A.H.A. and the United States Olympic teams from the competition.

(Avery Brundage, the very angry president of the United States Olympic Committee, told the United Press correspondent the A.H.A. used "fraudulent" means to get elected to the International Ice Hockey League, was assured that a "showdown" meeting would be held Tuesday to make a final decision on the involved issue.

("I'm not going to make any threat," said Brundage, "but I am both ready and able to withdraw all American teams from the summer and winter Olympics."

(Brundage said that even though the players picked by the A.H.A. "might be amateurs" the organization actually was professional because "it is sponsored by American ice rink managers."

("I think it is quite likely that no American ice hockey team will play in the Olympic games in the end," Brundage said.)

The executive committee of the O.I.C. meets Jan. 27-28 and the full committee meeting will be held Jan. 29, just one day before launching of the fifth winter games at this Alpine resort.

While the hockey controversy rages, other athletes are going through final rehearsals for the competition.

U.S. Ski Jumpers Surprise.

Seven Norwegian ski jumpers, expected to dominate that event, arrived last night, virtually the last competitors to show up. They were delighted to learn that Willhelm Hellman of Sweden had defeated the Americans in the final big preliminary jumping tests yesterday at Pontresina.

But Americans made a surprisingly good showing in the ski events. Fifteen-year-old Andrea Mead of Rutland, Vt., won the Alpine combined trophy after taking first in the downhill competition and tieing for eleventh in the slalom.

Barney McLean of Denver, Colo., won the men's Alpine combined with first in the downhill and third in the slalom.

Prather Wins Illinois State Skating Honors

GLEN ELLYN, Ill., Jan. 26 (AP)—Joe Prather of Champaign-Urbana finished first in the one-mile race and took third in the 440-yard dash to win the intermediate boys Illinois state ice skating crown yesterday.

Prather skimmed through the mile in 3:15.1 to beat Tony Paris of the Chicago C.Y.O. Sanford Dunning of Glen Ellyn won the 440 in :38.3, a new meet record. Paris was second and Prather took third.

Dick Wellbank of Chicago's Northwest Skating Club won the senior men's championship by taking two out of three events. He won the one-mile race in the record time of 2:55 and finished first in the two miles event with another record clocking of 6:14.1.

Northwest captured the team title with 490 points, with Glen Ellyn second with 370 followed by Champaign-Urbana, 170; Peirce of Chicago, 150; Chicago C.Y.O., 140; Elgin, 100; Swift of Chicago, 40; Cameron of Chicago, 20, and Aurora, 20.

Aussie Poloists Win.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Jan. 26 (AP)—The Greenpoint polo team of Sydney, Australia, scored its second consecutive victory over the Beverly Hills quartet here yesterday, 8 to 5. Two American stars, Peter Perkins and Bob Smith, paced the Aussies with four and three goals, respectively.

Kuharich Coach At San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26 (UP)—Joe Kuharich, former Notre Dame guard, took over today as University of San Francisco's fourth head football coach in five seasons.

Signed to a one-year contract, Kuharich replaced Ed McKeever, who resigned Saturday to coach the Chicago Rockets.

Kuharich, 32, was line coach under McKeever during San Francisco's successful 1947 season. Previously he had been line coach for both the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Brooklyn Dodgers after a brilliant professional grid career with the Chicago Cardinals.

Terms of Kuharich's contract were not disclosed by College authorities, but it was believed he would receive $8500 a year—the same paycheck McKeever took home here.

Kuharich was one of those named as a possible successor for Dukes Duford at St. Louis University.

Flyers Fade in Last Period and Lose to Bisons

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 26 (AP)—The Buffalo Bisons came from behind last night to defeat the St. Louis Flyers, 6-3, before 8555 American Hockey League fans in Memorial Auditorium.

Trailing 3-2 in the second period the locals tied on Tommy Cooper's goal. Then they racked up three more in the third, two by Les Hickey and the other by Les Douglas. Hickey's second goal, most sensational of the night, was a dash more than half the length of the ice.

Paul Bibeault, replacing Connie Dion in the Buffalo net, was scored upon after 56 seconds when Bison defenseman Wilf Field cuffed the puck into the net, the score going to Flyer Paul Gladu. Douglas and Murdo McKay sent the Bisons ahead, 2-1.

Eddie Olson bagged the next two for the Flyers, one while the Bisons were playing two men short because of penalties.

The St. Louis equipment was flown here, arriving shortly before the opening faceoff.

Dodds to Compete in Longer Distance Races

BOSTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—In mid-season form and apparently suffering from a dearth of competent opposition, Mile Champion Gil Dodds, the Boston A. A.'s invincible "Flying Parson," is eager to attempt longer distances to improve his Olympic chances.

He has hopes of wearing the United States Olympic shield in the 5000-meters event next summer and he figures he could prime himself best for that by engaging in two and three mile races during the indoor season.

But major meet promoters appear unwilling to co-operate. Since the mile is the feature of their track programs, Dodds has been overwhelmed with pleas to stick to his specialty.

Podoloff, President of Hockey and Basketball Leagues, Visits City

Maurice Podoloff, president of the American Hockey League and the Basketball Association of America, was in St. Louis today on one of his rare visits to this outpost of those organizations.

At a press conference at the Mayfair Hotel Podoloff discussed the future of the hockey league and predicted its growth to include cities such as Cincinnati, Rochester and Baltimore.

St. Louis is represented in the Hockey League by the Flyers and in the basekthall circuit by the Bombers.

WRAY'S COLUMN

A Maxim for Maxim: "Talk Is Cheap."

JOEY MAXIM still is talking a good fight. . . . Or is it old Doc Kearns, who is acting as mouthpiece for him? . . . At any rate, we read that Joey says he can whip both Joe Louis and Joe Walcott, any time. . . . We who saw him barely save face here against the aged Jim Richie thought then that the only thing Joey could beat with certainty would be a carpet.

But we'll have to admit that Maxim gained a decision (one out of three tries) over Joe Walcott. . . . And we all read or heard what Jersey Joe did to the Bomber. . . . Ergo, you might deduce that Maxim really might do what he boasts. . . . At the same time we suggest that Maxim heed that ancient warning: "Don't monkey with the buzz saw." . . . Not many fighters could do what Tunney did—fight a Dempsey with inferior equipment and get away with it.

* * *

In a way Maxim deserves a lot of credit. . . . He goes into fights against lethal punchers equipped with only a powder-puff. . . . He can't break a soap bubble. . . . He faces annihilation with little or no hope of hurting his foe. . . . He's a gladiator facing a tiger with a penknife.

Joey, on Feb. 2, is boxing the hard-hitting Bob Sikes at Little Rock, Ark. . . . He'll probably win, but it won't create more than a ho-hum interest. . . . If you can't punch you can't fight. . . . That's the thumbs-down verdict of the masses.

* * *

This writer always has had the highest admiration for fellows who tackle the grizzly bears of the ring with a cap-pistol, in a manner of speaking. . . . They have to have the qualification most highly regarded by man through the ages—courage. . . . And a Joey Maxim, facing the kayo-hitting Brown Bomber, will surely need plenty of that.

* * *

That "Short-Cut To Second Base."

APPARENTLY sports salesmen of the day are trying to peddle us old technique under new names. . . . There's Indian Lou Boudreau's crack about wishing he could discover a "short-cut to second base." . . . Lou is supposed to have originated the shift of his infield to meet the Ted Williams's left-hand hitting specialty. . . . That wasn't new, any more than was the revived "T" formation in football. Nor is his "short-cut" to second.

Boudreau's remark was directed at the habit baseball players have of swinging wide after passing first base on a long hit, thereby losing ground and time going to second. . . . If Lou wants to flatten out that arc, all he has to do is to go to Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker or any of the older retired stars of other days. They'll tell him.

* * *

Boudreau's idea seems to be to let the runner do his wide-arc stuff in running to first, so that he can hit the No. 1 sack with his left and thereby be all set for a straight run to second base. . . . Naturally you wonder what difference does it make whether a runner, by swinging wide, loses ground between home plate and first base on an outfield drive, or between first and second base. . . . You lose in either case.

* * *

Tris Speaker had an answer as to what they used to do about it. . . . In Cleveland, he told an AP reporter, Larry Marthey, that the answer was the "button-hook turn." . . . In other words, start swinging 10 feet from first base and then curve in fast, tagging the initial sack with the left. . . . It's straightaway then.

* * *

Jack Graney, Speaker and others used to do it. . . . So that "short-cut to second" is merely a revival. . . . But the boys seem to have forgotten how to hit first base with the left foot. . . . Few modern players try to make the "button-hook turn." . . . They still swing wide after turning for second.

"What to do about a 'short-cut' to the plate after reaching second, Tris didn't seem to know," commented Marthey. . . . For that, our suggestion would be—a base-hit.

Here's Joe No. 3

JOE MAXIM, Doc Kearns' punchless heavyweight, who is No. 3 on the list of "Joes" in the heavyweight title tangle. Maxim says he can whip two other Joes, Louis and Walcott. He forgot to mention another—Joe Baksi.

High Schools Should Follow College Rules.

MATTY BELL, Southern Methodist University's grid coach, now a new member of the NCAA rules committee replacing Dana Bible, is promoting the idea that college and high school football rules should be identical. . . . In some states high schools play under their own rules.

"Since eventually the high school player is coming up to college and will play there, it would greatly simplify the future for him if he encountered no different rules when he comes up," Bell declares.

It certainly seems a reasonable thought. . . . But, while they're at it, why not standardize ALL rules—high school, collegiate and professional? . . . Many players come up with the definite hope of becoming pros.

Bell doesn't like at least one feature of that proposal. . . . He believes the goal posts should remain 10 yards back of the goal line, not on it, as under pro rules. . . . Another rule he will advocate is that the rules should permit a tee for conversion place kicks and goals from the field. . . . This might result in putting a little more foot in football. . . . But, it would contribute toward more tie games by making conversion points virtually certain.

Indiana-Flavored Tulane Team Threatens Kentucky's Monopoly

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (UP)—The sudden possibility that Kentucky might not even win the Southeastern Conference championship, let alone a national title, today rocked the basketball world, which otherwise is in a lull brought on by mid-year examinations.

For years it has been a routine matter to pencil in Kentucky as the S.E.C. champ in pre-season prognosticating, and then wait confidently for the prohpecy to come true. It always did.

But today Tulane, generally a basketball nobody, produced a record virtually equal to that of Adolph Rupp's "Kaintucks." Tulane has won 15 and lost only to N.Y.U. Kentucky has won 17 and lost only to Temple.

Home in Indiana, Etc.

The Tulane rise is part of a deliberate campaign for the New Orleans school to climb out of the doldrums. It hired Coach Cliff Wells from an Indiana high school three years ago and gave him the scholarship-generated green light to produce.

With three Indiana-bred ball players in his starting lineup, Wells has his team for a showdown with Kentucky. That will come in March when the annual tournament which decides the conference champion is staged in Louisville.

Meanwhile, Tulane is off this week and Keneucky plays DePaul Saturday on the regular schedule.

The East's proud list of six undefeated teams was shaved to four—three from New York City—last week. Rhode Island State lost to Holy Cross in its first setback of the season and LaSalle was bumped off by Temple's giant-killers. That left Columbia, Fordham, N.Y.U. and Duquesne unbeaten.

Columbia is idle this week, N.Y.U. meets Brooklyn College Friday, Fordham faces Syracuse Saturday and Duquesne meets Texas Wesleyan tonight.

Come on, You Bills!

Oklahoma A. & M., with a 14-and-1 record, and St. Louis U., at 10-and-1 continue their scrap for the Missouri Valley title this week. St. Louis plays Drake Friday and Creighton Saturday. The Aggies meet Wichita tonight, DePaul on Thursday and Loyola Saturday.

Texas, leader in the Southwest with 14-and-1, plays S.M.U. Saturday. Kansas State, Big Six front-runner with 12 victories in 13 starts, plays Nebraska Saturday.

The scrambled Big Nine race, with Wisconsin a half game in front despite a loss to Illinois Saturday, gets a respite from loop play for the most part.

On the West Coast, Washington moved to the fore in the Northern Division with a pair of triumphs over Oregon and now faces Oregon State twice this week. California topped the Southern Division.

Texas Baseball Man Dies; Burial to Be Here

LUBBOCK, Tex., Jan. 26 (UP)—Samuel S. Rosenthal, 43, president and owner of the Lubbock team of the West Texas-New Mexico Baseball League, died today of a heart ailment. He had been ill about two months.

During his ownership, which dated from organization of the league in 1938, the Hubbers won three league pennants and last year defeated Kilgore of the Lone Star League for the unofficial Class C championship of Texas.

Funeral services were scheduled here this afternoon, with burial to be in St. Louis Wednesday.

Survivors include his widow, a son, Joseph, and a daughter, Joyce, all of Lubbock; his mother, Mrs. Esther Rosenthal, a brother, Harold, and a sister, Mrs. Lenore Katz, all of St. Louis.

Title-Conscious Bob Foxworth to Tackle Puncher Fitzpatrick Tonight

By W. J. McGoogan

Bob Foxworth, hopeful light-heavyweight boxer of East St. Louis, begins his 1948 campaign tonight and it's a start which he hopes will bring him a title chance before the dawn of another new year.

First bout on the Kiel Auditorium program is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock.

Stalwart Bob is not picking on a soft spot, either, as he tackles the hard punching right-handed heavyweight, Fitzie Fitzpatrick, of California. Fitzie, of the impaired hearing, throws his right hand from all over the place. When it lands it's curtains for the other fellow but when he misses, sometimes it's curtains for Fitzie.

Even in Weight.

Fitzpatrick, while rated as a heavyweight, will have no edge over Foxworth. Each weighed in today at 178.

But Foxworth probably will rule the favorite at fight time because he's a better boxer than Fitzpatrick and he can punch, too.

To indicate the importance the camp of the East St. Louis boxer attaches to the match, Larry Amadee, veteran trainer who handled John Henry Lewis while he was light-heavyweight champion of the world and aided Jack Blackburn with Joe Louis, has come from Chicago to coach Foxworth.

Bob has trained diligently, too, having had the assistance of a half-dozen spar mates for the past week as he whipped himself into condition for the bout.

Fitzpatrick has to make a new start in his career for on his last appearance in a Cleveland benefit show in December he was stopped by Ezzard Charles, No. 1 contender for the 175-pound championship held by Gus Lesnevich.

That was the second knockout suffered in 1947 by Fitzpatrick at the hands of Charles for he was knocked out in five rounds in Cincinnati last summer. In that match he knocked Charles to the floor for a count and there's no doubt was mighty close to upsetting the favored Ezzard. Newspaper men at ringside even went so far as to declare that Charles was helped by a long count.

In any event, Charles got up and dropped Fitzie in the fifth round.

Five Bouts on Card.

The bout will be one of five on the program presented by Hans Bernstein with the other four being six-round affairs.

Nick Castiglione, Chicago, was ruled out of his scheduled bout with Oliver Cobbins, Cincinnati, after the weigh-in showed Castiglione 15 pounds heavier at 145. Freddy Latson, 132, St. Louis, will sub for Castiglione.

Auditorium Program

Final match—Freddy Latson, 132, St. Louis, vs. Oliver Cobbins, 130, Cincinnati, six rounds.
Feature match—Fitzie Fitzpatrick, 178, Los Angeles, vs. Box Foxworth, 178, East St. Louis, 10 rounds.
Preliminaries—Leon Thompson, 151, Evarts, Ky., vs. Penny Brown, 148½, St. Louis, six rounds.
Paulie Davis, 136, St. Louis, vs. Charley Baxter, 130, Cincinnati, six rounds.
Pat Murphy, 130, Racine, Wis., vs. Johnny Cook, 124, Akron, six rounds.
Starting time—First bout, 8:30 p.m.

Game Ends in Near Riot; High Schools Break Off Relations

PRINCETON, Ind., Jan. 26 (AP) — All athletic relations between Princeton High School and Mount Carmel, Ill., High School were severed yesterday as the result of a basketball game at Mount Carmel which ended in a near-riot Saturday night.

Mount Carmel won the game, 67 to 57. Six Princeton players left the game on personal fouls and another was ejected when he threw the ball at the scorekeeper's table.

Mount Carmel and Illinois state police were called in during the fourth quarter to keep the crowd of 4500 in Mount Carmel's gym from swarming over the playing floor. State police escorted the officials from the building after the game.

Harry Keene, superintendent of schools at Mount Carmel, conferred today with Raymond Dill, Pinceton High School principal, and Ralph Kendall, Princeton athletic business manager, and the officials agreed to break off all athletic competition between the two schools indefinitely.

Rejected Suitor Kidnaps Girl, She Talks Him Into Letting Her Go

WILLIAM MAYERS — JOAN PELOQUIN —Associated Press Wirephotos.

Former Admirer Takes Her for 300-Mile Ride, Then Drops Her Off at Her Home.

MERRILL, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP) —A 20-year-old rejected suitor accused of breaking into his exfiancee's home and abducting her on a 300-mile car ride before she talked him out of driving further was held in the Saginaw county jail today.

Assistant Prosecutor Henry Naegely said he would seek warrants charging the youth, William Mayers, with both kidnaping and breaking and entering.

Pretty, quick-thinking Joan Peloquin, 17, was returned safe to her parents' home here yesterday, 16 hours after she was forced to leave as she dressed for a date with another man.

A few minutes later Mayers, whose engagement to the girl was broken off a year ago, was arrested as he drove toward nearby Saginaw to give himself up, after dropping the girl off at her home.

Convinces Him of His Folly.

Officers credited the slim beauty operator with talking Mayers out of his intent of taking her to Chicago. They said she convinced him to his folly, took over the wheel and turned the automobile back toward home as they reached Three Rivers, Mich. Meanwhile, officers in Michigan and adjoining states were searching for the pair.

Saginaw County Sheriff William Munroe gave this account of the weekend events:

Mayers, who had spirited the girl away for six hours last summer but had not been prosecuted for it, came to the Peloquin house Saturday evening. The girl was preparing for a date with Robert Bigelow, 23.

Turned away at the door, Mayers broke into the house. The girl locked herself in the bathroom. He split open the door and chased her outside just as Bigelow came along.

Miss Peloquin begged Bigelow to come inside and there he saw Mayers holding his hand in his overcoat pocket as if carrying a pistol, though investigation showed he had no weapon.

Mayers, he reported, said, "I've come here prepared to kill somebody and I will, because I'll be sent up anyway." Forcing the girl to pack a suitcase, he then drove away with her. Bigelow spread the alarm.

Miss Peloquin told officers Mayers headed south. They were lost in Detroit for two hours, finally setting out for Chicago about 6 a.m. Sunday.

All the while, the girl said, she pleaded with Mayers to relent and finally she found a telling argument. It was:

"Whatever you do, Bill, don't take me across that (Michigan-Indiana) state line. They'll add at least 10 years onto what you're going to get for this anyway."

In a few minutes Mayers told her to take the wheel and when they reached Three Rivers, near the Indiana line, he said, "Turn around," Munroe reported.

Freight Cars Derailed.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Jan. 26 (UP) —Nine cars of a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy freight train were derailed about 15 miles west of here today when the train broke in two and the two sections then ran together, railroad employes reported. No one was hurt seriously.

20 FROM BUTLER COUNTY IN GRAND JURY ANTEROOM

Twenty Negro men and women from Butler county in Southeast Missouri appeared today in the anteroom of the United States District Court grand jury as attorneys prepared to present further evidence in the alleged vote fraud cases in the November 1946 general election.

Three persons from Scott county, in the same section of the state, were indicted on charges of vote fraud last Friday. They were Charles L. Blanton Jr., editor of the Sikeston Standard; Grover C. Baker, Scott county revenue collector, and N. E. Fuchs, a Sikeston automobile dealer.

The indictments alleged that voters were transported to polling places and then to a "count station" where they were paid $1 each from an $800 fund of the Richland Township (Sikeston) Democratic Committee. The indictments alleged also that lotteries were conducted to "bring out the vote."

NEW QUAKE ROCKS PHILIPPINES CITY; DEATH TOLL AT 27

Iloilo, on Panay Island, Heavily Damaged—More Dead Indicated—Big Fissures Appear.

MANILA, Jan. 26 (AP) — Another strong earthquake shook the battered city of Iloilo on the central Philippines island of Panay at 10:12 tonight (8:12 a.m. St. Louis time), followed by secondary shocks which lasted four minutes.

The city of 125,000 already had been damaged heavily and 27 deaths were reported in a series of heavy quakes which rocked it over a period of four hours before dawn Sunday, followed by moderate shocks which continued up to noon today.

People rushed into the streets in night dress and huddled in public plazas. Many prepared to camp out the remainder of the night rather than return to buildings where they feared shock-damaged walls might collapse. Previously many residents had fled to the countryside.

Possibility of a higher death toll was indicated. Meager reports from Panay Island, said two families were buried alive by a big landslide at Hanini on the southwestern coast.

Near Miagao, a seacoast town, bodies of two fishermen believed to have been drowned as a tidal wave hit the southern coast of Iloilo province were recovered.

Yawning fissures paralyzed overland traffic and exposed smashed water mains in Iloilo. In one suburb a deep crevice 90 yards long and a yard wide was reported sending geysers of water and black sand as high as nearby coconut palms.

One Australian, James Hoffman, 61 years old, employe of a stevedoring company, and one unidentified American were reported among the dead.

Panay, Negros, Cebu, Leyte and Marinduque islands all were jolted, but Panay seemed hardest hit. Iloilo, a port city noted for sugar, rum and copra exports, is 285 airline miles from Manila. Manila itself was only slightly shaken.

The public works department in Manila said estimates of damage were incomplete, but would certainly exceed $500,000—mostly in areas devastated by a Christmas typhoon which caused 91 casualties, one third of them on the Danish motorship, Kina.

Falling debris from major buildings caused most of the casualties. One man died as he knelt in prayer in a church in Alimodian, an Iloilo suburb, and an American and four Filipinos were reported crushed by falling walls on a downtown street. Four men were buried in the collapse of a six-story cathedral belfry three centuries old, but rescuers dug them out alive after five hours' frantic work.

Of four additional deaths reported, one was a 12-year-old youth caught asleep in the wings of the partially-demolished Oton Cathedral. A 34-year-old laborer was crushed to death when an electric light post toppled into his house. At San Miguel, a policeman was buried alive, and at Capiz, excavations were made for the body of another.

Iloilo fishermen told of a tidal wave which swept the narrow straits shortly after the first shock and caused an estimated $125,000 damage to their fishpond corrals.

Geophysicist Arturo Alcarez, of the Philippines weather bureau, placed the epicenter of the quake within three miles of Iloilo. The first shock was of intensity seven on the revised Rossi-Forel scale which runs to a maximum intensity of nine.

Five St. Louisans in Area Struck by Earthquakes.

Five St. Louisans are known to be in the earthquake area. They are Mr. and Mrs. John R. Noble and their two children, 3-year-old David and 2-month old Bonnie; and Miss Lillian Robertson.

Mrs. Noble is a daughter of Mrs. Harry Faith, 5617 Cabanne avenue. Her husband was connected formerly with the Monsanto Chemical Co. here and now is with the Standard Vacuum Oil Co. Noble went to the Philippines in July 1946, and Mrs. Noble followed him, with their son, in December 1946. Bonnie was born at Iloilo.

Miss Robertson has been in the Philippines almost two years as dean of Girl's School, Central Philippines College. She formerly was director here of the Christian Friendliness Program of the St. Louis Mission Board, and specialized in the education of newly-naturalized Americans.

Miss Robertson, a member of Third Baptist Church, went to the Philippines under the auspices of the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, New York, the Rev. C. Oscar Johnson, pastor of Third Baptist Church, said. Her mother lives in Florida.

POLICE UNION CASE IS TAKEN TO U.S. SUPREME COURT

Application for Appeal From State Justices' Ruling Is Filed at Washington.

An application for an appeal from a decision of the Missouri Supreme Court en banc which upheld a rule of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners prohibiting union membership by policemen has been filed with the United States Supreme Court, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

The application was filed in behalf of nine former policemen who were members of Local 549 of the AFL American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, by E. D. Franey, a law partner of Stewart D. Flanagan, counsel for the union.

Flanagan described the application as a preliminary move that follows a decision of the Missouri Supreme Court en banc last Dec. 8 in overruling a motion for a rehearing of its decision of last Nov. 10.

Formation of the AFL policemen's union with membership claimed to number 900 was announced Nov. 15, 1945. Gov. Phil M. Donnelly took a firm stand against the union, declaring it "cannot serve two masters." In August, 1946, the police board ordered all policemen then members to quit the union or face dismissal.

Suit to enjoin the police board from enforcing its rule then was filed in the court of Circuit Judge Eugene J. Sartorius, who lacked jurisdiction. An appeal was taken to the Missouri Supreme Court, Division 1, which announced its decision supporting the Police Board last July 14, but ordered the case transferred to the court en banc which handed down a similar opinion.

REARDON DEFENSE FEE SUIT IS SETTLED OUT OF COURT

The $35,000 suit filed by Henry G. Morris, an attorney, as his fee for the successful defense of 14-year-old Mary Catherine Reardon was withdrawn in Circuit Court today.

Morris, who had filed the suit against the girl's mother, Mrs. Leona E. Reardon, told a Post-Dispatch reporter there had been a satisfactory settlement out of court. He declined to state the amount of the settlement.

Filing of the suit last October disclosed there was a dispute between Morris and Frank E. Williams, attorney, who sat at the counsel table during the sensational Reardon trial, over the division of the fee. Williams had arranged for the retention of Morris to defend the Reardon girl, who was subsequently acquitted of a charge of delinquency by reason of the murder of her father, J. Vincent Reardon, paint manufacturer. Reardon was shot in the head last Feb. 8 while returning his daughter and a boy friend, Michael D'Arcy, from a St. Charles county tourist cabin.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press.

On Wrong End.

WILKINSBURG, Pa. — Sometimes it's better to let well enough alone, Charles Leonard has decided.

When Leonard discovered the living room sofa afire, he tried to push it out. The blazing sofa stuck in the doorway. By the time firemen extinguished the blaze, approximately $1000 damage had been done to the house.

He Could Mail It.

BALTIMORE — Vice President William J. Muth of the Baltimore City Council was awakened at 3:30 a.m. by a citizen who telephoned to outline a scheme for improving the city's transit service.

Muth offered to call back at a more reasonable hour. The caller declined to tell his number, explaining he was a night watchman and would be awakened if his phone rang in the daytime.

$50 Prayer.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—The Rev. Warren W. Twyford, pastor of the Four Square Gospel Church here, led his congregation in prayer for a thief who stole approximately $50 from the church study.

"We prayed the Lord would convince him of his sins, and thereby save his soul," the minister said.

PULLMAN JUMPS RAILS, HITS TWO CARS, UPSETS; 6 HURT

JAMESTOWN, N.Y., Jan. 26 (AP)—Six persons were injured, none critically, when the last car of the Erie railroad's Chicago-to-New York City Lake Cities Express jumped the tracks, struck two freight cars and overturned last night about 12 miles west of here.

M. J. McFadden of Meadville, Pa., an Erie road trainmaster, said a preliminary investigation led him to believe the accident was caused by a burned journal.

The derailed car, a Pullman carrying 16 persons, tore tracks and ties for half a mile before striking an empty gondola on a "cripple track" to the right of the eastbound tracks and continued 100 yards to crash into an empty boxcar, also on the sidetrack.

Both the gondola and the boxcar were sheared from their trucks and overturned. The Pullman veered and came to a halt on its side on the westbound tracks.

Two of the injured were returned to Jamestown by ambulance and the others were transferred to other cars of the express which proceeded eastward. All the injured were Ohio residents.

The diesel-powered, 11-car express was about an hour behind schedule when the derailment occurred about 10:30 p.m. on a straight-away about a mile east of Niobe Junction.

PICK HERE TO ADDRESS VALLEY GROUP; NOW MAJOR GENERAL

Lewis A. Pick, Army division engineer for the Missouri river basin, arriving here yesterday to address the Mississippi Valley Association convention, wore the two stars of a Major General. He had received notice of his promotion from Brigadier General to permanent rank at the higher level at his office at Omaha, Neb., Friday.

During the war, when he was builder of the famous Stilwell road and other notable military projects in Burma, he had held temporary rank as Major General. He is co-author of the Pick-Sloan plan for control and development of Missouri basin resources. His associate, W. G. Sloan, Interior Department representative from Billings, Mont., is on the convention program also.

ST. LOUIS SOLDIER NEAR TOKYO INJURED, FLOWN TO HOSPITAL

TOKYO, Jan. 26 (UP)—An artillery observation plane of the First Cavalry Division was pressed into service today to speed a seriously injured soldier to the hospital.

Cpl. David F. Vale, St. Louis, Mo., was injured in an auto accident 40 miles north of Tokyo. He was taken to Johnson air base in a plane piloted by Lt. David R. O'Leary, Lawton, Okla. Vale suffered a fractured pelvis.

Cpl. Value was a member of a tank corps battalion in the war and was wounded in action in France in September 1944. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Vale, live at 3930 North Twenty-fifth street.

STEINBECK'S RUSSIAN JOURNAL

Kiev a Ruined City, but People Are Spirited, Not So Dead Tired As in Moscow; Anxious About U.S.

Ukrainians Question Steinbeck About American Work and Living Conditions —'Will U.S. Attack Us? Will We Have to Defend Our Country Again?'

In this second excerpt from John Steinbeck's forthcoming book, "A Russian Journal," he visits Kiev. In the first, yesterday, the Pulitzer prize-winning novelist of 1940, told of revisiting Moscow after 11 years. He found the Red capital cleaner, with more paved streets and many new buildings.

By JOHN STEINBECK

Copyright, 1948, by John Steinbeck.

EVERYONE had told us it would be different once we had got outside of Moscow, that the sternness and the tenseness would not exist. And this was true. On the Kiev airfield we were met by a number of Ukrainians from the local Voks, the cultural relations society. They were laughing people. They were more gay and more relaxed than the men we had met in Moscow.

There was an openness and a heartiness about them. They were big men, nearly all blond with gray eyes. They had a car ready for us to drive into Kiev.

It must at one time have been a beautiful city. It is much older than Moscow. It is the mother of Russian cities. Seated on its hill beside the Dnieper, it spreads down into the plain. Its monasteries and fortresses and churches date from the eleventh century. It was once a favorite resort of the Czars, and they had their vacation palaces here. Its public buildings were known all over Russia. It was a center of religion.

Semi-Ruin of Crazy Destruction.

And now it is a semi-ruin. Here the Germans showed what they could do. Every public building, every library, every theater, even the permanent circus, destroyed not with gun fire, not through fighting, but with fire and dynamite. Its university is burned and tumbled, its schools in ruins.

This was not fighting, this was crazy destruction of every cultural facility the city had, and nearly every beautiful building that had been put up during a thousand years. Here German culture did its work. And one of the few justices in the world is that German prisoners are helping to clean up the mess they made.

Our Ukrainian guide was Alexie Poltarazki, a large man who limped a little from a wound received at Stalingrad. He is a Ukrainian writer with a fine command of English, and a great sense of humor, a man of warmth and friendliness.

On the way to our hotel, we noticed as everyone does, that the Ukrainian girls are very pretty, mostly blond, with fine, womanly figures. They have flair, they have carriage, they walk with a swinging stride, and they smile very easily. While they were not better dressed than the women of Moscow, they seemed to carry their clothes better.

Less Dead Weariness in Kiev.

Although Kiev is greatly destroyed while Moscow is not, the people in Kiev did not seem to have the dead weariness of the Moscow people. They did not slouch when they walked, their shoulders were back, and they laughed in the streets.

Of course this might be racial, for the Ukrainians are not of the Russian race, they are a separate species of Slav. And while most Ukrainians can speak and read Russian, their own language is a language apart and separate, nearer to the Southern Slavic languages than to Russian. Many Ukrainian words, particularly farm words, are the same as Hungarian, and many of their words are duplicated in Czech, rather than in Russian.

At the Intourist hotel, our Ukrainian hosts gave us a magnificent lunch. There were fresh ripe tomatoes and cucumbers, there were little pickled fishes, there were bowls of caviar, and of course there was vodka. We had small fried fishes from the Dnieper, and beefsteaks, beautifully cooked with Ukrainian herbs. There was wine from Georgia, and Ukrainian sausages which are delicious. There was a fine feeling of friendship in these men.

A Park Above the Dnieper.

In the afternoon we walked through the beautiful park which edges the cliff above the Dnieper. There were huge trees here, and already the music shells the Germans burned had been replaced and a new stadium had been put up.

And among the great trees are the graves of the defenders of the city, green mounds with red flowers planted on the tops of them.

There are little theaters and many benches to sit on. And far below, the river winds beside the cliff and across the river is a sandy beach where people lie in the sun and swim in the river.

Far off there is the flat land with the ruins of the town, which was completely destroyed in the fighting for the city, wreckage and blackness and bits of standing wall. Here was the place where the Red Army came back to the city and relieved it from its German occupation.

There was an orchestra playing in the park and many children sat on the benches and listened. There were sailboats on the river, and little steamboats, and people were swimming.

We walked over a footbridge that goes over a road, and below there was a bus stop.

Woman Pulls Man Off Bus.

And in front of a bus was the finest woman fight we have seen in a long time. The Russian rules for queueing are inexorable. Every one must stand in line to get into a streetcar or bus. There are exceptions to this rule: Pregnant women, women with children, the very old and the crippled do not have to stand in line. They go in first. But every one else must queue up.

It seems that below us a man had gone ahead in the queue, and a furious woman was tearing at him to get him back where he belonged. With a certain obstinacy he stayed in his place and got into the bus, whereupon she dived in after him, pulled him out and forced him back to his place in the queue.

She was completely furious, and the other members of the queue cheered her as she pulled the man out and stood him back in his place.

It was one of the few examples of violence we saw during our whole trip. Mostly the people have incredible patience with one another.

We were very tired at dinner that night for we had had very little sleep, and our passion for vodka had been waning until it disappeared entirely.

Questions About America.

Our hosts had many questions they wanted to ask us. They wanted to know about America, about its size, about its crops, its politics.

And we began to realize that it is a very difficult country to explain. There are many things about it we don't understand ourselves. We explained our theory of government where every part has another part to check it. We tried to explain our fear of dictatorship, our fear of leaders with too much power, so that our government is designed to keep any one from getting too much power or, having got it, to keep it. We agreed that this makes our country, perhaps, function more slowly, but that it certainly makes it function more surely.

They asked about wages and standards of living, and the kind of a life a working man lives, and did the average man have an automobile, and what kind of a house does he live in and did his children go to school, and what kind of schools.

And then they spoke of the atom bomb and they said they were not afraid of it. Stalin has said that it would never be used in warfare, and they trust that statement exactly. They believe it.

Anxious—Will U. S. Attack?

One man said that even if it would be used it could only destroy towns, and he said: "Our towns are destroyed already. What more can it do?" And he said: "And if we were invaded we would defend ourselves, just as we did with the Germans. We will defend ourselves in the snow and in the forests and in the fields."

They spoke anxiously about war, they have had so much of it.

They asked: "Will the United States attack us? Will we have to defend our country again in one lifetime?"

We said: "No, we do not think the United States will attack. We don't know; no one tells us these things, but we do not think that our people want to attack anyone."

And we asked them where they get the idea that we might attack Russia.

Well, they said they get it from our newspapers. Certain of our newspapers speak constantly of attacking Russia. And some of them speak of what they call preventive war. And they said that as far as they are concerned preventive war is just like any other war.

We told them that we do not believe that those newspapers they mention and those columnists who speak only of war are true representatives of the American people. We do not believe the American people want to go to war with any one.

Freedom of the Press.

The old, old, thing came up, that always comes up: "Then why does your government not control these newspapers and these men who talk war?"

And we have to explain again, as we have many times before, that we do not believe in controlling our press. We think the truth usually wins, and that control simply drives bad things underground. In our country we prefer that these people talk themselves to death in public, and write themselves to death, rather than being bottled up and slipping their poison secretly through the dark. It is a thing we had to speak of again and again during our trip.

TOMORROW: More on Kiev. The Russian people are working hard but live in hope for a better future. Old monastery looted and shelled by Germans; the Church of Jaroslav the Wise.

PRAVDA GIVES STILL ANOTHER EXPLANATION OF PROTOCOL M

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Pravda, Communist party newspaper, says Protocol M was forged by a British intelligence officer. Copies of Protocol M have been distributed by the British Foreign Office. It deals with purported Communist plans for strikes in the Ruhr and disorganization of western German transport.

Pravda's account, quoted by the Moscow radio, was the fifth Soviet-sponsored version as to the origin of the document. Last Monday, different Soviet-licensed papers in Berlin said it was prepared by the Nazi propagandist, Hans Fritzsche, now serving a nine-year prison sentence; by a British-American "forgery bureau"; by headquarters of the German Social Democratic party in Hannover, and by "old agents of White Russian origin."

British officials have stated they believe the document authentic.

Business Outlook

ECONOMISTS' NEED, A WORLD HORIZON

By J. A. Livingston

WASHINGTON.

ABOUT a month ago, the National Industrial Conference Board conducted an economists' round-table on the business outlook for 1948. Present were such professional predicters as Lionel D. Edie, of Lionel D. Edie & Co.,; Robert R. Nathan, of Robert R. Nathan Associates; Rufus S. Tucker, of General Motors; Everett E. Hagan, Budget Bureau, and M. R. Gainsbrugh, of the Conference Board.

By and large, the experts were optimistic for the immediate future. As Edie put it: "Business is strong today, and it is going to be strong enough the first half of next year. Beyond that, I am frankly up in the air." Such humility for a seer!

Toward the end of the session, Solomon Fabricant of the National Bureau of Economic Research introduced a new note. He suggested that the others were paying too much attention to domestic problems—to whether consumers might be priced out of the market, to whether business men would be able to raise money to finance purchase of plant and equipment.

The "World Situation."

"I would like to raise this question," said Fabricant. "Are we in a current economic situation or a world situation? If certain political changes occur on the continent, it is conceivable that the repercussions in this country may be such that any possible tendency toward a slump will be offset by political decisions and actions."

Recent headlines have reinforced Fabricant's point. The State Department last week released captured German documents showing that Stalin and Molotov were "active" bystanders in Hitler's rape of Poland. Apparently, Secretary Marshall has determined that in the cold war with Russia, words can travel two ways. We've decided to talk back.

On the same day, as if to justify that decision, press dispatches indicated that German Communists were fomenting strikes in Anglo-American occupied Bizonia. Just before that, the official Red Army newspaper Taegliche Rundschau hinted that the British and American occupying forces were no longer wanted in Berlin, seat of the quadripartite council of occupying powers.

All this has a direct, tangible bearing on business here, as a glance at the United States Budget will show. For the fiscal year starting July 1, the President has listed estimated expenditures of 11 billions for national defense and another seven billion dollars for "international affairs and finance." This last includes four billions for the European Recovery Plan and one and one-fourth billions for support of the Army in occupied areas. Thus 18 billions of a 40-billion-dollar budget—45 per cent—is directly related to what Fabricant calls the "world situation."

Defense Trend: Up.

These expenditures for defense and foreign aid are about equal to the estimated business expenditures for new plant and equipment this year. Thus, anything that adds to or subtracts from them will accelerate or decelerate the pace of business. And conceivably they may make up for any decline in business expansion.

At the moment, the direction seems up, rather than down—notwithstanding the debates in Congress over the dollar amount of the Marshall plan. The recent report of the President's Air Policy Commission, "Survival in the Air Age," suggests as much. For adequate air defense, the report said, we must double the Air Force budget. By the same token, if we are to build Europe up, we will have to see that supplies flow promptly and smoothly. Only in that way can we quell strikes and rioting which spring directly from poverty and desperation.

Meanwhile, here's a note for real estate agents, building contractors, crib manufacturers, layette salesmen, and diaper services. There's been a change in trend. In November, for the third successive month, the birth rate fell below the corresponding month of the year before. Apparently the postwar boom in babies is over.

That doesn't mean that the economic forces released by the war-inspired marriages and births have spent themselves and are no longer affecting business. They are. The high demand for new homes, for furniture, and for baby clothes and equipment are directly traceable to the baby boom. Such purchases come under the head of consumer capital formation. And they seem likely to persist a while longer.

This marks a striking difference between this war and the last war. Though population continued to increase during the firt world war, the rate of increase dropped—largely because immigration was cut off. This time immigration was a minor factor to begin with. Not so love. Population jumped.

The sharp increase in mouths to feed and bodies to clothe and shelter may be the factor that has made this postwar period easier than the last one. Then we had a business break a year and a half after the Armistice. Today, two and one-half years after V-J day, the readjustment is still to come. Perhaps that's because the proportionate increase in physical demands for goods and services for human life is greater this time, relative to prewar, than last time.

SMUTS ON BEVIN PROPOSAL

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Jan. 26 (AP)—Premier Jan Christiaan Smuts said Saturday night British Foreign Secretary Bevin's proposal for unifying Western Europe held out great hopes for the future happiness of mankind. He made the statement in a dinner speech.

Pravda Writer Ascribes Bevin Plan to Dulles

Western European Union Proposal Dictated by Wall Street, He Says.

MOSCOW, Jan. 26 (AP)

THE Communist party newspaper Pravda declared yesterday that British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's proposal for a union of western Europe was actually the plan of John Foster Dulles. Dulles is a Republican adviser to the United States State Department.

Commentator Boris Izakov also asserted that the program outlined by Bevin in the House of Commons Thursday was designed to create a partition and was dictated to him by the "powers of Wall Street."

Izakov assailed the plan as unrealistic and said it was "destined to failure because it contradicts the vital interests of the people of Europe."

His article was the first extensive comment in the Soviet press on Bevin's proposal.

"The real source of Bevin's program is discovered in that place where presently all western European problems are being decided: the American Congress," Izakov said.

He wrote that Dulles had demanded political unity of western Europe in congressional committee hearings on the Marshall plan, and had revealed that western European leaders in talks with him (Dulles) had asked the United States to take the initiative in promoting such unity.

Thus, concluded Izakov, Bevin's proposals were actually those of Dulles which "originated in Wall Street."

(Dulles told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week that political disunity in Europe was causing "economic havoc." He urged "some sort of customs and monetary union between all, or groups of the western European states, including Germany." He added that there is also need of "sufficient political unity so that these states will present a solid front to any aggressor.")

Izakov ridiculed Bevin for "compliments tossed in the direction of the United States." He said Bevin was now telling the world that it was wrong to picture the United States as a "Shylock," but six months ago Bevin in a speech called the United States a "usurer."

Izakov charged that Wall Street had ordered Bevin to "recall his words" and the commentator added: "Yes, gold chains are stronger than iron ones."

(Bevin said at Morpeth, England, last July 19: "You have heard it said I am tying up to the United States. I do not like being tied up to money lenders at all. . . . It is hard negotiating with people to whom you are in debt." Bevin said a week later "I did not mean the United States or anyone else" was a money lender.)

THE ALSOPS

Hoover Proposal to Restrict Aid To Europe Gives Plan's Foes New Boldness, Air of Respectability

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON

THE name of Herbert Hoover has overnight become the rallying cry of the opposition to the European Recovery Program. The Senators and Representatives now fighting the program have never proposed defeating the bill altogether. From the reasonably moderate Senator Taft to the strikingly immoderate Senator Brooks, they have conceded that some sort of measure with the E.R.P. label would have to pass. Former President Hoover's prescription, for transforming the program into a limited charitable commitment, restricted in several crippling ways, was therefore made to the opposition's order.

There are good reasons to suspect that the opposition had some advance knowledge of Hoover's letter to Senator H. Vandenberg. Some of his proposals closely resemble those in the Herter bill, put forward as a rival to E.R.P. by the House leadership. Representative Christian Herter has allowed himself to be drawn into the House Republican chieftains' plan to dilute the program to the danger point. There has long been a close relationship between Hoover and Herter.

Opponents Encouraged.

The real point of Hoover's letter, however, is not its origin. In the House, the opposition to the recovery program was already bold. In the Senate, the combined prestige of Senator Vandenberg and Secretary of State Marshall had caused the opponents to adopt a kind of half-hearted guerrilla tactics. Senator Wherry, Senator Malone and the others gathering to fight the bill did not seem quite sure they were doing the respectable thing.

Now they have Hoover's prestige to weigh against Marshall's and Vandenberg's. It has thrown over them a cloak of respectability, and given them immeasurably greater boldness and confidence.

It must be further noted that the position in Congress had sometime previously begun to deteriorate in an ominous manner. The opposition's great point of attack was the amount to be authorized for expenditure on the rebuilding of Europe. It was here that the main danger lay, and now lies.

Opposition Strategy.

At least a week before the Hoover letter, there was no secret about the opposition strategy for reducing the $6,800,000,000 authorization for the first 15 months of E.R.P. They hoped to cut the authorization to a maximum of five billion dollars in the Senate. They hoped to reduce this amount to somewhere around four billion dollars in the House. They expected the House-Senate conference to set a final, compromise authorization around $4,500,000,000. Then, further cutting was to occur in the appropriations committees. Representative John Taber's House group was to allow $3,500,000,000. Senator Styles Bridges' Senate committee was to provide $4,500,000,000. The Senate House conference was again to compromise on four billions.

It is significant that four billion dollars was precisely the sum named by Hoover as adequate and safe for the authorization. Yet even before the Hoover letter, the Administration's own congressional checkers had begun to admit sadly the possibility that the opposition would drive its program through. Hoover has simply greatly increased a threat that was already quite black and ominous enough. Furthermore, he has added the further threat of all kinds of restrictive amendments, several of which he advocated.

Altogether, it is time to admit that the position in Congress is very bad indeed. It may be inquired, of course, why such reductions in the amount of E.R.P. funds, and limitations on its planning, will be so exceedingly grave. After all, most bills sent up to Congress receive a good deal of mauling, and the resulting compromise between legislative and executive branches generally results in some sort of workable statute.

In the present case, however, these rules do not apply. In the first place, the State Department, being terrified of Congress began by offering the lowest possible estimate of the money needed for the job of shoring up the European ruins. Any much lower amount will produce a mere unfruitful relief program.

Secondly, there is another and far worse factor in the situation which the average Senator or Representative finds immensely difficult to understand or even imagine. The members of Congress are working up to the vote with their eyes on the folks back home. As a practical matter, a vote to reduce and cripple E.R.P. will have approximately ten times as great a political effect on Paris, France, and Rome, Italy, as in Paris, Kentucky, and Rome, New York.

Here in the United States E.R.P. is one issue among many. Abroad, E.R.P. is the final test of the dependability of the United States, as a leader and support in the great world contest with the Soviet Union. If we seem to be a broken reed, that contest will surely be lost on the political battleground of western Europe. And we shall seem broken reed indeed, if E.R.P. is mangled as planned.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Eye Doctors Offer Help

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Your editorial, "A Medical Racket," of Jan. 19 is a sweeping indictment of the entire medical profession and associated fields, and of the oculists in particular.

At a recent meeting of the St. Louis Ophthalmic Society, which is made up of the great majority of the accredited eye physicians of this area, it was unanimously decided that such accusations could not go unanswered.

Our society is on record as condemning the acceptance of rebates on eye glasses. Such practice constitutes grounds for expulsion from our society. We take pride in, and shall continue to guard our nation-wide reputation in optical circles as a city in which the practice of taking hidden fees is condemned.

You close your editorial with the following sentence: "The Better Business Bureau could hardly find a more worthy field of service to St. Louis than in discovering the facts—and bringing them into the light of day."

In the Post-Dispatch of Jan. 23 it was stated that the Better Business Bureau was contemplating an investigation of this practice. Our society is anxious to co-operate with the press and the Better Business Bureau in determining the situation as to optical rebating in St. Louis.

Reasons for Reading Marx

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

One of your correspondents who describes himself as a great reader and signs himself M.F.S. has been unduly frightened by the inclusion of "The Communist Manifesto" in the Great Books program. It is evident that he wants to be a good American. Surely a good American would include the Declaration of Independence in his reading.

The group of the Great Books program in St. Louis of which I am a member held its first session by discussing ideas and conceptions in the Declaration of Independence and the Bible. Now the Bible is not a book of American origin and the minds of Thomas Jefferson and the other thinkers of the American Revolution were most certainly not made up by American antecedents. Would M.F.S. rule them out of the Great Books because they are un-American?

But there is more to it than that. The Bible and the Declaration of Independence are quite revolutionary documents. They are really more revolutionary than Marx. That may be one reason why a Communist would not be likely to include the Bible in his list of Great Books. A Communist is schooled in the techniques of upsetting other people's apple carts. Biblical religion prompts men to upset their own apple carts when the fruit begins to rot.

It seems to me this business of being a good American is a pretty big order. I am sure I cannot be one by shutting my eyes or being fitted with blinders by Thomas-committee technicians or by being afraid of the Big Black bear painted in the delirium of men who put property before people. I shall try to be one accepting the noble heritage of the American revolutionaries, including Abraham Lincoln, and pursuing the American dream, and working for a living, and calling every man brother and drawing the sword against tyranny.

As for the Great Books program, the first experience was wonderful, because here were fellow human beings on their way and helping me to be on my way to fuller stature as creatures under God, thinking the thoughts of the great after them and in the process sharing some of that greatness. I am in the Great Books program because it is big enough to include "The Communist Manifesto." By the time we get to Karl Marx we shall be able to pay him, as he deserves, the respect of thinking cosmopolitans and we shall not be easy meat for his or any man's ax-grinder.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Many people of St. Louis have the bad habit of leaving a public performance before it is finished. They are insulting to the actors and giving the people of St. Louis a bad reputation.

Let us hold up the reputation of St. Louis by remaining at all public performances until they are finished.

Advice to Mr. Morton

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

This letter may seem a bit late with regard to the subject-matter, but I fail to see how other persons have so hastily recovered following Stratford Lee Morton's astounding proposal very kindly to expropriate the property of hundreds of Forest Park area residents.

However, since a few of the more foresighted gentlemen at City Hall have as well as relegated the foolish idea of a fair to its proper place in the deep freeze, let's let Mr. Morton go ahead and save face by declaring he'll have the Forest Park site or none; knowing full well by now that, according to civic opinion, the only thing which could flop bigger than a World's Fair may be seen at the sea lion pool.

It would seem that if Mr. Morton really had his heart rather than other people's homes in this thing, he'd sell the roof from over his own head and donate the proceeds to start the ball rolling.

W. GERARD McAFEE.

Setback in Georgia

The nationwide campaign of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. to boost telephone rates has received another setback, this time in Georgia. In a decision handed down Saturday, the Georgia Public Service Commission allowed the Southern Bell Telephone Co. only a little more than a third of the $3,706,000 increase in revenue asked in that state. Yet even the increase permitted, according to the Georgia commission, will be sufficient for that state to do its part toward perpetuating the $9 dividend which A.T.&T. has been paying on its common stock.

A comparison of the revenues of Southern Bell in Georgia with those of Southwestern Bell in Missouri indicates plainly that Missouri will be doing at least as handsomely by Old Mother A.T.&T. as Georgia will be doing, even if no rate increase whatever is granted in Missouri.

Walter R. McDonald, chairman of the Georgia commission, says that the rate increase granted there will let Southern Bell realize on its property in that state an annual return of 4½ per cent. In its testimony before the Missouri Public Service Commission last month, Southwestern Bell stated that its rate of return in Missouri, on its own calculation, was 5.09 in 1946 and about 4 per cent in 1947.

If the books of the Southwestern Bell are submitted to the same searching scrutiny that the books of Southern Bell have been given in Georgia, the rate of return in Missouri no doubt becomes something like 9 per cent in 1946 and 8 per cent in 1947.

Chairman McDonald says that in his opinion Southern Bell will accept the Georgia commission's decision without appeal to the courts. Although a 4½ per cent return is somewhat less than has been customary in the past for utilities to earn on their investment, it is the exact figure which the late Chief Justice Stone declared a good many years ago, in a dissenting opinion of the Supreme Court, not to be "confiscatory."

A.T.&T. quite naturally seeks as high a rate of return as possible from its operating subsidiaries in each state. But it has shown a willingness on occasion to take, on its own calculation, an even lower rate of return than 4½ per cent. At the moment it is seeking in South Dakota a return of only 3½ per cent.

A.T.&T., of course, hopes to make up for this modest return in such states as Georgia and South Dakota with a much higher return in states where the regulatory bodies are less alert and inquisitive. For years it has looked upon Southwestern Bell as one of the subsidiaries on which it could really batten. For years, Southwestern Bell paid a 9 per cent dividend on its common stock, wholly owned by A.T.&T. Missouri and the other four states in Southwestern Bell have no occasion to yield A.T.&T. any larger rate of profit than other states.

The Georgia commission knocked out entirely the management fee of 1½ per cent of gross operating revenue which Southern Bell has been paying A.T.&T. This, we believe, is the first case in which this fee has been eliminated in its entirety. Even here it was eliminated on the ground that Southern Bell failed to comply with the commission's rule that no flat management fee would be approved, but that the fee would have to be justified on the basis of service rendered, item by item.

This rule is fair and just and deserving of emulation in other states. If it is applied in Missouri, the management fee is sure to be drastically reduced, if not eliminated.

The Georgia commission found also that Southern Bell was tolerating inefficiencies which should be corrected rather than passed on to the public. It ordered that non-recurring expenses due to the large-scale postwar expansion of facilities should be removed from operating-cost estimates for 1948 and later years. It found that increased revenues due to expanded facilities has been considerably underestimated, and made adjustments accordingly.

In short, it followed the technique brilliantly pioneered a few months ago by the Tennessee Railroad and Public Utility Commission in combing the hay out of the company's financial calculations. There is a still more drastic job of hay-combing to be done in Missouri in the case of Southwestern Bell.

Forrest Smith's Tragedy

The news that State Auditor Forrest Smith—who has been running for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination as hard as he knows how—has been robbed of his mailing list almost compels one to woo the tragic muse. Here surely is grief and sorrow, blight and frustration, and cause for keening and lamentation over bright hope cut down in its prime.

Ambition and diligence had made of Mr. Smith the political letter-writer ne plus ultra. With a tireless pen he had sought long to stoke the fires of affection in the hearts of Missouri's pensioners, seeking to make them feel that a state grant was a personal boon—one to be remembered on election day.

Over a dozen years, so he says, he had set down names and addresses. And now the whole list — tragically without duplicate — has been filched. It is irreplaceable, moans Mr. Smith. A dastardly deed. Something that should not happen even to a Jefferson City politico.

For how is this Chesterfield of the ballot-boxes to wage a gubernatorial campaign without his address-book?

It's sad.

Senator Vandenberg's Mistake

Aside from reducing the requested appropriation to the point of uselessness, the greatest threat to the fruitfulness of the Marshall plan is Senator Vandenberg's determination to put it beyond the control of the State Department.

To give a certain coloring of authority and wisdom to his proposal, the Senator turned for help to the Brookings Institution. In compliance with his request, it now has worked out a plan for putting European aid in the hands of a new, independent agency "under a single administrator of Cabinet status to be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate."

An immediate objection might well be that no short-term official ought to be admitted to the Cabinet. And certainly we do not mean to have an administrator of European aid always with us. To create a Cabinet post for only a few years is to lower the dignity, prestige and usefulness of that body. With a few exceptions like health and education, virtually all national activities can properly be assigned to one or the other of the present secretaries.

Surely, this is true of European aid. That is something which obviously fits into the portfolio of the Secretary of State. The Marshall plan is primarily an instrument of diplomacy. To give it over to a new Cabinet official would virtually mean the creation of a second Secretary of State. As Gen. Marshall has said, such a situation would be intolerable.

It might well mean two American foreign policies with constant appeals to the President and the Congress to judge between them. How else could American relations with other governments be made more ineffective? Granted that the State Department will need expert help in the administration of the aid fund, policy control belongs to it. This is no place for divided authority.

France Pricks the Bubble

France cannot be blamed for doing something about its inflation. At prewar rates, the franc was valued at about 19 cents. The official trading figure in recent months has been 119 to $1. But this has been only official at bank windows. Anyone who really wanted dollars for their wider use in international trade would pay all the way to 340 francs to the dollar.

The result was a vast black market in Paris and lesser ones elsewhere in France in trading francs for dollars at rates much higher than the official figure. It was a fiction that even France did not care to maintain, particularly since France was losing a lot in tourist trade which has not entered into the black market as heartily as the natives. Sky-high French prices have reflected the postwar inflation.

The new export rate, announced by Finance Minister Mayer, is a little more than 214 francs to the dollar. This devaluation brings up the worth of the dollar about 80 per cent in French prices. While this will not kill the financial black market, it puts a terrific crimp in the business. With the franc selling for much more nearly its true worth, the French economy is bound to be on a sounder basis. French export will benefit and there can be little hope for a real revival in France unless it is able to sell goods abroad again. Domestically the official limitation is removed and the franc may now seek its level at home.

But if France benefits, Britain stands to lose. Britain does not wish to devalue the pound and one effect of the American financial aid to Britain has been to keep the pound up. With French prices slashed by the devaluation, foreign trade, which Britain needs to keep will go to France. That is why Britain tried to persuade France not to devalue and even sent Sir Stafford Cripps to Paris to hold the line for the pound. Since the French Government proposed an exchange of 250 francs to the dollar, the announced rate of 214 is a slight concession to London.

In these deliberations, the role of the United States was that of a neutral compromiser. The International Monetary Fund, from which France has received $125,000,000, not only opposed the devaluation but now fears a general unsettling of currencies in a competition for dollars and foreign trade.

Two conclusions are clear. Inflation makes an economy sick and sooner or later something drastic has to be done about it. Second, in so far as possible revaluations of currencies should be worked out on an international basis. The sensible plan of Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg to eliminate trade barriers and otherwise integrate their economies still is the most encouraging single thing achieved in postwar Europe.

Aid For an Eye-Racket Probe

Now that the St. Louis Ophthalmic Society, in a letter to the Post-Dispatch printed on this page today, offers to help the Better Business Bureau make an investigation into the medical kickback racket, what further question can there be whether the bureau should or should not undertake the work? The bureau's special committee created to decide whether or not to undertake the investigation, would be ignoring a clear need and turning down a first-rate offer of co-operation if they did not take on the job.

One of the first fine things which the Better Business Bureau and the Ophthalmic Society jointly can do is to inform the public of the facts that will help people to keep out of the hands of medical racketeers.

They can tell people how much eyeglasses ought to cost. They can find out and make public the names of the optical goods stores that are giving kickbacks and of the oculists and optometrists who accept them.

They can compare the prices of lenses and frames in St. Louis with the prices in cities which are known to be infested with the kickback racket, and tell the public whether it is paying in St. Louis for kickback money that is not paid to eye doctors as well as for the kickback money that is.

In short, the Better Business Bureau and the St. Louis Ophthalmic Society ought to do exactly what the bureau is continually doing in almost every other field of business—they ought to expose those who are engaged in questionable business practices, and they ought to give the public the information with which to protect itself.

Senator Flanders urges prosecution of profiteers in home construction. The most horrible punishment that could be inflicted on them would be to make it unprofitable.

More Money for Policemen

Policemen and civilians employed by the Police Board are due salary increases for the same reason that other municipal employes have just been given raises. Their compensation has failed to keep up with the cost of living and has fallen below the prevailing pay in the nearest comparable employment. Accordingly, the board is preparing a bill which, if passed by the Legislature, will raise salaries about 25 per cent in an aggregate amount of $1,250,000 a year.

Today, according to a survey cited by Board President H. Sam Priest, St. Louis policemen have the lowest pay among cities with populations over 500,000. This is in spite of a smaller increase granted them in 1946. There is a peculiarly strong obligation to correct this disparity, because the board, Gov. Donnelly and the Supreme Court of Missouri broke up the police union and denied the men the right of collective bargaining enjoyed in private industry and other municipal employment.

Critics may recall a recent Governmental Research Institute survey indicating that our police department, in comparison with other cities, seems overmanned. The board still has an obligation to seek greater economy of manpower, sparing taxpayers part of the $1,250,000 blow. That question, however, is not directly at issue in the pay increase bill. The sole issue is fair rates of pay.

However much the board may succeed in saving later, a large part of the $1,250,000 additional expense will fall on the city now. The city is already deep in red ink. It becomes all the more urgent, therefore, that the same session of the Legislature that increases police pay should also come to the city's rescue. The best way to do that is to reduce or abolish the state income tax and permit local governments to enter the field.

THE NECESSARY BALANCE

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Complaints about low-grade programs are worrying the broadcasters, says critic; good ones are sadly outnumbered by the bad; trouble is that advertisers rather than editors or showmen are in charge; popularity is misleading as listeners have no real choice.

John Crosby in the Atlantic Monthly

It has become so fashionable to condemn radio in the most sweeping terms that the broadcasters have become genuinely alarmed. Radio would like to worm its way into the high society of the arts, where it could rub elbows with literature and the theater. In pursuit of this aim, the broadcasters will spend a lot of money on, let us say, the New York Philharmonic. But these large and expensive gestures in the general direction of culture have only temporary effect. In spite of them, radio's social position remains low — lower even than the movies.

The reasons for radio's comparative lack of standing among the arts are fairly simple. Broadcasting is partly an editorial, partly an educational, and partly an entertainment medium. Yet its key executives are not showmen or editors or educators.

It was perhaps logical and possibly inevitable that shrewd, high-powered business men should have wound up on top of a fledgling and highly competitive business which had few precedents to guide it. But it is neither logical nor inevitable that their policies and outlook should remain unchanged over so many years. The idea still is to land the account and never mind what sort of program the account brings in. But broadcasters operate in the public domain; they do not own the ether; they are merely allowed to use it by the public who are its rightful owners and should be its beneficiaries.

Variety Unequaled

The broadcasters have only the most remote connection with the programs they broadcast, almost all of which are handed to them intact by the advertising agency. The advertisers not only support broadcasting, they control it.

To give the advertisers their due, American commercial broadcasting has a variety and sheer opulence found nowhere else in the world. There is virtually nothing you can't hear on the air (except profanity). We have our choice of the word's finest symphonies or Kay Kyser's College of Musical Knowledge. We can listen to the nation's deepest thinkers or to some of the world's most inane masters of ceremonies. But the poor far outnumber the good. The emcees outnumber the thinkers by about 50 to one.

This unbalance of radio programming and the increasing unchecked commercialism brought a flood of criticism down on the heads of the broadcasters last year.

This mounting chorus of criticism has put the broadcasters in a state of bewilderment. The industry has neither the precedent nor the quality of introspection necessary to clean its own house or even to determine where the place is dirty. Several broadcasters have charged that their detractors are an unholy alliance of left-wingers and advertising competitors, openly conspiring to destroy the commercial basis of broadcasting and supplant it with government-operated radio.

Blaming the People

This quaint theory has taken such root that both N.B.C. and C.B.S. are engaged in a propaganda campaign aimed at establishing the superiority of commercial over government broadcasting. Even Don Quixote's windmills could hardly have been more astonished than radio's critics at this campaign.

Apart from a few extreme left-wingers, none of them has suggested that commercial broadcasting is wrong or evil in itself. The FCC, at which much of this campaign is directed, emphatically defended commercial broadcasting in its "Blue Book."

The broadcasters claim that the public doesn't want any changes made. To a limited extent this is true. But there are some serious flaws in the system.

During the last 10 years, the criterion of pure popularity has resulted in a freezing of broadcast standards, a highly developed resistance to new ideas, a distaste amounting almost to revulsion against any form of experimentation, and a widespread and depressing imitativeness. Radio has become the most incestuous of all arts. There is hardly a successful radio program which has not provoked a dozen scrofulous little imitations, designed to look as nearly like the original as the laws of plagiarism will allow.

There is nothing wrong with catering to the public, but pandering to its worst and most easily gratified instincts is something else again. Radio does a good deal of the latter. Besides, the broadcasters' contention that the public is satisfied with radio because it listens to it is seriously open to question. A radio program attracts listeners not because it is the best program that might conceivably be on the air, but because it is the best one that actually is on the air.

What Might Be Done

One of the most enlightening statements on the responsibility of broadcasters was made not long ago by Sir William Haley, director general of the British Broadcasting Corporation. "The secret of leadership in broadcasting," he said, "is that of always being ahead of the public, yet not so far ahead as to be out of touch. A broadcast has no purpose if it is not listened to. Our task is to draw more and more listeners to all that is worth while."

Radio could bring us the world's great books, great dramas, and great minds. Instead, we get jokes about Petrillo, two-way stretch, and the letters, endlessly repeated, LS MFT, possibly the most inane combination of noises ever inflicted on a helpless public.

The broadcasters are inclined to murmur apologetically that, after all, radio is a mass medium and you can't expect the tastes of the masses to be on too high a level. One broadcaster even held up the popularity of comic books as a parallel, feeling no apparent incongruity at putting his $400,000,000 a year industry on a cultural level with comic books. The argument that radio has too large an audience to aim higher than the knees is a dubious one at best.

To give the broadcasters their due, they have a problem which neither Hollywood nor magazines nor newspapers nor anything else ever had. Broadcasting stations operate from 18 to 24 hours a day. One half-hour comedy script runs about 30 double-spaced pages, which is a fearful amount of white space to fill intelligently once a week and an intolerable amount to fill once a day.

Then There's Television

Despite any impressions to the contrary, radio has attracted some extraordinarily creative, intelligent and energetic young men who struggle valiantly against almost hopeless odds to make radio realize its potentialities.

But before much progress can be made, the broadcasters will have to loosen the grips the advertisers now hold on programs and exercise some editorial supervision over the shows they broadcast. It won't be easy.

Before the broadcasters get around to solving any of their problems, the problems themselves may be academic. Television took giant technical strides during the war. The manufacturers expect to produce 100,000 television sets this year and a million next year. After that, they will spill out like radios.

Whether television will repeat all the errors made by the sound broadcasters is a question which, from this distance, no one can possibly answer.

PEGUY AND LES CAHIERS DE LA QUINZAINE, by Daniel Halevy. (Longmans, Green and Co., New York.)

Charles Peguy was philosopher, theologian, poet, critic, publisher, editor and politician. In all of those fields, he was a rebel, an individualist who could never find a party to which he could comfortably belong. An ardent, and for a time an influential, socialist, he quarreled with the leaders and wound up as a sort of cross between anarchist and monarchist. (He coined the term "archist" for himself.)

Free-thinker in his youth, Peguy was reconverted to Catholicism; his creative work is mostly mystical vision. Yet at the time of his death he was about to be placed on the Index. He published Romain Rolland's work and other successes, yet most of his authors left him, including the present biographer. Never did more than exist.

For all that, Peguy always had a following and was always listened to, whether fearfully or superciliously. One gets the impression that most people were never sure whether he was crazy or a genius and on the whole preferred not to take a chance. Since his death in the early months of the first war, the conviction that he was a genius has grown, and Peguy, both his ideas and his works, has become increasingly influential.

Halevy has done an admirably sympathetic job of making understandable, psychologically, Peguy's development. In doing so he throws light frequently unconsciously on French history of the past half century for Peguy always intensely and narrowly patriotic is typical not so much of the French or of some of the French as of some elements in the French.

Sometimes a peculiarly sensitive individual goes through a people's history in anticipation as it were. He reacts typically to forces and trends before they are generally felt or even recognized. If Peguy was such, then his story is ominous, for Peguy was, at the end, after having passed through all of the liberal movements of his time, militarist, mystic, nationalist and anti-parliamentarian.

One Error, One Score

MOON OVER THE BACK FENCE by Esther Carlson. (Doubleday and Co., New York.)

THE QUAINT AND CURIOUS QUEST OF JOHNNY LONGFOOT, by Catherine Besterman. Illustrated by Warren Chappell. (The Bobbs, Merrill Co., New York.)

It may seem strange that a novel and a children's story should be reviewed under one head, but this is one time where this is possible because it is difficult to tell these two apart. Calling "Moon Over the Back Fence" a novel stretches this description pretty far.

It is the story of a little girl's imagined "Uncle George" and the summer she spent with him, told in light vignettes some of which achieve a rather sweet dream-like quality. There is something of the classic Mary Poppins in the story, though without its dry humor. But can these little pictures really hold the attention of even the most nostalgic adult?

"Johnnie Longfoot," on the other hand, may be read with the same pleasure as Andersen's fairy stories are read by old and young. The author, born in Warsaw and now an American citizen, had heard this folk tale as a child. Not till last summer, though, after telling this story to her son and his friends, did she finally write it down for today's children.

Johnnie, the Shoe King's son, has travels, adventures and vicissitudes, interspersed with just enough moral to get some of the old-fashioned fairy story flavor. It can compete with Puss-in-Boots and Johnnie will certainly become a popular colleague of Hansel, Gretel, Snow White and other perennial favorites. ALICE RAINE.

An American-Nazi Romance

WHERE NO BIRDS SING, by I. A. R. Wylie. (Random House, New York.)

This short novel recounts the problem of the love of Franz Thomas, American and believer in democracy, for Truni Roehde, Nazi and member of the Hitler maiden movement, and of her love for him. There is excitement in the story and a message worth hearing. The title is from Keats' "La Belle Dame Sans Merci."

WALTER LIPPMANN

Is the "Defense Union" Wise?

BOTH Mr. Baruch and Mr. Dulles have told Congress that economic revival in Europe requires a guaranty against the danger of aggression. They are agreed that a regional defense pact is the way to achieve this guaranty.

Mr. Baruch would have "the countries of Europe—as many as are willing—band themselves into a political, economic and defense union under the United Nations" and he would have "the United States, and such others as will join us . . . guarantee . . . to go to war in joint defense if any of them are attacked."

Dulles.

There are strong reasons for doubting whether this is a sound way to make certain that the masters of the Kremlin know that they must encounter the United States if they attempt military aggression. My view is that this proposed pact would not unite Western Europe but would divide it even more deeply than it is today, that it would not strengthen but would weaken the security of Western Europe.

The Proposal's Fallacy.

It is self-evident that the only countries which could join such a union would be the 16 participating in the Marshall plan. But not all of them could or would join. Switzerland would not; her Constitution prevents it. It is almost as certain that Sweden would not. Thus at the outset the co-operating nations would be divided into two groups—those within the military alliance and the neutrals outside it.

This discloses the fallacy of the proposal. Obviously Mr. Baruch does not mean that the non-joiners will not be entitled to be defended. The crux of the matter is that the guaranty is necessary whether or not they sign up.

Nobody knows how many countries would in fact be willing to sign up. But we may be sure that no country could afford to join without first obtaining from us a firm commitment, not only, as Mr. Baruch suggests, of our readiness to go to war, but also of our willingness to build up the armaments and to defend the territory of each and every one of them.

No Help to Security.

For, under this plan if, for example, Greece or Turkey were attacked, then Norway, Denmark, The Netherlands, France and Italy would automatically be at war too. They would be obligated to go to the defense of Turkey or Greece. What they will want to know is whether and how they are going to be defended while they are defending Turkey and Greece.

I think it is a reasonably safe guess that most of them would in fact refuse to sign up. Those that were willing would be bound to demand that in addition to civilian aid under the Marshall plan they be given fabulously expensive military aid under a revival of lend-lease. For this "defense union" would not increase their security; on the contrary it would increase their obligations, entangling them automatically in every conflict, denying them the chance to remain neutral, and exposing them to reprisal and occupation.

It would be far better, it seems to me, for the United States to deal directly with the Soviet Union in this matter—operating not on the principle of collective security but on that of the balance of power.

Convincing the Kremlin.

That would mean building up our own military capacity to reply to any military aggression by direct and sustained assault, and along with it a thorough explanation in Moscow, Belgrade and Warsaw that we shall permit no advance beyond the present lines held by the Soviet Army; and that we shall increase our military striking power until there are peace treaties which agree to the withdrawal of all the non-European armies from the Continent.

If the United States cannot convince the Kremlin, then to add the signatures of a dozen weak European governments to another pact will not convince the Kremlin. What advantage, then, is there in subjecting our friends in Western Europe—and the United Nations as a whole—to the cruel ordeal of having to decide formally and publicly whether they will defy the Soviet Union in order to qualify for our guaranty?

Few of them can add any material force to the guaranty. Yet the bitter internal controversies which this proposal would arouse could only divert their attention from the task of economic reconstruction and reunion in Europe.

Undermines the Marshall Plan.

It has been said in support of the proposal that it would be on the model of the inter-American agreement at Rio de Janeiro. The analogy is, I submit, quite false. The inter-American agreement embraces all the American republics, and none in signing it was, therefore, joining a military alliance with one great military power opposed to its neighbors allied with another great military power. But that is just what a Western European defense union would call for.

The real effect of injecting into Western Europe the issues which this proposal raises would be to undermine the foundations of the Marshall plan. It would submerge economic co-operation under the military alliance, and would confirm the most serious charge which the Communists, and not only the Communists, make against the Marshall plan.

Yet that plan, as Secretary Marshall has said several times and ought now to say again, is designed to draw Europe together, not to divide it, and it is quite unworkable—as any one who will study it can see for himself—if the existing division of Europe is accentuated and crystallized.

DOROTHY THOMPSON

"Loyalty," American Communist Style

SINCE I began this series the New York Herald Tribune has solicited from William Z. Foster, head of the Communist party in the United States, answers to its questions concerning the aims of the party. Mr. Foster's answers are calculated to demonstrate that the Communists are a constitutional party and do not receive orders from Moscow. The answers are utterly misleading to anyone unfamiliar with the dialectics, theses and tactics of Communism.

Communist parties do not receive orders in the sense that everything is referred to the Kremlin. That is unnecessary. Policies, strategies and tactics are agreed upon in meticulous detail; a continuous liaison between the parties is carried on through secret personal connections, correspondence, and even gleaned from public statements of Soviet leaders and press. It hardly could be a coincidence that the New York Daily Worker, the London Daily Worker and Communist newspapers of the Continent treated the wedding of Princess Elizabeth identically, publishing on that day accounts of weddings among the poor.

William Foster

Not Budging an Inch.

The "correct" attitude of Communist parties toward "bourgeois democracies," such as ours, was laid down—with some revisions of past tactics—in the Seventh International Communist World Congress in Moscow in August 1935. Hitler had come to power, banning the powerful European Communist party and jailing its leaders and members. The Communists were seeking allies, which was the easier since Hitler was not only anti-Communist, but also persecuted Jews and all anti-Nazis.

Therefore, this "popular front" congress changed its tactics without moving an inch from its fundamental revolutionary aims, which were repeatedly reaffirmed by all speakers.

It was recognized and stated that the "bourgeois democracy" offers opportunities for successful organization and agitation that Fascism does not. It is, therefore, temporarily preferable.

This was brought out by Dr. D. Z. Manuilsky, now Ukrainian delegate to the United Nations. He called for a "policy of revolutionary activity backed by the Soviet Union." A step in this activity was to seek collaboration "with such social groups as are neither supporters of the proletarian dictatorship or social revolution," in the struggle "against war and Fascism."

He expressed the conviction that "as a result of years of successful struggle (within the Communist movement) for the complete Bolshevization of all the parties, we have achieved an iron unity which enables us in the given, concrete situation, to formulate a united revolutionary party." This united party, he went on to explain, was to be formed by including Social Democrats who, in the face of Fascism, were ready to break with their former compromises with the bourgeoisie. But this collaboration was not to represent any basic Communist compromise whatsoever.

Conditions for Unity.

Five conditions were laid down for such unity:

1. "The party must be absolutely independent of bourgeois parties."
2. "All connections with the bourgeoisie must be destroyed."
3. "The necessity of the revolutionary overthrow of the rule of the bourgeoisie and the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat in the form of soviets must be accepted."
4. "There shall be no support of the bourgeoisie in the event of 'imperialist' war."
5. "The party shall be built on 'democratic centralism.'" In plain English, that means blind obedience.

Mr. Foster was a delegate to that conference and voted for all its resolutions. And these are exactly the conditions imposed on the postwar "unity" parties in Europe. These are coalitions, only in the sense that the left-wing Social Democrats have accepted Communist theses, leadership and authority.

How Mr. Foster Sees It.

Mr. Foster also accepts them, and so, if Henry Wallace continues to receive Communist support, must he.

Mr. Foster's "loyalty" to the United States consists in believing that it is to the best interests of the United States eventually to join a world union of Socialist and Soviet Republics under Russia's leadership. That does not preclude treason, if treason has any meaning whatsoever.

OPPOSITION TO PLAN TO HIKE M.A.C. DUES

Literature Explaining Proposed $40 Increase Sent to Members.

Opposition has developed to a proposal that dues of Missouri Athletic Club members be increased from $80 to $120 a year.

Literature explaining the proposed increase was sent to members late last week, and ballots on the proposition are expected to be in the mails within a week. The increase is the first in a number of years, and is necessitated, the literature prepared for the organization's board of governors explained, by increased operating and maintenance costs.

A committee of bankers which made a study of the club's financial situation recommended recently, among other things, that the dues be increased by $20 a year, the Post-Dispatch was informed. A majority of the board, however, felt that this would not be sufficient to meet increased costs, and decided to recommend a $40 increase.

The bankers' report also recommended, it was learned, that the present membership be reduced by not admitting new members to fill vacancies; that the manager of the club be permitted greater freedom in its operation; that the method of nominating candidates be changed, and that the club stop expanding.

There have been a number of capital expenditures by the club in recent years, but its financial condition was said to be excellent. It owns its own building and the land on which it is located, at Fourth street and Washington avenue. In addition, it has about $150,000 in Government securities. It owes no money.

It has about 3100 members, an increase of approximately 500 over the number formerly permitted. Some members have contended that the present facilities of the building are not sufficient to handle the larger number. Others, however, point to a substantial number of resignations during the depression, and say the present membership is not too large to insure a sound organization in less affluent times than the present.

GIRL WITH METAL 'THROAT' IN DEBUT AS RADIO SINGER

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP) — A 16-year-old girl with an "artificial throat" who once couldn't speak made her professional debut yesterday as a singer.

The girl, Jeannine McDonald of Louisville, Ky., appeared on a Mutual network program, "My Favorite Kid." She sang "Let My Song Fill Your Heart."

When she was 10 years old, scar tissue closed her throat after a tonsillectomy. She breathed for a year through a tube, and was unable to speak during a series of subsequent operations.

Then five years ago, a Memphis (Tenn.) physician inserted an "artificial throat" of vitallium metal, known medically as an oropharynk, and the girl regained both her speaking and singing voice. Last spring she won high honors in Kentucky state musical meets.

She is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Erwin McDonald of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. She will be auditioned tomorrow by the Metropolitan Opera Company.

FIRM CHALLENGES JURISDICTION, GAS HEARING PUT OFF

Counsel Granted at Least 30 Days in Which to File Briefs With State Commission.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 26—A hearing on authority of the Missouri Public Service Commission to regulate rates and service of interstate natural gas pipe lines, as to direct sales of gas to industrial users, was continued today after the commission's jurisdiction was challenged by the Mississippi River Fuel Corp.

Counsel for Mississippi River Fuel, which operates a gas pipe line from Monroe, La., to St. Louis, filed a motion to dismiss the proceeding, on the ground the commission was without jurisdiction. The commission granted counsel at least 30 days in which to file briefs, after an agreed statement of facts is prepared.

Two companion cases, involving control of such rates and service of the Cities Service Gas Co., which serves points in western Missouri, and the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co., whose line crosses the state from a point near Kansas City to a point near Louisiana, Mo., also were continued, pending disposition of the Mississippi River Fuel Corp. case.

Case a 'Guinea Pig.'

John P. Randolph, general counsel for the commission, in agreeing to the continuances, said the Mississippi River Fuel Corp. case could be used as a "guinea pig" in determining the jurisidictional question.

Intervening petitions, virtually all in opposition to the commission assuming jurisdiction of the rates and service of Mississippi River Fuel for direct industrial gas sales, have been filed by 18 large industrial concerns in and near St. Louis, and by two utility companies, the Laclede Gas Light Co. of St. Louis and the Missouri Natural Gas Co. The latter company operates in southeastern Missouri. All of these intervenors are customers of Mississippi River Fuel.

City Intervenes.

The City of St. Louis also has intervened, stating it had a special interest in any determination of the status of the Mississippi River Fuel Corp. as a public utility, subject to state regulation.

The Laclede Gas Light Co. in its intervening petition, opposed the commission move to assume jurisdiction of Mississippi River Fuel. Granting of a certificate to the pipeline as a public utility would result in two gas companies, Laclede and Mississippi River, operating in St. Louis and St. Louis county, with unnecessary duplication of facilities and expenses, without any additional or better gas service, it was said.

Intervening petitions of the industries were similar, in most instances. These intervenors contended commission control would deprive them of the right to negotiate freely for fuel, through private contracts, and would be a detriment to them.

FUGITIVE TURNKEY CAUGHT, ADMITS $700 THEFT IN JAIL

Got Job Though He Had Served Reformatory Term—Warrants Issued.

Donald M. Williams, a truck driver, was charged with burglary and larceny and grand larceny in warrants issued today by Assistant Circuit Attorney Joseph M. Settich, in connection with three burglaries here. He also is held for authorities at Hazard, Ky., where he is wanted for the alleged theft of $700 from the county jail last Sept. 1, while he was employed as a turnkey.

Williams, arrested early yesterday in a hotel at Granite City, readily admitted the thefts, police said. Although he had served a reformatory term in California, Williams said, he got a job as turnkey in the Perry county jail at Hazard. Learning that money from payment of fines was kept in a trunk in the jail, Williams said, he obtained the keys to the trunk, took the $700 and fled. He added that he lost most of the money a short time later at Kankakee, Ill., "where I was rolled when having a good time." He said he arrived in St. Louis a month ago.

GROUP TO SEEK $1,000,000 TO BUY U.S. BARGE LINES

60 Business Men Headed by New Orleans Shipper—Valley Meeting Unit Opposes Sale.

A group of 60 business men headed by Theodore Brent, president of the Mississippi Shipping Co. of New Orleans, voted here yesterday to raise $1,000,000 by March 15 as "working capital and first payment" on the purchase from the Government of the Federal Barge Lines.

The group, here to attend the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Association which opened today at Hotel Statler, was not discouraged by the action of a convention committee, the Committee on Use of Water Resources and Floods, in going on record as opposing the sale.

That committee, headed by Karl Vogel, a steel manufacturer of Omaha, Nebr., expressed the opinion the lines should not be turned over to private ownership until the pioneering stage on the various rivers in the Mississippi river basin has been completed. One of those rivers is the Missouri where barge service to Omaha and Sioux City, Ia., as well as to Kansas City, Mo., is being attempted by Federal Barge Lines.

Sale of the lines, largest in ton-miles in the inland waterways system, has been recommended by the Small Business Committee of the House of Representatives.

Brent's group, consisting of business men from cities along the Mississippi river, has adopted a plan to organize a $5,000,000 corporation to purchase the line, and preliminary discussions have already taken place with Under Secretary of Commerce Foster, Brent said.

Recognizing fears expressed by certain shippers that private operation of the line might result in abandonment of the less profitable less-than-barge-load shipments, Brent said any purchase agreement would include the obligation to maintain common carrier service comparable to that heretofore provided and adequate to handle any business offered.

While the line would be bought as a unit, the new corporation would operate the Missouri River Division under a separate bookkeeping system. Because of the pioneering character of that division, the Government would receive any net profit from the Missouri Division for the next five years, but any loss would be applied entirely to reducing annual payments by the purchasers to the Government. The value of the line has not been established.

U.S. Commission Calls for More And Better College Teachers

Report Recommends Higher Salaries and Expanded Program of Preparation—Cites Comparisons on Pay.

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—More and better teachers for colleges and universities through increased salaries and an expanded program of preparation to teach were recommended yesterday by President Truman's Commission on Higher Education.

In the fourth of its six reports looking to educational opportunity for "every American to the fullest extent of his ability," the commission dealt with "staffing higher education" and said:

"The serious problems which confront higher education today only foreshadow the even greater problems of the years ahead. Accelerating social change, increasing demands for world citizenship, pyramiding technological developments, greater emphasis upon ethical ideals—all create demand for qualities in faculty personnel now too rare on college and university campuses."

Headed by George F. Zook, former president of the University of Akron, the commission is composed of 27 other members, among them leading educators and church leaders.

The commission said that if "quantitative and qualitative" demands are to be met, immediate steps must be taken to:

1. Give better preparation to larger numbers of prospective faculty members.
2. Improve the present methods of recruiting, selection and placement of faculty personnel.
3. Develop and expand in-service education programs.

The report said that no over-all pattern can be recommended for in-service education, which it described as the continuing education of teachers themselves. It suggested that this go far beyond the ordinary faculty meetings, however, with intensive study group discussions.

4. Enhance the working conditions of all who carry the responsibility for post-high school education.

The commission said that even in the "strongest" institutions the average salary for teachers in 1946-47 was $3867 forf a nine-month period. The "average" physician would make twice that, the "average" real estate salesman in a city of 50,000 about 50 per cent more, it added.

"The professor in 1947," the report said, "taught more students, worked longer hours, shouldered graver responsibilities, and received substantially less real income than he did in 1940. Many institutions were making significant increases, but the majority of the faculty salaries had not kept pace with inflated living costs."

Average faculty salaries increased 30 per cent from 1940 to the spring of 1947, the commission said, while the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that living costs increased 57 per cent during that period.

The commission estimated that the estimated 155,000 college faculty members of 1946-47 will have to be increased to 350,000 by 1960.

"It is obvious that concerted action is necessary if 195,000 new faculty positions for colleges and universities are to be filled by 1960," it reported.

The commission recommended that:

1. The beginning salary should be sufficiently high to meet competition and to attract outstanding talent.
2. There should be early increases in salary sufficient to hold excellent teachers and research specialists.
3. The salary schedule should provide for reasonable increases based upon satisfactory performance within each category of rank.

"Most colleges and universities," the commission said, "face the prospect of being unable to meet payrolls unless they can increase their current income or unless they deplete their capital reserve. Raising the salaries of college teachers depends upon sharply increased public and private support of higher education."

HOTEL STATLER LAUNDRY FIRE ROUTS 30 WORKERS

Thirty-five employes of the laundry department at Hotel Statler fled to another section of the laundry today when fire started in one of the clothes dryers, causing heavy smoke.

A spokesman for the hotel said workmen were installing new drying equipment, known as tumblers, and that the fire probably started from an acetylene torch.

Man Beaten, Robbed of $50.

William Berlo, a machinist, of 2807 North Kingshighway, was robbed of about $50 last night by two Negroes who accosted him in the hallway of his home, he told police. Berlo, who said the Negroes knocked him down with their firsts and fled, was taken to DePaul Hospital, where he was treated for head injuries and then allowed to return home.

ONE KILLED, FOUR HURT AS STOLEN AUTO OVERTURNS

Ex-Convict Held After Illinois Accident, Admits $6000 Burglary in Texas.

One man was killed and four other persons were injured early yesterday when a stolen automobile overturned on United States Highway 50, four miles east of O'Fallon, Ill. Investigation of the accident by Illinois Highway Patrolmen, led to the arrest of a former convict, one of those injured in the accident, who admitted a $6000 jewelry store burglary in Texas and other crimes.

The man who died was Edwin Leroy Smythe, 21-year-old machine operator of 4921 St. Louis avenue. He had suffered a fractured skull in the accident and died at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis. Those injured seriously were Smythe's brother Earl, of the St. Louis avenue address, and Lee Barbarick and his wife, Oma, 4569 Washington boulevard. All suffered head injuries.

Also hurt was R. L. Wall, who lived with the Barbaricks and who admitted to police he robbed a Benjamin (Tex.) jewelry store last March and was wanted for kidnaping a motorist in a holdup at Ardmore, Okla., and for forging checks in both Oklahoma and Texas. He suffered back injuries and was treated at City Hospital in St. Louis.

Illinois patrolmen said the group in the crash started drinking in St. Louis Saturday night. About midnight they went to the Gypsy Inn, south of East St. Louis on Illinois Highway 3. They were asked to leave this place, police said, and when they left they took the automobile of Carl Roderick, 3951A West Pine boulevard, whose machine was parked in a lot beside the inn.

Barbarick was driving the stolen machine at the time of the accident, police said. He was unable to make a curve at the Baltimore & Ohio railroad overpass near O'Fallon and the car overturned.

Following the crash, Wall, who was least hurt, made his way to a farmhouse and telephoned for an ambulance. When he left the scene, police said, he took Mrs. Barbarick's purse with him. Instead of returning to the scene of the accident, he hitchhiked a ride to Belleville, where he hired a taxicab and went to East St. Louis. From there he got another taxicab and went to his home in St. Louis.

His arrest followed his attempts to get Mrs. Barbarick's purse, which he had left in the Belleville taxicab. Patrolmen got the purse from the driver and found in it Mrs. Barbarick's name. Wall was thus linked with the accident.

Constables Frank Baur and William Mason of Centreville Township questioned Wall and obtained an oral confession from him concerning the Texas robbery. Justice of the Peace W. W. Hinderberger of East St. Louis issued warrants against Wall and the others in the accident charging them with larceny of an automobile.

"I'll take half a dozen"

Aladdin's fastest lamp-rubbing never matched the swift magic of these five homely words. Quick as your pointing finger, they conjure bananas from tropical plantations, breakfast cereals from the prairies, meats from the plains, shrimp from the Gulf. Your grocer performs this daily miracle of varied plenty, not with mirrors, but with a deft assist from another local citizen—the Illinois Central. Last year the Illinois Central delivered a billion and a quarter pounds of bananas so that you and millions of other neighborhood shoppers could point a finger and say, "I'll take half a dozen!"

FRANC'S DEVALUATION LIFTS GOLD SHARES

Timid Buying Elsewhere on Idea Decline in '48 Calls for Technical Comeback.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (UP)—It was another two-way stock market today with scattered gold mines, rails and special industrials achieving some headway while many leaders remained in minus territory.

Devaluation of the French franc lifted yellow metal issues both here and in London, but the majority failed to hold top gains and numerous other pivotals were unresponsive. Mild irregularity prevailed at the close. Dealings turned sluggish after the opening.

Sales of 650,000 shares were among smallest of year and compared with 790,000 last Friday.

Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed down .1 of a point at 62.4.

The European currency situation was more confusing than actually bearish marketwise although possible eventual repercussions on American trade served as a cautionary influence. Many doubters regarding taxes, business and the outlook for further wage demands trimmed accounts. Weakness of major commodities chilled enthusiasts. Belief that the list was entitled to a technical rally because of its lengthy retreat inspired a little professional short covering and other quick-turn bidding.

In front most of the time were Homestake Mining, Dome Mines, McIntyre Porcupine, Vanadium (on a resumption of dividends), Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Illinois Central, Twentieth Century-Fox, Douglas Aircraft, American Can, U.S. Gypsum and American Telephone.

Occasional stumblers were General Motors, Chrysler, Republic Steel, Goodrich, Boeing, Consolidated Edison, North American, Gulf Oil and Mission Corp.

New 1947-48 lows were touched by Johns-Manville and Eastman Kodak.

Trend on the Curb.

Supported in the curb at times were Lake Shore Mines, Hollinger Gold, Sterling Inc. and Derby Oil. Hesitant at times were Dobeckmun, Kirby Petroleum and Creole Petroleum.

DEVALUED FRANC SELLS AT .0047⅛ IN FIRST TRADES

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—The first actual sales of francs at their new devalued rate were made in New York today to buyers who bid as high as .0047⅛ of a cent. The new rate is 214 francs to a dollar, or .0047 of a cent.

One banking spokesman said buyers were seeking several million francs, probably to pay for exports or cover commitments.

The pound sterling on a spot basis was quoted at $4.03 on the New York foreign exchange market, up ⅛ from Friday's close, but demand was lacking. Other foreign currencies were not immediately affected by the French move.

Financial circles said the French Government statement was clear, but that the effects of the devaluation program were uncertain.

Foreign exchange departments of leading New York banks said they have had no word yet from their Paris offices. They said the new official rate of 214 francs to the dollar went into effect by decree today, but no activity in the currency was expected until the entire plan was ratified by the French National Assembly.

"There is no point in buying francs until you know what you can do with them," one bank foreign trader said.

BOURSE IS CALM; U. K. BONDS SOLD, GOLD SHARES UP

Paris Market Takes Change Calmly.

PARIS, Jan. 26 (AP)—French Government bonds, gold and free currencies registered declines today although the Paris stock market took the Government's monetary measures calmly on the whole.

International stocks registered moderate gains at the opening.

French Government bonds were heavy with the 1920 five per cents dropping from 125 to 124.10 and the perpetual three per cents from 65.40 to 65.10.

The dollar and Swiss franc dropped five points to 332 and 77 francs, respectively, continuing a decline that began almost a week ago when news of the forthcoming devaluation became public. The Swiss gold Louis dropped from 37.00 francs to 34.50 while the French Louis went from 39.50 to 37.25.

Some French exporters, meanwhile, expressed caution on the effect the monetary changes would have on their business. One leather manufacturer said his trade would be helped "if our domestic prices do not double."

A champagne exporter said his business would double "if the United States, for example, does not reinforce its tariff barriers." A cognac producer said rising domestic prices would permit only small dollar reductions despite the devaluation.

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP)—Franc devaluation and the possibility of an eventual break in sterling touched off a rush for shelter on the London Stock Exchange today where a large share of the nervous money went into gold mining stocks.

British Government securities sold sharply lower, the new transport stock issued to shareholders of the nationalized railroads on Jan. 2, and Treasury 2½ per cent bonds sold at record lows. Fears that sterling could not escape damage from the French move also were reflected in markets elsewhere in the Sterling area.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—A narrowly irregular bond market today showed little reaction to international monetary developments. Among domestic corporates, favored rail obligations moved up a point or so.

World Baank 2¼s recovered to close 3-32 higher at 95 3-32.

COTTON OFF $1.35 TO $2.05

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP)—Cotton futures were reactionary in moderately active dealings today. Scattered liquidation was induced partly by the devaluation of the French franc. Most merchants saw no direct threat in the French devaluation since France was not considered a large producer of cotton goods and was believed to have little goods for export. Selling was also induced by fears that cotton distribution will fall because of the lagging export demand and the slow demand for cotton textiles.

Futures closed $1.35 to $2.05 a bale lower than the previous close.

SNOWFALL LEADS TO SHARP GRAIN BREAK

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 (AP)—Grains were marked down sharply on the Board of Trade today as the Southwestern winter wheat belt received good snows and receipts of cash corn expanded.

Hedging pressure from the Southwest was apparent in the wheat pit. Brokers said there was little support in the market other than some lifting of hedges by cash houses against sales of wheat to the Commodity Credit Corporation. They added the Government was buying only on a "scale-down" basis.

Some traders also thought devaluation of the French franc might have caused liquidation. Ordinarily, they said, such devaluation would tend to lower French buying power as it would require more francs to import wheat from this country. However, at present France is buying with dollar credits loaned by this country, they said.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

MERCHANTS EXCHANGE, Jan. 26—In the cash grain market today 25 cars of wheat were received, none sold. Corn, 181 received, 1 sold, No. 5 mixed $2.52½. Oats, 25 received. 3 sold, No. 3 white, $1.40; sample grade, $1.37; No. 2 mixed, $1.41.

Says South American—

'Everywhere, Soch Beautiful Weemen'

By Elise Morrow

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.

THE finance minister of a South American country, who looked more like a burly truck driver than a diplomat, stood at arm's length from the bar at a Washington party last week and clasped his hands together happily.

"Girls, girls, girls," he said. "Beautiful weemen — soch country. Everywhere, soch beautiful girls." He leered—diplomatically, of course. "When I first come here," he continued, "someone ask me, 'how you like our girls, you think OK?' I say OK is no good enough. Magnifico."

The minister's attitude, although more excessive than most, was characteristic. One of the most interesting pastimes in this Oshkosh-on-the-Potomac is to observe the war between the sexes, and the international complications which develop at the boy-girl level.

ALTHOUGH THERE always are bitter souls, like the young Frenchman attached to the embassy of his country who remarked dolorously that American girls don't know how to kiss, the usual foreign diplomatic reaction is as enthusiastic as the finance minister's—and it works both ways, the local girls having something of a penchant themselves for that intangible continental and other-Americas charm.

The Frenchman who complained about the quality of the local girls' attentions is a dashing and courageous man who spent five years with the Free French. He has several medals, but he should get another for his bravery in making this statement. He continued, with expansive and amiable frankness, that lots of American women drink too much, and badly, and that, while they may be educated, their idle chatter does not always show it.

He adds, however, that they are good sports, wonderfully companionable, and that they are sincere and dependable. These conclusions are an excellent essence of diplomatic opinion on the subject—and the subject is close to the surface here, where international romances are always developing, or being developed.

THE COMPLAINT about our women drinking with, to say the least, little finesse, is particularly widespread. Almost any diplomat, if prodded and somehow sheared of the primary occupational hazard—tact to the point of obsession—will make the charge.

Large, hearty Commander Kenneth Downey, who has recently departed from the British Embassy, was popular here and the last news anyone had of him was a picture of him in an illustrated British magazine, acting the part of the nasty man in Oliver Twist, was typically diplomatic. "American women browbeat their husbands," he said, "and they club together in so many organizations that they all come in time to look alike."

The European women are no slouches at snaring the local beauties in the masculine department, either, and their attitude is approximately the same, in reverse. They find that American men will treat women much more kindly and honestly than European men—if perhaps with less sophisticated mastery.

★ ★ ★

EUROPEAN and South American women, on the whole, have a more contrived femininity. They don't go in for the long-stemmed, open, hearty American girl-beauty type. On the whole, they do very well with our officials and legislators, but occasionally something backfires.

For example, the Washington party award of the year—a crown of shrimps on toothpicks with Russian dressing and stale martini olives—goes to the wife of a prominent official here who must, in the interests of delicacy, remain anonymous. This woman is small, rather plain, and full of Southern fire.

Because her husband is important, handsome, and has a beautiful fortune in cattle or oil or pigs or something, he is assailed on all sides by predatory Washington hostesses.

ONE OF THEM, an ambassador's wife, has made it a practice lately to try to get important men for cozy dinner and bridge sessions without their wives. One day the ambassador's wife called Mr. Official and invited him without his wife. He declined, but a week or so later at a reception in madame's embassy, with the party at its height, Mr. Official and his wife arrived.

Mrs. Official walked to the receiving line and as she shook madame's hand, she spoke in a loud, magnificent voice, the venom candied like a sweet potato. "Dear madame," she caroled right into the ears of 600 people, "please do be sure the next time you want to borrow my husband for the evening that you also arrange to lend me your husband."

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

ONE of India's richest maharajahs engaged a crack American engineer to construct a dam some miles above his capital. The engineer's job, completed in record time, was obviously perfect, and the delighted maharajah, besides paying the substantial fee agreed upon in advance, tried to present the engineer with a basketful of gleaming rubies as a token of his appreciation. The engineer would have none of them, however.

"I'm glad you like the job I did," he said simply, "but I can't take your rubies. We don't do things that way in America." The maharajah then offered him other priceless gifts, but the American kept refusing them. Finally the potentate said, "You simply must accept some gift from me, my friend, or it will be my turn to be offended. "Okay," agreed the engineer, "but let's make a token gift—something simple. For instance, golf clubs are rather scarce at home now. Golf is my favorite recreation. Give me a couple of good golf clubs and we'll all be happy."

The maharajah agreed to this, and the engineer returned to America, where he promptly forgot about the entire conversation. Some three months later, however, he received a cable from his friend, the maharajah.

"My agents have combed the United States," it read, "and selected three golf clubs, which I have bought for you. I am sorry to say, however, that only two of them have swimming pools."

What Am I Saying!

IN the game of love, a man can usually draw queens when he has the jack. Which brings me to the thought that the man who proposes without avail might have better luck if he wore one.

BROADWAY

By WALTER WINCHELL

Daredevils of the Press

TOPPING the list of dauntless newspaper people are the war correspondents. They risked their lives (and sometimes lost them) by going where the fighting was hottest in an effort to return with yarns that readers forgot a few moments after scanning them. . . . As one editor grimly noted: "They didn't just cover a war—they went through one."

INEZ ROBB . . . HAD CLOSE CALL.

INEZ ROBB, ace newspaper gal, flew to Texas City soon after the ammunition ship exploded and flattened the town. . . . Arriving there, Inez hailed a cab and they went to the scene. . . . A short distance away — both Inez and hackman got out and walked toward the flaming waterfront. . . . When another explosion went boom! . . . Inez and the cabby were bruised and shaken by the blast. . . . They looked around and shuddered.

Their cab was completely demolished.

WHEN A CUBAN REVOLUTION erupted, Sammy Schulman went into the streets to photograph the fighting. . . . Years later Sammy met a Cuban in a New York bar, who informed him: "I was at a window sniping during that uprising. For a long time I couldn't find anybody to shoot. Then I saw you and aimed at your head. When I saw your camera!"

★ ★ ★

INDIA McINTOSH and Ara Piastro (the latter of the Daily Mirror) were assigned to cover the explosion of an ammunition ship during the war. . . . With other New York scribes they motored by truck to the scene in New Jersey. . . . The vehicle was stopped as it approached the pier and a shore patrolman yelled: "No women allowed on this one!"

★ ★ ★

PEACE ALSO has its perilous adventures for newsmen. When Norman Alley was a hocus-focuser on a Chi gazette he accompanied the editor to a dive of gamblers. . . . As they opened the door the gamblers turned to see who was entering, and Alley got his picture.

Then both newsmen raced out to their car. . . . The enraged gamblers followed and both cars careened around corners—just like in the movies. . . . The commotion attracted the cops, who collared the gamblers. . . . Alley's picture was a vital piece of evidence which got them indicted.

Moral for gamblers: Doors Were Made to Be Locked.

★ ★ ★

NEWSPAPERMEN aren't the only heroes. Sometimes the reader is just as brave. . . . Not long ago after a syndicated writer had offended a small town publisher, his daily feature was dumped and the publisher ran an editorial saying he had fired the fellow because of this and that. To "any admirers," he yipped: "Complaints should be brief, very brief!"

To which N. L. Pinkelton, a subscriber, wrote: "To the Editor: As of today I am terminating my subscription. Is this brief enough?"

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE P-250: Today I wish to tell you how modern advertising produced a champion athlete in the Big Ten a few years ago.

The Michigan track coach, Charley Hoyt, believed in advertising, so he inserted the following ad in the school paper:

"HELP WANTED—Male; students with good throwing arms to hurl the javelin. Apply to Charles B. Hoyt, track coach, at Ferry Field."

Three years previously one of the students, Fred Martin, had aspirations to make the baseball team, but had failed in this quest. But he still believed he had a good right arm.

So his attention was caught by the advertisement for javelin throwers, and immediately he went over to see the track coach. He tried out, and that same year placed second in the Big Ten meet with a toss of over 182 feet. And later he was well over the 200 mark, which is real throwing. I speak advisedly, for this was my event in college track.

★ ★ ★

THIS CASE is a good example for many other track coaches to imitate. It shows, moreover, that men like Charley Hoyt who reach the top in their respective fields, are usually resourceful. Nor do they timidly stand around waiting for somebody else to try a good idea first. If they see its merit, they act.

Too many people in this world are like sheep. They are afraid to try anything out of the ordinary. And being afraid to try such new things, they check the habit of even thinking new ideas. So they live within a circumscribed area of what has already been done.

Advertising is actually a great aid not only to business, but to many other fields of human activity. The churches, for example, could profitably employ more constructive advertising than they are now doing.

IF THE CHURCH is purveying good merchandise, then it should launch a more aggressive promotional campaign. I do not wish to appear sacrilegious in comparing a great institution like the church to our modern business firms. But I feel that every legitimate device of modern scientific laboratories should be employed for constructive sales promotional purposes.

If approximately 67,000,000 Americans belong to no church at all, then here is a big market for religion. If the merchandise is topnotch, as I admit it is, then why isn't it being used by 48 per cent of our people? Is it because of poor advertising, poor distribution, or what? Do you know how an advertising department of a progressive firm would tackle the church problem?

Well, here's how! It would immediately institute a consumer survey, probably following the methods of our political parties. They use the "block system" in the cities, farming out a city block to a precinct worker.

THIS WORKER takes an inventory of all residents in his block, or if in the country, in his section of land. Every church member and non-member would be tabulated. The members are already considered "customers" of the church. If he finds any who aren't active customers, then an aggressive campaign would be launched to pep up their enthusiasm. If they haven't sampled his wares, then he would try to tempt them to conduct a trial test.

He'd bombard them with sales talks or printed advertising. He might use neon signs and the radio, as well as newspaper ads.

Send a self-addressed, 3-cent stamped envelope with a dime if you wish my bulletin on "How to Revitalize the Church." Every church member needs a copy. Write to me in care of the Post-Dispatch.

Young Look With Gibson Girl Accent

That's Summer Theme as Now Shown by St. Louis Fashion Creators

By Sylvia Stiles

NOW that the young silhouette with its little top and big skirt has been accepted throughout the nation, our St. Louis designers have been looking for new fields to conquer. Their latest brain-children attract attention by their use of interesting materials and unusual colors, the lines of each costume following the current mode in individual interpretations.

Summer themes of the St. Louis Fashion Creators are on parade this week, being shown to buyers in St. Louis to attend the American Retailers Association convention. A preview of a showing to be held tonight was presented to the press and trade yesterday afternoon at the Chase Club with Kathleen Aston Casey, midwest editor of Vogue and Glamour Magazines acting as commentator.

That our designers are interpreting the young look with its Gibson Girl accents and very feminine frills by means of unusual fabrics and a galaxy of striking hues was evident in this promenade. Cottons were used extensively but they were not the same cottons that we had seen previously. Ombre shadings in plaids and stripes were plentiful with deep tones of blue, green and red combined repeatedly and with metal toned chambrays looking most sophisticated. Shimmering cottons that look like silk were presented in pastel tints, fine Irish linens were there in abundance and there were many gay denims for active sportswear.

The use of a fabric depended upon the style of costume or perhaps this comment should be reversed because it seemed as if the lines of a garment were governed by the fabric. Petticoat dresses and very fragile looking sheer cottons in the ballerina length used the feminine emphasis while linens and chambrays were made into trim, shirt-waist dresses and suits. The lingerie theme which is so popular now was expressed by dainty laces, interesting embroidery and much ruffling. Low necklines, rounded shoulders and wasp waists served to repeat the fragile fashion so apparent throughout all collections this year.

Recognized for their success with double-duty dresses, our St. Louis market has a generous supply of these jacket themes for summer. The covered-up idea is most apparent with little boleros, shawls and even redingotes hiding the sun-back bodices of many dresses. The three-piece play suit in last night's show gave evidence of new tailoring in spite of its ruffled decoration. An increased number of interchangeable sports items were displayed, illustrating the growth in this phase of designing in St. Louis. There were full skirts, off-shoulder blouses, pedal pushers, slacks and many jackets that could be variously combined to creat interesting ensembles.

A SUMMER VERSION OF THE YOUNG REDINGOTE ENSEMBLE AS INTERPRETED BY ST. LOUIS DESIGNERS. THIS OUTFIT FEATURES THE LIGHT COAT WITH FLARING HEMLINE OVER A DARK DRESS.

NO ONE WOULD SUSPECT THAT THIS SOPHISTICATED TOWN SUIT WITH NAVY SKIRT AND PRINTED JACKET HIDES A SUNBACKED BODICE. IT IS ONE OF THOSE DOUBLE-DUTY COSTUMES ST. LOUIS DESIGNERS LIKE.

EVIDENCE OF PRACTICAL SUMMER THEMES IS SHOWN BY THIS PLAY DRESS THAT CAN BE WORN TO TOWN. MADE OF BALLOON CLOTH IN PASTEL COLORS, THE SKIRT CAN BE BUTTONED DEMURELY.

Few Excuses For Divorce, Says Expert

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

THERE are not many excuses for divorce.

Most of the people headed for the court come along with the same old stories. It's years since I have heard a new one. Mrs. R. has just informed me that she feels it necessary to throw out her husband because "we can't agree about the children." That's one of the commonest, and supposed to be a rather virtuous one—it shows how self-sacrificing and altruistic you are. You put the children ahead of your own feelings! Of course, you didn't consult the children about it.

If Mrs. R. were not trying to fool herself, she would recognize that the thing to do is to study child guidance, or get help at this point, instead of breaking up the marriage. But of course the children are merely an excuse.

★ ★ ★

THE LATE Dr. Ernest R. Groves, sociologist who gave much of his life to a study of the family, listed others in a book called "Conserving Marriage and the Family," which you can consult profitably at your public library. Here are seven more motives commonly brought forward:

1. "My mate is unfaithful." Is it really your own fault?

2. "He isn't the man I married." It would be remarkable if he stopped growing on the day of the wedding.

3. "We fight all the time over money matters." Talk it over with your banker.

4. "His mother is always making trouble." There is more than one way to meet such a difficulty.

5. "We are badly adjusted sexually." Consult a marriage counselor.

6. "WE QUARREL all the time about nothing!" Better find out why, instead of accepting the fact of quarreling as a sort of predestination.

7. "I'm not happy in marriage." But were you also unhappy before marriage? Have you exhausted every possibility of making the marriage yield reasonable happiness? Or is your expectation merely a child's desire to "live happily ever after" without work? Maybe you have a better chance to find happiness in marriage than out, if you are directed rightly.

If you get a divorce, Mrs. R. have a genuine reason for it—not just another of the old excuses.

ASSORTED ADVICE

AS our part in the fight against inflation we suggest that after you read this column you tear it out and paste it on the back of a new hundred dollar bill. Put the bill in the bank and then if you ever need money or information you'll know where to find it.

A favorite place for water to get into a basement is through the seam between the basement floor and wall. This can usually be fixed by cutting out the seam with a cold chisel and then packing the inside of the wedge with cement, mortar, tar or asphalt.

And a good place for cold air to leak into the basement is that little crack between the house sill and the top of the foundation or basement wall. This can be taken care of with mortar or caulking compound applied from the inside.

A piece of charcoal placed in the back of a refrigerator makes a pretty good deodorizer In case your refrigerator needs same. The charcoal will have to be replaced from time to time.

Oil paint stains on fabrics can usually be softened up by soaking in turpentine.

Don't use liquid floor waxes containing oil on asphalt or rubber floor tiles. Oil is destructive to both these materials. And if any oil or grease should be spilled on these floorings, get it off but fast.

Most thieves, a police head finds, are avid readers of true crime magazines. It saves all that circulating around and asking, "What do you hear from the mob?"

For some reason that schools of journalism would do well to look into, the big surprise is news that Gandhi is eating.

Why Consult Physician on Vitamin Use?

By C. A. Dean, M.D.

QUESTION: If vitamins can be bought without a prescription, why is it urged that people consult a physician before using them?

Answer: A physician should be consulted because it is important to ascertain whether or not a deficiency actually exists, and sometimes the treatment of these necessitate the use of not only one, but many vitamins, in addition to other medicines. It is being appreciated more and more that contrary to previous beliefs, vitamin deficiency diseases are more apt to be multiple rather than single.

In addition, vitamin deficiencies may, especially when present for a long time, lead to other body changes, such as anemia, infections, and others. If these are present, actual recovery may be greatly accelerated by treating these complications of the disease, as well as the disease itself. Certainly anyone who has a definite vitamin deficiency should have a thorough physical examination to rule out all complications.

In treating these deficiencies it is advisable to use the largest possible doses, not the minimum. Some investigators have claimed that the long continued use of certain very potent vitamins may cause bodily damage.

A Vassar freshman, very neatly constructed, was packing her grip for a trip to Palm Beach, and reported testily to her mother, "There must have been a moth in my bathing suit." "Humphh," commented the parent, "I'll bet it was too small for him!"

Life's LITTLE DRAMAS as told to BART HODGES

Senator from Idaho

* * *

I AM an outspoken Democrat. On the Senate floor, I often direct a verbal barrage across the aisle at my Republican colleagues. Sometimes I get so incensed that I continue denouncing the Republicans at home.

Sitting in the living room one evening, I recounted the day's battle for Mrs. Taylor, who devotedly listens to her husband . . . with patience and shielded amusement.

Lying on the floor, our little 4-year-old future President, Paul Jon, tried to concentrate on the funny papers. But after a while he gave up and cocked his ear in the direction of my tirade. Every now and then, on the cue "Republicans," he would emit a grunt that was laden with indignation.

At one point he jutted his jaw, slammed a little fist down into the comic page and cried, "Damn those Republicans!"

Mrs. Taylor, a strait-laced mother if ever there was one, shuddered at the language of our diminutive offspring. "Son! You mustn't ever say that naughty word," she scolded.

Paul Jon blinked innocent brown eyes and said, "What word—Republicans?"

How to Play Gin Rummy

By Oswald Jacoby

SOMETIMES the best way to attack is by defending. Thus, you hold the accompanying hand:

The upcard is the four of hearts and both you and your opponent refuse it. You now draw the three of clubs.

There are only two combinations in your hand—the pair of kings and the 9-7 of diamonds. If you are lucky enough to fill both of them, you are still nowhere near to being able to knock; and while you are filling them, your opponent will both be drawing from the stack and having a chance at your discards. Maybe your first wild discard won't hit him, but it is asking much too much to expect you can get away with four or five of them.

So, with this hand, I believe in defense. My first discard is one of the kings. If he picks it up, my best chance is to tear my hand up or get a phone call that my house is on fire. But, if he passes it, and the odds are very much in favor of his doing so, my other king becomes an even safer discard. Then, by the time I get around to the need for throwing one of my other cards, he will surely have played in such a manner as to indicate a reasonably safe play. At the same time, I am likely to form combinations with some of my cards and I am very lucky may even wind up winning the hand.

However, don't count on this last. A gin player should be an optimist but not an idiot.

A third round of wage boosts probably will come to nothing, as no way has as yet been found for one horse on the merry-go-round to overtake the other horses.

It is unwise of the scientists to say the atomic bomb can't destroy the human race, as a crack like that is a challenge to all overeducated fools.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

MY husband is hot-headed and mean and loses his temper over every little thing. He goes to extremes in everything he does. He is very heavy and has a bad heart. He expects to come and go as he pleases, and will blow in for dinner and expect it to be ready at any time between 5 and 8 p.m. If he stays home after dinner he will fall asleep 10 minutes later, and is never any companionship at all. He seems proud of our children, as long as they don't interfere with his comfort, and he does pay the bills—which is about the only obligation he seems to think a husband and father owes. If I try to talk to him and get him to change his ways he becomes loud and abusive, so I try to keep silent for the children's sake. The only time he talks to me is when he wants to cuss out someone he thinks has wronged him, and he expects me to sympathize. On the rare occasions when we are out among people he's a big show-off and know-it-all. He won't even consider a divorce, he wants to keep things just as is. What can you suggest?

A SAP.

It seems to me that these difficulties you mention could well stem from your husband's weight and the fact that he is not up to par from the standpoint of health. I believe that if you will talk matters over with your doctor he can perhaps make your husband listen to him where he will not to you. No matter what size a person is or what may be the condition of his health, if he has to live with other people he has certain obligations and cannot expect to have everything go absolutely his way all of the time. In the matter of meals, your husband owes you as the housekeeper the courtesy of letting you know when he will be home so that you can have the meal ready at a definite hour. Any cook takes sufficient pride in her art that she naturally feels distress when any meal is ruined, and there is no meal that will not suffer from standing indefinitely before being served. If after you have tried every other way to get your husband to act like a reasonable being, you have failed, a temporary separation might help matters. In your absence the lack of his usual comforts might make him realize just what he has had all these years, and you could make your return contingent upon more reasonable demands in the future.

IN ANSWER TO "E. C.": Ignore the teasing of your classmates. Your mother makes a great mistake to betray a child's confidence, no matter along what line, if she expects you to continue to want to confide in her. Speak to her about this, as she has probably simply thought what she has related was cute and amusing, never regarded it in the light of a confidence on your part. I am sure she will understand.

IN ANSWER TO "TALBOT": If you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope I'll mail you my Valentine Day and Washington's Birthday party leaflets. The combination of names you suggest for the twins sounds very nice to me, and will go well with your surname.

IN ANSWER TO "Bride-to-Be": You might inquire at some of the churches in your vicinity. Often the women's organizations do work of this kind. It is very careful work, and you can't expect it to be done too inexpensively.

Americans in Far Corners of World

Explorers at Their Annual Meeting Tell of "Men Who Can't Come Back"—Other Stories

By Frank Rasky

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.

TWO Americans were standing up to the bar in Hotel Raffles, Singapore, drinking gin and bitters. One had lived out there for years and the other, Harry Evans, a writer, was on a trip to the Far East representing "Science Illustrated." They fell into conversation.

Finally the expatriate sighed over his gin. "Ah," he said, "if I could turn around and see only Americans around me, I'd pay back all the money I've ever made."

The story was told by Evans at a meeting of the New York Explorers' Club here and is typical of yarns told by members regarding their experiences in encountering exiled Americans in far corners of the world.

W. E. Aughinbaugh, the globe-trotting lawyer and author of "Selling Latin America," calls these self-imposed expatriates the "men who can't come back," and they have crossed his path from Rio to the Khyber Pass.

He met one exile at Oran, Algeria, headquarters of the French Foreign Legion. He was a lawyer from his own home town who had killed two men and vanished. He encountered another a few years later at the Assuan Dam in Egypt — a venerable old schoolmaster in charge of a group of laborers. And the reward for that man's return to the United States ran into five figures. The most bizarre case he met was a bowed, brandy-soaked man attached to a tribe of Caribbean Indians—a gaffer with matted beard and dishevelled hair, who for years had carried water and did dirty chores for the native women and got drunk at night. That exile, it turned out, was a former American bank president who had once defaulted.

In the end, however, the exiles pay for their sins and become broken figures, living off their nostalgia.

Three hundred of the world's most distinguished ramblers gathered around a table in the Grand Ball Room of the Plaza Hotel here the other night and, after disposing of the serious business of science, exchanged such tales of the fantastic and outlandish. The joker is that the stories, though seeming to smack of fiction, can all be vouched for as unembroidered truth. For the men who are members of the New York Explorers Club are accredited archeologists, big-game hunters, journalists, paleontologists, deep-sea divers and professional rovers from every corner of the globe. It was the club's forty-fourth annual dinner.

ONE EXILE, WHO FOR YEARS CARRIED WATER AND DID DIRTY CHORES FOR INDIAN WOMEN, WAS A FORMER AMERICAN BANK OFFICIAL WHO HAD DEFAULTED.

Though they are primarily investigators dedicated to scientific research, the members are also probably the world's most skillful anecdotists. However, tale spinners of the Major Puffle breed are banned. Members include Admiral Richard Byrd, Sir Hubert Wilkins, Lowell Thomas, Peter Freuchen, William Beebe, Drs. Auguste and Jean Piccard, Mat Henson and Roy Chapman Andrews. In fact, ever since the club's founding in 1904 under the presidency of the Greely's Land discoverer, Adolphus Washington Greely, it has aimed at exposing the claims of pseudo-explorers.

Aside from exposing a hoax and carving out new territories, a member enjoys nothing so much as discussing the human sidelights of his own most recent excursion. So whenever they arrive in New York with fresh anecdotes, the explorers head for club headquarters, a richly carpeted and paneled refuge at 10 West Seventy-second street, just off Central Park, which is as unusual as its members. Its walls, a kind of suspended zoo, bear the stuffed heads of ibexes from the Transvaal and chirus from Tibet. Mastodon tusks jet out from the corners, and an elephant's foot serves as a waste basket.

THE club's protocol is as inviolate as Phi Beta Kappa. Past presidents Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson and Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, like the current president, Dr. Clyde Fisher, director of Hayden Planetarium, are in agreement that a member should be selected not by virtue of his girdling the globe, but by his contribution to man's understanding of the universe. This policy seems to have paid off, since most of the newest members are from the expanding field of science.

"Nowadays," explains one old-time member, "it's getting so that a nuclear physicist can explore the whole world by sitting in his chair."

But though the world is shrinking geographically, there are still sprawling frontiers awaiting the modern Marco Polo. Joseph Robinson, a veteran member, lists as unexplored portions of the Antarctic, parts of the Arctic Sea, Tibet, Mongolia, Tannu Tuva in Central Asia and the higher remote regions of western China. Moreover, the archeologists have yet to map out the bushland of Australia and the paleonotologists have a detective job waiting for them in South Africa.

"And just think," he asks, "of the work cut out for the research physicists who have yet to plumb the far depths of the sea and the height of the stratosphere."

When the members are not planning expeditions, a chummy atmosphere prevails at the club and most of it centers about the Long Table. This is a large oaken piece of furniture around which the explorers sit and reminisce about the last time they had stengahs in Penang and bitters in Capetown or, perhaps, went rhino shooting out of Nairobi. While listening to a tale, the members sip interminable cups of tea and chew on slices of toasted raisin bread. Dr. Franklin P. Lynch, the Congo explorer, is the dean of the Long Table and he usually presides over the toaster.

An amiable rivalry exists at the club between Arctic and tropical explorers on the question of which fraternity has witnessed the most unusual sights. The question will never be solved. A judge would have to ponder Herbert F. Schwarz's remarkable story on how once, in the Canal Zone, he captured an ant army—queen ant and all—which had the audacity to climb over the building of the Institute for Research in Tropical America. Then he would have to compare it with Richard Finnie's gruesome tale of an Eskimo at Coronation Gulf, mildly afflicted with a bronchial condition, who, on the advice of the "shaman" doctor, willed himself to die within 24 hours—and did.

The same Solomon would have to weight Colonel Sandy Macnab's saga of his safari throughout Africa and how he came up with the first photograph of a white albino giraffe. And then he would have to compare it with Dr. Riley Moore's hilarious narrative of the time when he was guest of some Alaska Indians on St. Lawrence Island, and how it was only after he swallowed, with tortuous pain, a chunk of meat that tasted like rubber heel that his hosts solemnly informed him they had experimented on the white man to see how he would react to raw whale's foot.

TOM GILL, the Orinoco explorer, tells of paddling in a cayuka up the Orinoco Delta with a 19-year-old boy named Jack—an idealistic boy ready for Oxford whose British parents in Trinidad had let him come along to help Gill look for saleable lumber. At Bolivar they came upon a palm hut on a lagoon in which lived a tough, bulking Devil's Island exconvict named Philippe Rouge, and his native concubine, "a superbly voluptuous animal of 17 at the very height of her physical flowering." Her name was Carmelita, and every night she happily endured Rouge's beating and loving. Jack fell in love with the little barbarian, and though Gill tried to reason with him, the boy insisted he wanted to marry her, and actually wooed her. So when Rouge left for a trip down river, Carmelita joined them.

Three days after the couple started living together along the river in the jungle they began quarreling. It seems that Jack treated her too devotedly—binding up her bruises, washing her hair and even doing the cooking — and Carmelita, an untutored disciple of Nietzsche—got fed up. She began pining for Rouge's strong-arm affection, and one night the two men awoke to find their cayuka gone and Carmelita gone with it — back to her ex-convict lover.

At first Jack was heartbroken, but his British parents packed him off to Oxford and, surprisingly, he recovered with cricket. Ten months later Gill was in the Bolivar area and he asked about Rouge. Yes, the natives told him, Carmelita was still with him. But no, he didn't beat her as much now. You see, they said, she has a baby—only a month old.

"I often wonder about that baby," says Tom Gill, reflectively.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

THE great fault with certain bids is that they tell the same story twice—and with no conceivable reason for the repetition. Observe the following illustration of this point!

North, dealer.

	♠KQ965432 ♥J5 ♦84 ♣J
♠J7 ♥Q62 ♦A9752 ♣A104	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠A108 ♥107 ♦QJ1063 ♣832
	♠— ♥AK9843 ♦K ♣KQ9765

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
3 spades	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

East opened the diamond queen, and North went down two tricks without having the slightest play for the contract.

At four hearts, South would have lost only one heart, one diamond and one club.

In defending his four-spade bid, North argued that from his point of view it had appeared that his own hand would be worthless as the dummy, but that it would take a great many tricks with spades as trump.

In many cases there is logic in such a contention, but in this case North did not have a leg to stand on! He and his partner were not using the "solid suit" type of opening three-bids; hence he knew that South knew that the three-spade opening had been an explicit warning that South should not expect many ready-made tricks in the North hand. When, in the direct face of this warning, South bid four hearts, he was saying in effect, "I heard your opening bid, partner, and though I know very well you did not invite me to take any action except raise the spades if I could, I nevertheless believe that we can make four hearts. Obviously, my hand must be extraordinary, because you have already told me that I can't look to you for much support in any suit except spades."

If North had read the four-heart message in this logical fashion, he would not have persisted in retelling a story that he had already told so vividly in his opening bid.

Social Problems

MANY questions have been asked about dunking. Whether there is a new tolerance for it I cannot answer. The following letter is typical: "To settle a dispute, will you please tell us if dunking is being accepted as good table manners? Is it all right to let children acquire the habit?"

Dunking—so some of my readers tell me—is an approved practice in certain sections of the country. According to etiquette, "dunking" is about the same as eating chicken in the fingers. If you must dunk, then break the bread or doughnut in half so as to dip only a narrow piece. Quite properly, a mouthful could be broken off at a time, dropped into the liquid and eaten with your spoon.

Whether one may take dry food into one's mouth and then, before swallowing this, follow it with liquid is a question of quantity. A very small piece of bread, followed by no more than a sip of liquid is quite all right. But to take a large piece and then completely fill the mouth with liquid would be revolting.

DEAR MRS. POST: Consternation struck our community a few days ago when invitations were received for the marriage of a young divorcee. We are told everything is to be the same as at her previous wedding: Ceremony at the church, reception, same design of wedding cake, same guest list—except for the new groom's list. Tell us, please, (1) is this correct according to the streamlined version of etiquette? (2) Are we who went to her first wedding expected to send a second wedding gift?

Answer: (1) Not entirely. Obviously, she may not wear a bridal veil nor carry orange blossoms. Nor should she have more than a single attendant. (2) No, not unless you want to. In other words, presents certainly are not expected from those who sent presents before.

A DISTRESSED HOSTESS WRITES: "My husband walked into the house last night with a business friend he had met unexpectedly on his way home. He introduced him to me and said, 'I've been bragging about what a fine cook you are.' He had invited this man to dinner. There wasn't a thing to eat in the house, since I had planned for us to go out to a restaurant to dine. What should I have done under the circumstances?"

Under the circumstances, there was hardly anything you could do but be frank about the situation and say that you hoped he would come another time. You, of course, should have invited him out to dinner with you.

DEAR MRS. POST: How should the invitations be worded to a family open house? This party will include my parents' and older sister's friends as well as my own younger friends.

Answer: Your parents send to everyone their double visiting card with the words "Open House" beneath their name and the date of the party below that. To your personal friends, you inclose your own card with that of your parents. Your sister incloses her card to her friends. If neither you nor she has cards, you could write your names on your parents' invitations.

We Mould Our Dimensions, Writes Elsie

By Elsie Robinson

WE get as much out of life as we're able to, and no more.

We mold our own dimensions.

Life doesn't consist of sections of land, prairie, mountain, lake and river. Life consists of states of mind. We are as large or as small as we feel.

I've known men and women who could trap a whole universe in a tuft of grass or moss. And others who saw nothing though you spread the stars before them.

★ ★ ★

WE DETERMINE our own dimensions. Even the most adverse circumstance cannot cramp our size if we decide to rise to our full height. Nor can anything darken the beauty which is our natural heritage if we have made up our minds to walk in the light of that beauty.

We spend a tremendous amount of time enving others because they seem more powerful or charming or beautiful. But the truth lies within ourselves for our own discovery.

We are what we wish to be . . . as fine or as noble . . . as brave or as true . . . as plastic or elastic.

★ ★ ★

NO MAN or woman decides his fate. But every man or woman can decide the way in which he will take that fate.

He cannot decide what will happen to him but he can decide how he will bear himself under the varying circumstances of life.

Life's a tremendous affair and it's up to us to mold it after our own pattern.

Don't cry if your life turns out to be a two-bit pattern. You and you alone have the choice of the pattern by which you live. You can amount to West side trash or imported embroidery from Austria.

"A committee of Yale alumni is to study and suggest improvements in the broad functions of that university." First, however, it might move to replevin the whiffenpoof song from sister singers.

Tips for Teens

Just What Is Personality?

By Elinor Williams

FIRST OF ALL, A GOOD PERSONALITY MEANS BEING FRIENDLY.

JUST what is this stuff called personality that makes some boys and girls so popular? It isn't a hush-hush secret, but something you can have, and it will help you to end date-night blues, giving you more fun.

First, it means being friendly. If you feel shy and awkward, remember that others are shy, too, and will welcome a smile from you. A smile doesn't cost a penny, but it makes people like you. Make up your mind that you like all the boys and girls in your classes and in the groups you meet—or at least you like some of their qualities, for everybody has likeable ones. If you don't speak to them, they'll be just as hurt as you would be if you were snubbed.

Think for a minute about the popular high schoolers you know. They seem to be happy, don't they? Yet they probably have troubles just as you do; everybody does. Let that be your cue to keep your blues to yourself. Talk about pleasant things if you want to be a pleasant person to know.

Most of us are interested in just a few subjects; that's human nature. But if you want people to like you, develop a listening ear for what they have to say. Ask a few intelligent questions to show you are really listening and interested. They'll think of you as good company and you'll learn a few new facts to add to your chatter.

A sense of humor is a big part of personality, but it has to be the right type. If you want your friends to like and trust you, don't say things that may hurt someone's feelings, even if it will bring a laugh. Practical jokes may seem funny at the time, but they can really hurt people. Making fun of your friends also causes unpopularity. Be able to laugh when the joke is on you.

Bragging and a loud voice attract attention—and make people think you're crude. You can make them notice you by being friendly, dressing neatly, being clean from your hair to your shoes and proving that you have good manners. That's the way to prove you have personality: never tell people—show them.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"To Bite Your Nose Off."

ONE of our readers asks if there is is any special meaning to this bit of current slang.

Current slang it is, but is is also almost 400 years in English speech, and this refers only to its recorded use in literature; the assumption is safe that it has been longer in the people's everyday talk.

Its earliest use in print to be found is under date of 1599, in the "Lenten Stuffe" of Nashe, as follows: "She was a shrewish, snappish bawd, that wold bite off a man's nose with an answere."

By 1709 appears a use that is now well-known, in which the word "bite" became "snap": "I . . . asked him if he was at leisure for his Chocolate . . . but he snap'd my Nose off; no, I shall be busy here these two Hours."

Another Old English phrase formed around the word bite, though it is no longer familiar at the present time, is "to bite the thumb at." In the same way as "bite his nose off," it expresses rage or anger, with the further implication of defiance, and, in some of its old contexts, it means to threaten.

Senator Soaper Says:

For the late-starting presidential hopeful, the time grows short in which to make the right connections and enemies.

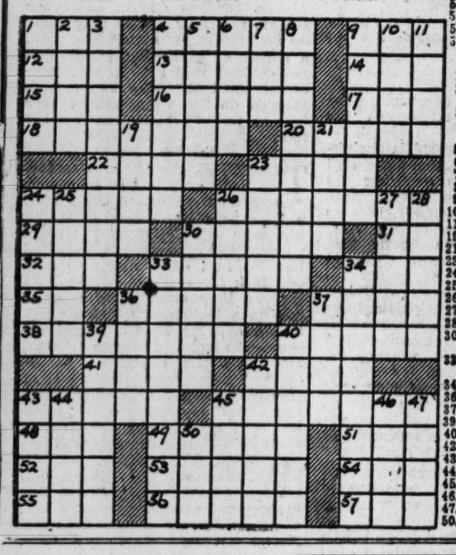
Solution of Saturday's Puzzle



Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

A SOUP is sometimes the mere beginning of a big meal—a small cup of flavorful, fragrant broth with a few flakes of parsley or other vegetables in it. At other times it may be a combination of the leftovers from the two or three preceding meals diluted with water or bouillon or reinforced with milk. This second type never becomes a standard because in flavor, appearance or food value, leftovers vary in kind and quantity.

In the hands of skillful cooks who have a good sense of seasoning and proportions, these soups, however, may turn out to be wonderful creations. A third variety is one that has been developed and revised generation after generation. It is designed to appeal to the eye and palate and to be so full of nourishment that with bread, rolls, toast or crackers and some fruit and beverage, it makes a satisfying and nutritious meal.

Minestrone.

Two leeks, one small onion, size of an egg, three slices bacon, four 10½-ounce tins consomme or four cups good-strength beef or chicken broth, one small carrot, one small turnip, size of egg, two cups water, one small branch celery, one cup coarsely chopped cabbage, one cup chopped green beans, one medium potato, one cup elbow macaroni, Parmesan cheese.

Trim leeks and slice thinly. Peel and chop onion. Cook bacon in soup kettle slowly until crisp. Remove bacon to plate and cover. Add leeks and onions to fat in kettle and cook very slowly four or five minutes or until onion is soft and yellow. Add the consomme or broth and water, then the next six vegetables, cleaned and chopped fine. Heat to boiling, then reduce heat to barely a simmer, cover and cook 20 minutes, then add macaroni and cook for 25 to 30 minutes at same temperature or until macaroni is thoroughly done. Add more salt and pepper if desired, serve in heated bowls and serve with grated Parmesan cheese at table. Four servings.

Split Pea Soup.

One cup split peas, one quart boiling water, one-inch cubé salt pork, one onion, size of a walnut, one small branch celery, one and a half teaspoons salt, few dashes pepper, one tablespoon butter, two to four ounces liver sausage.

Pick over the peas and wash well through two or three waters. Measure boiling water into soup kettle. Add the finely diced salt pork, the onion peeled and sliced thin, the sliced celery, and last the peas. Heat to boiling, reduce heat to a simmer, then cover and simmer until peas are tender. Stir every five or 10 minutes with a fork to prevent sticking. It requires from one to one and one-fourth hours to cook tender. Put soup through a food mill, or simply stir vigorously to mash up the peas. Add the salt and pepper. Have the liver sausage chilled and, while firm, cut into half-inch dice. Heat butter in skillet, add diced sausage and heat quickly, shaking the skillet to prevent sticking and cook until light brown. Turn over carefully with pancake turner to heat and brown on other side. Serve soup in heated bowls and drop sausage on top of soup. Serve immediately. Four servings.

Low Cost Menus Tuesday.

Breakfast: Orange juice, hot, buttered toast, scrambled eggs.

Luncheon: Minestrone, whole wheat bread and butter, carrot-raisin salad.

Dinner: Broiled haddock fillets, creamed cubed potatoes, glazed onions, chopped spinach salad, bread and butter, toasted almond ice cream.

A TRIBUTE to 40,000 years of Transit Experience

Friday night, January 23, at a banquet in the Gold Room, Hotel Jefferson, St. Louis Public Service Company again honored all men and women who have been with the city transit system for twenty-five years or more. The banquet hall was full because about one-third of the 4,000 members of the Public Service organization have a quarter century or more of service. In total, the experience of this group amounts to more than 40,000 years. A further look at the records shows that two out of three Public Service men and women have been with the company for ten years or more.

This vast amount of experience is an important reason why you enjoy the finest city transit service in America. Too, this splendid service record indicates that Public Service is a good place to work.

Banana Fruit Plate

One sweet red-skinned apple, unpeeled, one orange, one ripe banana, salad greens, two or three cherries. Use ripe banana, yellow peel flecked with brown.

Cut apple lengthwise into four thin wedges. Peel orange, and slice crosswise. Cut two slices into halves. Peel and slice banana. Arrange three rows of fruit on a salad plate, using banana slices for the outside row. For one end of the center row, use the apple wedges, placed so they overlap with the red skin toward the outside. For the other end, use the four half slices of orange, placed so they overlap with the curved side of each piece toward the outside. Garnish the center with crisp greens and cherries. Serve with a sweet or tart dressing. Yield: One large individual serving.

KEN STUART—By Frank Borth

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK.

THE Republicans have apparently repudiated the Baruch plan. First, they insist on supporting the Knutson tax-reduction bill. And then, ex-president Herbert Hoover comes out assailing a continuing plan for European aid, and wants to cut the aid requested by Secretary Marshall to four billion dollars for fifteen months. He wishes to bar gifts of capital goods and put into food the majority of what we send abroad. Since neither he nor the Republicans as a whole have made any suggestions as to holding down the prices of food, he is courting an increase in the cost of living and a consequent resentment on the part of the American people.

Naturally, the Republicans hope that the people would blame the Democratic adminstration for the disasters that would follow these measures—in inflation and high prices at home and in discouragement in Europe. The Congress, in which the Republicans have a majority, would then escape the blame. It would be wonderful for them if the people of the United States had as little political knowledge as the Republicans suppose, but I doubt if that will prove to be true.

* * *

TO CUT the President's budget figures so as to offset the tax cut which the Republicans propose will mean, of necessity, nothing done on the welfare measures proposed by the President. I should be very much surprised if both the intellectuals and labor and even some of the farm voters, having read Bernard M. Baruch's proposals, do not wonder why the majority in Congress insists on pursuing measures which must bring hardship both to our own people and the people of the world.

Perhaps the Republican high command thinks that Henry Wallace will take so mony votes away from the Democrats, and so little from the Republicans, that it does not matter what the Republican party does. Victory will be theirs, they assure themselves. When any political party gets this feeling, it is time for that party to beware.

* * *

THIS COLUMN is a warning to the Republicans that the voters of this country are more intelligent than they evidently think. Why should I, a Democrat, warn the Republicans, when everything they do is a help to the Democrats? I certainly should let them go on riding high if it were not that the results of their policies will bring suffering to the little people of our nation, and to the people of Europe and Asia, who suffer enough as it is.

Mr. Hoover is evidently on the side of those who wish to build up again an uncontrolled industrial Germany. The Quaker in him does not believe in war, and yet he has been close enough to history to see how two wars have been brought about by a highly industrialized Germany.

Want and privation stalk America, according to Moscow radio. No announcement as yet, however, of a Molotov plan to hold out a helping hand to the enfeebled, prostrate U.S.A.

The ex-G. I. who wrote the patent office for a list of uninvented inventions might try a hand at hooking up radar and the lost golf ball.

Dora has trouble retaining the new 1,066-page best seller. Having read it through, she is peeking at the first chapter to see how it starts.

Daily Care of Hands Essential for Beauty

PRIMARY daily care of hands is a good brushing in luke warm water with a bland soap, thorough rinsing and a creaming.

More detailed care — for the hands which do harsh jobs — includes creaming the dirt off before scrubbing them and creaming afterwards. It includes wearing gloves for many jobs indoors and outdoors. It means wearing washable cotton gloves to bed (after the hands have been massaged generously with olive oil) if your hands get chapped, bruised or sore.

Stains may be removed with powdered pumice or a laundry bleach such as borax or clorax. Also, you can buy a special skin bleach from your druggist. Keep nail cream around your cuticle to keep it ruly.

So much for care of the skin—now for care of your nails. If your hands are very active—if you do tasks which call for finger precision—you must wear your nails short. The shorter nail is more efficient and if it is kept shaped nicely—ovally—it can be pretty, too. When you manicure, cover the entire nail with polish, leave no moon or hairline. This makes the nail look longer than it is.

The minute you discover a hangnail, nip it off with nippers. The minute you discover a split nail, cut it below the split, for it will keep on splitting, or patch over it with a piece of fine linen and nail cement. A weekly manicure and a mid-week repair job is essential.

—GAS FLAME Cooking

In just 12 years, the number of American families cooking with gas has increased by more than seven million.

In 1935, there were 15,752,000 families cooking with gas. In 1947, there were 22,900,000—a gain of 7,148,000.

Right here in St. Louis and St. Louis County, more than a quarter-million families prefer this up-to-the-minute cooking method.

These impressive figures prove conclusively that more and more wise and thrifty families are choosing modern flame cooking on the modern gas range.

These figures prove that more and more people appreciate that gas flame cooking is the fast, flexible way of cooking—the cool, clean way—the reliable, economical way—the easy, natural way.
